LOCAL PRISONS AND PENITENTIARIES.

Next Monday week, June 21st, will be the longest day in the year. The "American Star" will cast its resplendent rays on the first page of next week's Freeman.

The body of little Hal Reed, drowned near Saltsburg, Indiana county, some three weeks since, was found floating on the water near the place where he fell in.

We welcome to our columns the brief but well written letter of our new local correspondent, "Velo C. Peck." We hope he will come soon again and often.

The heaviest frost of the season visited us this (Wednesday) morning, but as it disappeared before the sun reached it, little or no damage has probably resulted.

A man named Wilson, employed as a freight conductor in the railroad yard at Altoona, was run over by a train of cars and almost instantly killed on Thursday last.

Jacob Bearwater, of Elmira, N. Y., was run over and terribly mangled by a train of cars at Milesburg, Centre county, on Wednesday morning, 22nd inst. He lived only a few hours.

Mrs. Mary Amich, aged one hundred and seven years, died on Saturday, May 29th, in Monroe township, Bedford county. What mighty events have taken place during the night of this old lady.

On Monday night last week the extensive foundry of Harvey & Frederick, at Lock Haven, was almost entirely destroyed by fire, together with valuable patterns, etc. Loss over $40,000, insurance $28,000.

They had another incendiary fire in Altoona on Friday night last. The lumber yard of Mr. Moore was set on fire and about eight hundred dollars worth of lumber was destroyed before it was discovered and subdued.

Dr. D. W. Zoigler will be in Edensburg on a professional visit during next week, and may be found at his room at the Mountain House. Any work in the dental line he is fully competent to perform satisfactorily and at fair prices.

Mr. Casper McCarthy, while assisting in raising a barn in Cambria township, on Friday last, had one of his legs broken in consequence of a heavy piece of timber falling upon it. He is now doing well.

Charles Wiberly, a coal miner, had one of his legs so badly crushed between two cars in a coal mine at Penn Station, on Monday last week, that amputation had to be resorted to in order to save his life. He now bids fair to recover.

A meeting of the Republican County Committee, held at the Court House in this place on Monday last, Alex. Kennedy, Esq., of Johnstown, was chosen delegate to the Republican State Convention, and instructed to support John W. Geary for Governor.

There was a gathering of the Mace in our office on Tuesday. Two Maces brought greenbacks to the third Mac, and two other Maces, who had already done so, came along to see the ceremony. May the tribe multiply and prosper.

We are under obligations to Conductor Quartz for information relative to several items of local interest which appear this week and have heretofore appeared in our paper. Would that a few more of our friends would take such a lively interest in furnishing like information.

A report is made here this (Wednesday) morning to the effect that five or six young men, heretofore considered respectable, were arrested in Altoona on Tuesday evening on suspicion of having caused the numerous incendiary fires in that city. One of them is said to have confessed. We withhold names.

A young man named Frank Adams, eldest son of our esteemed friend, Wm. Adams, Esq., of Conemaugh station, has the misfortune to have his right hand severed from the arm on Monday last, but how the accident occurred we were unable to learn. Young Adams is an engineer on the P. R. R.

Cold and wet weather has been the rule during the past week. On Sunday night the wind rose and handsome snow showers fell. Fires have not only been a luxury but a necessity in this sweet month of roses—balmy June, so called.

JOHNSTOWN, June 7, 1869. Friend Mac.—I might just repeat what I said last week about the weather. The week was characterized by storms and heavy rains, as heavy as ever fell in these diggings.

The members of the M. E. Church have raised funds and workers are now engaged in completing the edifice. Formerly the chapel of the German Lutheran church, the audience room is nearly finished, and will be frescoed in a few weeks in magnificent style. When completed this church will cost nearly thousand dollars.

The German Catholic Church is progressing rapidly. A railroad track is laid across the old basin to the side of the church, on which rails and other material are conveyed. The German Lutheran church has heavy roofing support timbers on, and the brick work will soon be finished.

On last Saturday evening, about the time that the "curfew tolls the knell of parting day" the fire bell of our city tolled an alarm of fire, and a grand rush was made to the scene of disaster, which was on the corner of Washington and Franklin streets, opposite the third ward school house.

A young lady named Bowers and a lad named Andrew Tuskey, while on their way to this place on Thursday last, were thrown from the horses they were riding near the residence of Mr. Henry O'Hara, in Munster township, the animals having taken fright from the sudden uprising of some young cattle by the roadside, and were both considerably injured. The lad was severely injured in the head and somewhat blinded about the body, while the boy was very severely mutilated and disfigured in the face in consequence of his horse tramping upon him.

His life was for a time despaired of, but we believe he is now doing well. The young lady had a crock of apple butter and the lad had a bag of wool on his horse, when the accident happened. A well dressed stranger, apparently laboring under an attack of mania, either got off or was put off the western bound passenger train at Crescon, on Monday night last, and went to the Callan House, where he demanded liquor, but was refused, whereupon he left the house and proceeded down the road, and in the neighborhood of Lilly's Station, where he was overtaken by a freight train, and fell out to pieces, his head and one of his legs having been found a quarter of a mile distant from each other. As he remarked previous to leaving Crescon that he must go down Grant street, the presumption is that he was from Pittsburg, and a Masonic watch key upon his guard chain bore the name of J. L. Irvin.

A NOVEL SCARECROW.—The ingenious owner of a corn field near town has erected a novel scarecrow in the shape of a miniature wind mill, which beats an old tin pan and keeps up such a constant racket that the crows are afraid to approach the field in quest of grain. If there was only some additional attachment to the wind mill which would inform passers-by that the best brands of flour, the choicest sugar cured hams, the purest tea, coffee and sugars, and the most abundant assortment of canned fruits, lard, etc., are sold, and sold exceedingly low, by M. L. Oatman, High street, Edensburg, this novel contrivance would be a double benefactor of the human race. Since it don't impart this valuable information, however, we advise everybody to go to Oatman's and learn this important fact for himself or herself, as the case may be.

"The outward forms the inner man reveal. We guess the pulp beneath the peel." Certain it is that a man's dress reveals much of his habits and character. A cleanly man, however poor, will never be slovenly in his dress, and on the other hand, a careless man, however rich, will never be in a well-dressed man. It pays to dress well, and can be no doubt about that, and it is equally certain that the place to dress up at is Oak Hall, Philadelphia.

A NOVEL SCARECROW.—The ingenious owner of a corn field near town has erected a novel scarecrow in the shape of a miniature wind mill, which beats an old tin pan and keeps up such a constant racket that the crows are afraid to approach the field in quest of grain. If there was only some additional attachment to the wind mill which would inform passers-by that the best brands of flour, the choicest sugar cured hams, the purest tea, coffee and sugars, and the most abundant assortment of canned fruits, lard, etc., are sold, and sold exceedingly low, by M. L. Oatman, High street, Edensburg, this novel contrivance would be a double benefactor of the human race. Since it don't impart this valuable information, however, we advise everybody to go to Oatman's and learn this important fact for himself or herself, as the case may be.

"The outward forms the inner man reveal. We guess the pulp beneath the peel." Certain it is that a man's dress reveals much of his habits and character. A cleanly man, however poor, will never be slovenly in his dress, and on the other hand, a careless man, however rich, will never be in a well-dressed man. It pays to dress well, and can be no doubt about that, and it is equally certain that the place to dress up at is Oak Hall, Philadelphia.

JOHNSTOWN, June 7, 1869. Friend Mac.—I might just repeat what I said last week about the weather. The week was characterized by storms and heavy rains, as heavy as ever fell in these diggings.

The members of the M. E. Church have raised funds and workers are now engaged in completing the edifice. Formerly the chapel of the German Lutheran church, the audience room is nearly finished, and will be frescoed in a few weeks in magnificent style. When completed this church will cost nearly thousand dollars.

The German Catholic Church is progressing rapidly. A railroad track is laid across the old basin to the side of the church, on which rails and other material are conveyed. The German Lutheran church has heavy roofing support timbers on, and the brick work will soon be finished.

On last Saturday evening, about the time that the "curfew tolls the knell of parting day" the fire bell of our city tolled an alarm of fire, and a grand rush was made to the scene of disaster, which was on the corner of Washington and Franklin streets, opposite the third ward school house.

A young lady named Bowers and a lad named Andrew Tuskey, while on their way to this place on Thursday last, were thrown from the horses they were riding near the residence of Mr. Henry O'Hara, in Munster township, the animals having taken fright from the sudden uprising of some young cattle by the roadside, and were both considerably injured. The lad was severely injured in the head and somewhat blinded about the body, while the boy was very severely mutilated and disfigured in the face in consequence of his horse tramping upon him.

His life was for a time despaired of, but we believe he is now doing well. The young lady had a crock of apple butter and the lad had a bag of wool on his horse, when the accident happened. A well dressed stranger, apparently laboring under an attack of mania, either got off or was put off the western bound passenger train at Crescon, on Monday night last, and went to the Callan House, where he demanded liquor, but was refused, whereupon he left the house and proceeded down the road, and in the neighborhood of Lilly's Station, where he was overtaken by a freight train, and fell out to pieces, his head and one of his legs having been found a quarter of a mile distant from each other. As he remarked previous to leaving Crescon that he must go down Grant street, the presumption is that he was from Pittsburg, and a Masonic watch key upon his guard chain bore the name of J. L. Irvin.
