EBENSBURG, PA.
THURSDAY, AUG 26, 1869.
LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Persons desiring to attend school should write for the catalogue of the State Normal School, Address J. A. Cooper, Edinboro, Pa. Co.

A black snake measuring twelve feet in length is said to have been killed in Fulton county a few days ago.

The "immortal N." has informed the editor of the Alleghenian that he will "lift the lid off this place on Saturday of next week, Sept. 4th. Give him a hearing.

Two pounds of Early Rose potatoes, raised by Dr. R. Clark, of Bell's Mills, Pa. county, produced no less than two hundred and ten pounds of excellent potato.

For reasons not necessary to name we decline to publish the card of John B. Campbell in reply to Wm. J. Ryan. When we had seen the receipt last week we had declined to do so.

Mrs. Duffie, living near Bairdstown, Westmoreland county, attempted to commit suicide, not long since, by cutting her throat with a razor, but failed in the effort. She was discharged at the time.

We are pleased to say that the Alleghenian was mistaken in announcing the death of Wm. J. Ryan. He is still alive, and as hearty and sociable as ever.

In view of the fact that the radical convention did nominate a candidate for Register and Recorder against the protest of Cyrus M. Smith, who is the candidate of the friends of the "workmen's" candidate of that office, we repeat the question of the day, "How are you, Mr. McKerman?"

A man in Fulton county named Sipes, aged seven years, was run over by a wagon loaded with bark, week before last, and instantly killed.

The National Hotel in Altoona, one of the best located, best arranged, and most successful and desirable public houses in that city, is offered for sale on favorable terms. A fine opening for some man who knows how to keep a hotel.

An old man named Jacob Elsie and a son named John, were so shocked to see a man driving through the streets of Newton, Westmoreland county, on Sunday last, that the former died in a few minutes and the latter in a couple of days after the shocking occurrence.

Mrs. Caroline E. Spaulding, a lady 87 years of age and a resident of Bridgeport, Westmoreland county, committed suicide in her night, where she was visiting, on Tuesday, by hanging herself from the rafters of a clothes line.

A northern delegate to the Radical county convention held here on Tuesday, while laboring under the influence of Porter or some other intoxicating beverage, made rather a noisy display of his oratorical powers, and was unceremoniously turned out of the convention two or three times (to the no small amusement of the "honorable men in velvet") before peace was restored.

Our young friend, Capt. Morgan McDonald, is now connected with the wholesale book house of Young, Smyth, Field & Co., 102 Market street, where he will be glad, no doubt, to welcome all his old customers.

The captain will prosper more than ever in his new "posh," and that all his friends and many more will deal with him when they need goods in his line. A little son of Mr. A. A. Jacobs, of Huntington, has been in the habit, for some weeks past, of sharing his bread and butter with a large black snake which had taken its abode in the cellar of Mr. Jacobs' dwelling, and the child manifested considerable grief when forced to give up his daily ration with the reptile.

All efforts to get the snake have as yet proved unsuccessful.

A young man named Patrick Mackey was employed near Dudley, in the Broad Top region, on Saturday night last, and beaten to death with a piece of flat bar iron.

Mackey's offence consisted in working in the coal mines for wages less than was demanded by the association which the Miners' Union represents, and four members of that organization were in Huntington jail on suspicion of having caused his death.

A riot of some sort, of a serious character is said to have occurred at Lilly's Station on Tuesday last, between members of an organization known as the Miners' Union League and certain other parties, but we did not see the origin or extent of the trouble.

Some of the participants were brought here on Tuesday, charged with riot and profane swearing, and entered bail for their appearance.

Other arrests will be made. The examination of teachers for the schools for the last term will be held on Thursday next, Sept. 21, and the schools will open in the first week of the following month.

Rev. B. M. Kerr has been chosen superintendent of the schools at a salary of $1000 per session. No man in the county has more extended or varied experience as an educator, and his selection is one of the most judicious and successful ever made.

Captain R. Fierst, the old democratic war hero of Blair county, called to see us on Tuesday, and what is still better, subscribed for the Freeman and paid for it in advance—an example well worthy of imitation by some democrats nearer home.

The captain is fifty-eight years of age, but is as full of life and as strong in the democratic faith as he was a quarter of a century ago.

We hope to see the Captain throw up his hat over the election of Judge Packer and the triumph of democratic principles for many years to come.

The radicals held a county convention in the court house in this place, on Tuesday last, and went through the motions of nominating a ticket, composed of the following named gentlemen: Assembly—L. E. M. Flanagan, White township; Register and Recorder—Capt. Sam'l W. Davis, Ebensburg; Treasurer—Capt. Jas. Quinn, Johnsburg; Co. Commissioner—Hugh Gallagher, Gallitzin; P. H. Director—Hiram Fritz, Susquehanna; Auditor—Frederick Kress, Johnstown.

It will be seen that the soldiers are well represented on the ticket—much more so, probably, than would be the case if there was any hope of electing any of them.

In that event, the politicians would gobble up the sugar plums and leave the "boys in blue" out in the cold.

THE FOLLOWING LETTER, CONTAINING MUCH OF THE INTEREST TO OUR READERS, WE CLIP FROM THE PHILADELPHIA AGE OF SATURDAY LAST. IT WILL REPLY PERUSA:

CRENSON, Pa., August 20, 1869.

Up hill and down, up hill and down, the leg-weary pedestrian, or back-weary horseman, wonders what could have brought population to this section of Cambria county. Yet over seventy years ago a colony of hardy pioneers, with the whole land before them not far from here made choice of a home.

Up their hills they made their way, and by and by they succeeded. Success has proven that they chose wisely; for, now every hill top and mountain side is rewarding the farmer for his labor.

From the village of Summit, whence a good view of the land can be obtained, as far as the eye can reach, the western slope of the Alleghenies is dotted with farms.

Barren as it appears the soil produces abundant crops of corn, oats, rye, buckwheat and potatoes; and when the season is favorable, wheat yields well.

The hay crop this year was excellent; corn though late looks well. The farmers here had no had to complain of want of rain, as they have in the East.

THE HISTORY OF Cambria is not devoid of interest, and incidents of early pioneer life, as narrated by some of the old settlers— anecdotes which they received from their fathers, their grandfathers, and which they repeat to while away many a dull hour.

But no historian has yet arisen in this county and tradition alone preserves the memory of those days. In 1793, Captain Maguire built the first cabin in Cambria county, not far from the borough of Loreto.

Two years later, Father Gallitzin, a Catholic priest, led thirty a body of devoted followers from Maryland. He received a grant of land from Captain Maguire, and founded the village of Loreto.

Among those who were Catholic immigrants, large numbers coming from Adams county, and they now constitute a large proportion of the population in the northern and eastern parts of the county.

THE CATHOLICS. There are twelve or fifteen Catholic churches in the county. At Loreto, there is a large convent and female seminary, under charge of the "Sisters of St. Joseph."

[Sisters of Mercy—Ed. Freeman]; also the male college of St. Francis. At Ebensburg, Father Christy, formerly chaplain of the 78th Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, has opened a school for small boys, which is under the direction of the Sisters of St. Joseph.

This institution is especially intended for children deprived of a mother's care, and is a philanthropic enterprise, well worthy of imitation elsewhere. In honor of the pioneer priest, it is called Mount Gallitzin Seminary.

FATHER GALLITZIN. There is no little romance connected with the life of Dr. Gallitzin. He was the son and heir of a Russian Prince. Having completed his education in Europe, he set out on his travels.

Coming to this country, he became converted to the Catholic faith, and entered St. Mary's College, Baltimore. After completing his theological studies, he was ordained, being the second priest ordained in this country.

He chose the mission field and labored faithfully in Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania prior to his settlement here. While at St. Mary's College, and for a number of years afterwards, he was known as Father Schmidt, having been obliged to change his name to protect himself from being kidnapped and taken back to Russia, his father using every means to discover his whereabouts, and being bitterly opposed to his change of religion.

JOHNSTOWN, Aug. 23, 1869.

Dear Freeman—Much of our history as a people is already lost. We do not now know why this town was called Pennsylvania, or why our town was called Johnstown.

In 1681 Wm. Penn wrote to Robert Turner, that Penn is the Welsh for head, and might refer to the hilly country or head-land, as Pennanmore in Wales and Penrhin in Cumberland. Some think Pennsylvania was called for Wm. Penn, and some that it was called for his father. The facts are not clear, why it was called Pennsylvania.

Johnstown may be called after Joseph Johns, or Yons, but there is just as strong a reason to suppose that it would have been called Johnstown if the proprietor's name had been Hain. It was Shawanestown, or Shawanestown, long before Mr. Johns bought it—a tribe of Indians of that name having lived here for many years before his white men saw it.

But as there were two Shawanestowns, (one down the Ohio river, called Lower Shawanestown,) the fact is not generally known that the Shawanese Indians lived here. Mr. Editor, is not drawing a very fine sight on local, but it is as pointed as any I can find. Besides, I have a precedent for it.

The main building of the steel rail mill was finished some time since, but now the wing, which is to contain the engine and boilers, is going up. The works will not be ready for operation before next spring.

The capacity will be eighty tons per day. The building is located between the rolling mill and the iron railroad bridge over Conemaugh river.

Farmers often think that rocks are not of much use. Not so with the people here.—The Cambria Iron Company has a mill built expressly for crushing and grinding sand stones into fine sand.

Rocks as large as a half bushel are thrown into the hopper, there they sink down and are first crushed into pieces, and then ground between millstones into sand. The sand is mixed with river sand before being used.

The Forest Dramatic Association said a piece on last Saturday night, in the Union Hall, for the benefit of the Kickenepawling B. B. Club. The weather was warm, and as we were not there by invitation or volition, we do not know anything about the result.

The weather has been very dry and warm for the last two weeks and the streams of water are drying up rapidly, except wildcat, which is as good as ever.

In Philadelphia the people are alarmed about the necessary supply of water. "The man in grey," or a spirit rapper, or something else, has arrived in Johnstown. But to the point. A few nights ago, when we were sound asleep, a couple of loud raps were heard instead of work.

This was followed by a terrible rapping and shaking of the bed. We were not scared, still we felt a little queer. Presently down came the whole bed, the head board of the cottage bedstead hitting us a "whop" on the head, and we found ourselves in the attitude of Milton's angel when he was sliding down a sunbeam from heaven to earth.

We sprang up, struck a light, and took a look at the situation. We couldn't see any old spirits, gathered, large numbers coming from Adams county, and they now constitute a large proportion of the population in the northern and eastern parts of the county.

THE CATHOLICS. There are twelve or fifteen Catholic churches in the county. At Loreto, there is a large convent and female seminary, under charge of the "Sisters of St. Joseph."

[Sisters of Mercy—Ed. Freeman]; also the male college of St. Francis. At Ebensburg, Father Christy, formerly chaplain of the 78th Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, has opened a school for small boys, which is under the direction of the Sisters of St. Joseph.

In honor of the pioneer priest, it is called Mount Gallitzin Seminary.

FATHER GALLITZIN. There is no little romance connected with the life of Dr. Gallitzin. He was the son and heir of a Russian Prince. Having completed his education in Europe, he set out on his travels.

Coming to this country, he became converted to the Catholic faith, and entered St. Mary's College, Baltimore. After completing his theological studies, he was ordained, being the second priest ordained in this country.

His case in Cambria county had occurred at Whiskey Springs, about a mile out of town, on the Somerset road. Great numbers went out during the day to satisfy their natural curiosity in the matter, and the rumor proved true. A child, apparently full developed, was found in a carpet sack, at the far corner of the fence that surrounds the Whiskey Springs building, to the right of the road going out. It had been hidden by the iron fence, and its position had been reported.

The coroner, Mr. Harrold, proceeded to the place on Sunday evening, with a jury, and after a post mortem examination, a verdict was rendered in accordance with the facts. No suspicion as yet attaches to any one here, but no doubt the inhuman mother will be ferreted out and punished according to her deserts.

POLITICS. Politics is the stand still here. There is little political excitement. The Democrats are examining themselves for the grand effort just prior to the election, when with crops safely housed they will have nothing to distract their attention.

Local Correspondence.

ALTOONA, Aug. 23, 1869.

Dear Freeman—I stated in my letter last week that our school directors had selected a new teacher, and that they were recommending to the school board a man who they thought would be a good teacher.

The great boast of the advocates of our free school system is that it discards all sectarianism. This being so, the religious faith of any applicant for a school should not be taken into account in recommending him to the school directors. They should raise themselves to the dignity of judges and above the behests of prejudice.

When they advertise for teachers to be examined by the School Superintendent, those teachers should all receive the same courteous treatment and consideration. Neither should, as was done in this instance, select the teachers first and have them examined afterwards. But let me be more explicit.

Among the applicants for schools who stood the event of a thorough examination, were four young ladies of high social standing and admitted ability as teachers. After the examination was concluded our impartial, (?) high minded (?) school board, in a fit of fanaticism, decided on creating the impression that they were acting in good faith and had not already determined upon what course to pursue.

The conference ended with a motion on part of the members from the Sixth ward to the effect that "as Miss [name] possesses all the requisite qualifications for teaching, she should be permitted to have one of the schools."

Scarcely had he taken his seat when the able and immaculate member from the Third Ward, moved to the effect that "as Miss [name] is his wife, cried out, "No, no, we want none of that kind!"—referring to her religious faith.

This lady was of unblemished reputation and fully competent for the position of teacher, and nothing but religious bigotry prompted this outrageous opposition to her. Truly, from the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.—And rejected she was without a word of indignation from any member of the Board!

Even the lips of the member who made the motion in her favor were hermetically sealed on the instant, nor had the President of the Board, whose household has been taken care of, a single rule of order to enforce. The inquiry was consummated without a voice being raised in dissent, and the consequence was that the three ladies who belong to the same religious faith, were passed by in silence, and the schools were given to such applicants only as squared in their religious belief with the puritanical ideas of the majority of the Board.

It is to be hoped that the projected pike from Ebensburg to the Cherry Tree, and the one from Ebensburg to the Cherry Tree, will be successfully pushed through to an early completion. Our town will incidentally derive some benefit from this improvement, but nothing in comparison with your place. A great deal of the lumber and agricultural trade is now diverted into other channels, which would in that event pass through Ebensburg. We doubt not many of our substantial citizens would invest in the proposed improvement.

Your correspondent is perfectly astonished at a few number of young married men who are anxious to monopolize the credit, or discredit, of being the identical individual at whom his good natured remarks were aimed in your last issue.

Our strictures were indicated "with charity to all and malice towards none," and we can only hope that the persons who feel themselves aggrieved, will, if guilty, bear our remarks in mind and benefit by them.

There has been quite a demand for the Freeman in this community during a couple of weeks past, and I hope none of the readers of this will take personal offence if I devote a paragraph to it.

NEWSPAPER BORROWERS. The low price at which newspapers are published does not preclude even the poorest day laborer from subscribing, and paying in advance for his county paper. The weekly Freeman is a very fine journal, detailing as it does all the interesting local news, the incidents occurring in your town and neighborhood, will be anxiously looked for from week to week, and we know of no investment that will repay you so amply for the small outlay required to procure it.

Viewing the fact in this light does it not seem a very small piece of business in you to be running to your neighbor, as poor as you or perhaps poorer, week after week for the look of his paper, and sometimes even for the look of the part that he, or the members of his family, have not yet had time to read it.

To all such we say send two dollars for a year's subscription, at once, and you will thus be independent. If the paper is worth borrowing it is worth subscribing for.

PASSING ALONG. A few evenings ago we overheard a conversation between two youths of rather tender age, and in the course of their remarks one of them, in alluding to his father, spoke of him as the "old man." We have frequently heard young boys make use of this expression, and we always think that the precocity of such individuals is of a kind calculated to secure the contempt of the better class of children.

Always take pride in mentioning your names in a loving and respectful manner. Drop those nasty words "old man," boys. It sounds as if you were ashamed of your father.

AN INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE. We observe that Mr. Thomas McKernan, of Cambria borough, is exceedingly anxious to be elected to the office of political agent, and for that reason, no doubt, has assumed himself as an independent candidate for Register and Recorder, under the high sounding title of "the workmen's candidate."

The ambitious aspirations of Thomas and his good penmanship and orthography do not sufficiently justify him in bolting the regular nominations, and he knows full well, or if not his friends should tell him, that he stands about as much chance of election to that office as the writer of this does to be returned as Congressman from this district.

The nominations were fairly made; the south of the county held the balance of power in convention, and if the claims of Mr. McK. were not recognized, he has the satisfaction of knowing that a great many other aspirants were treated in a similar manner. Johnstown has no reason whatever to feel aggrieved, as she has furnished the Prothonotary, Treasurer and Commissioner, and at the same time elected the new Register and Recorder. House Director will be elected from that town.

The only inference we can draw from the suicidal course of Mr. McK. is that his Republican friends have induced him to announce himself, and that he has thus been made a cat's-paw to advance their interests. We hope he will reconsider the matter and withdraw.

YOUR CORRESPONDENTS. The communications of Rob Roy, T. I. M., V. C. P., et al. are so numerous, and so much that in a condensed way they furnish your readers with a weekly epitome of accidents and incidents occurring in their several localities, the whole dished up in attractive and readable style.

Velo C. Pele announces that a picnic will be held at St. Augustine, on the 21st inst., and from our knowledge of former affairs of the kind in that locality we know this one will be enjoyable. May we be there. Boz Fez.

Good Advice.

Good Advice.—On many of the fences and other appropriate places in and about our town will be found the following legend, in plain white letters: "Buy your Flour from M. L. Outman." We know from experience that the advice is a good one, and we also know that the excellent quality of the flour sold exclusively by Outman in this market has gained for him a trade of which he has just cause to be proud.

The best flour and the best groceries are sold all the time at lowest market rates by our friend Outman. Don't forget to buy from him.

POETIC.—We clip the following from the last Alleghenian: Miss Susan Sly said, with a sigh, she really didn't know why "twas the case her handsome face, ne'er brought to her a beau."

"Miss Susan Sly," a friend said, sigh, "the reason I'll unfold; your dress and shawl and bonnet, all, their style and make are old." Then Susan Sly flew to one-Fry, who keeps a fancy store—a trousseau bought—a gay "red-hot"—her beauty are now a score.

LONG AGO.—In early times a man "despotic, vestigee superb, and cum propria vestes placet," selbst geponnen—selbst gemacht; but now every body goes to L. Cohen & Brother's New York Clothing Store, Opera House, 214 Main street, Johnstown, and buys the best of ready-made clothing cheaper than it can be made at home.

Summer clothing at cost. L. Cohen & Bro. is on all the boards about town.

SOLAR HEAT.—The heat of the sun was so great on last Friday and Saturday that it nearly melted the large pane of glass in the show windows of Leopold Mayer's Dry Goods Store, Opera House, 212 Main street, Johnstown, where the rush of the people to buy goods is so great that there is no chance for ventilation for any thing but dry goods, fancy goods, bonnets, hats and notions.

WHISKEY.—Whiskey will turn a man's head. So will other things. Some men get crazy by being in a crowd. Such men shouldn't go to Murphy & Co.'s Store, Houston House, Main street, Johnstown, because there always is a crowd there, buying dry goods, fancy goods, carpets, table cloths, and notions, and singing,—"The officers they all cried out, give the goods away," etc., etc.

FOUND.—The following letter, which speaks for itself, was found lying on the counter of Leopold & Brother, Oak Hall Church Street, 241 Main street, Johnstown: Dear Sir—Please send a suit of clothes, black broadcloth, all wool, to my address, Somerset county, Pa. I am just six feet high, waist, thirty-five. Enclosed find draft for thirty dollars.

Yours, J. W. G.

JOB.—Notwithstanding the heat for the last two days, there was a foot thick, on Clinton Street, Johnstown, in a wagon, just opposite Jas. J. Murphy's ("O") Clothing Store, where either summer or winter clothing for either men or boys is carried away like apples from an orchard. J. J. Murphy keeps at No. 109—a good, lucky, odd number, and a lucky man to deal with.

EBENSBURG OCCUPIES AN ELEVATED POSITION geographically, and it is up hill business getting into it from any direction. Entering it from the east, the first store you come to is that of R. B. Davis, and you need go no further if you want to get the full worth of your money in any kind of goods that you may wish to purchase, for Rowley keeps a superb stock and sells cheap.

HOW HOT!—Since the eclipse the weather has been excessively warm, and nothing tempts our people to go out in the heat of the day except to buy goods at the cheap cash store of V. S. Barker, where the best kind of articles can always be bought at the lowest kind of prices. Great reduction in price of summer goods.

WHAT HON. THAD. STEVENS THOUGHT ABOUT MISHER'S HERB BITTERS.—Mr. William Lambert, First Assistant Engineer, U. S. N., writes to Dr. S. H. Hartman & Co., of Lancaster, Pa., the following: "At the capture of N. Orleans in 1862, while on board the Steamer 'Herald,' I was rendered ill by the use of a shell. The wound healed up, but a bad sore broke out near my ankle. Several doctors tried to benefit me, but none succeeded. It was then that Hon Thad. Stevens, Member of Congress, and on hearing the nature of my trouble, told me about MISHER'S HERB BITTERS, saying, 'It is the most wonderful combination of medicinal herbs I ever saw. I use it myself, and I know that it will cure you in a very short period. Try it, my friend, and you will have it sent to you.' The result fully justified the high opinion of Mr. Stevens regarding your Bitters, for its use was followed by a perfect cure." Sold by drug gists generally. Price $1 per bottle.

DIED. LEAVY.—At his residence in Loreto borough, this county, on Thursday, 19th inst., MICHAEL LEAVY, Esq., aged 71 years.

Mr. Leavy was born in Allegheny township in March, 1798, and has continued to reside in that township and Loreto borough ever since. He held the office of County Commissioner for one term, commencing in 1838, and in January, 1836, was commissioned a Justice of the Peace by Gov. Bitton. He held the office of Justice of the Peace to discharge without interruption up to his last illness. A remarkable trait in his character was his attachment to his own home, and it is probable that he saw less of the outside world than any man of his age in Cambria county. He was honest and upright in all his dealings with his fellow men, an exemplary Christian, a devoted husband and a model father to his children. Honor to his memory and never-ending peace to his soul.

LICENSE NOTICE.—Petitions for License have been filed in my office by the following named persons, and will be presented to Court on second week of September term: Conrad Meyer, Cambria Borough, Tavern. Peter Brown, Croyle Twp., Eating House. Mich'l Barnack, Clearfield Twp., E. House. J. M. HITE, P. O. Edinboro.

EBENSBURG, Aug. 23, 1869. 3.

JAMES GRIFPIN, Clerk. Clerk's Office, Ebensburg, Aug. 19, 1869. 3.

TIN, COPPER AND SHEET-IRON WARE.—Having purchased the tools and fixtures of Mr. T. W. Williams, and leased the building recently occupied by S. Singleton, Esq., on High street, opposite the store of Zahn & Son, the subscriber would respectfully inform the citizens of Ebensburg and parts adjacent that he is prepared to furnish all kind of TIN, COPPER and SHEET-IRON WARE of his own manufacture, which will not only guarantee perfect in make and material, but fully as moderate in price as like articles are sold by any manufacturer in the county.

Special attention paid to making and putting up SPOUTS, gutters, gutters, and other necessary work, and prices are respectfully solicited, and I have no fear but what I can give entire satisfaction to all who favor me with their custom.

VALENTINE LUTTRINGER. Ebensburg, Aug. 5, 1869. 4.

NEW LIVERY AND SALE STABLES.—The subscribers would respectfully announce that they have opened first class LIVERY AND SALE STABLES at the Sample street, one square north of the Diamond. Our horses have been selected carefully and with a view to safety, endurance, elegance and speed. Our saddles, harness, wagons, brouettes, carriages, are new and of late styles. Horses bought and sold on commission. A Register will be kept in the office, and farmers and others having stock to sell are invited free of charge, to record the same in the Register. Careful hosters always in attendance. We hope to merit a liberal share of public patronage.
