LOCAL PRUNINGS AND PENCHLINGS -Mr. George Null, of Munster township, will ffer at public sale, on the 25th inst., five cres of land, dwelling house and other proerty. See advertisement and handbills.

John Kinney, convicted of larceny at last erm of Court for appropriating the contents a pocket-book found by him, was sentenced mouths' imprisonment in the county jail. The afternoon train on the E. & C. R. R. was withdrawn on Monday last, and hence orth we will have to be satisfied with the old order of things. The afternoon train as certainly a great accommodation to our citizens, but we presume it didn't pay, and ence its withdrawal.

A smash-up of a cattle train, caused by he breaking of an axle of one of the cars, ecurred near Lewistown, on Sunday last, and the result was that some two hundred attle and sheep were killed. The express rain west was checked just in time to preent its running into the wreck.

Mr. Daniel T. Jones, a well known citizen of Cambria township, died very suddenly on Wednesday afternoon. He had been to this place attending the election on Tuesday, and t is said that he was found lying on the oad, not far from his residence, on the same vening, and conveyed to his home, where

THE BOROUGH ELECTION .- The election sed off peacably, although there was conderable excitement on one or two local es. The result was Part the contest was pretty close in both vards, although victory has once again rched upon the banners of the "hog in" hen. For the borough at large, Samuel W. FATHER LEMKE'S DOINGS .- We copy from a late issue of the Elizabeth (N. J.) Minutor the following account of the past and present labors of the venerable Father Lemke, and next week we shall give place to still further extracts from the same paper relative to the good work being performed by the Benedicmembered that this much beloved priest collected money in Northern Cambria for the purpose of building at his new home, and the article given below will show how faithfully he has performed that trust. It will also prove interesting to the numerous and earnest friends of Dr. Lemke in this county ; St. Michael's parish, of this city, is blessed with a pastor whose history illustrates in a remarkable manner the chances and changes of human life. In the wars that desolated Europe in the early part of the century, PATER HENRY LEMKE served several years with dis tinction. On leaving the army, he became a theological student, and, after disigent preparation, was admitted to the priesthood. For a season he served the church near his old home in Germany; but seeking a new field of usefulness, he finally settled in Cambria county, Pennsylvania, some thirty five years ago.

Notes of the arduous labors and wonderful success of this venerable pastor in the land of Penn, lie before me. The details of his settlement in the dense wilderness, where he finally gathered the largest congregation in Western Pennsylania, surpass in interest the glowing pages of romance. His own hands aided in subduing a forest whose history dated from a former century. He shared in all the hardships and privations of the pioneers of civilization, and strengthened faint hearts by active charities and noble words. The wilderness literally blossomed around his footsteps : while his moral worth convinced all who listened to his inculcations that he was in earnest in seeking to make his people prosperous and happy. Where, in the year of grace 1840, monarchs of the forest waved widely extended branches, a prosperous community have pleasant homes. Carrolltown is described as possessing tasteful dwellings, good hotels, thriving merchants and artisans, and is surrounded by as industrious an agricultural population as any town in the commonwealth. One familiar with the marvelous facts he attests, makes this remarkable statement: "And all this population, industry and wealth is mainly owing to the energy and zeal of one man, and that man Rev. P. H.

Testimonials in my posse-sion set forth, in well chosen words, the moral worth and amiable character of a pastor, whom the people of Carrolltown regard as a public benefactor. It is not my purpose to dwell on this interesting page of my neighbor's history. His manifold duties so fully engross his thoughts, and incidents of an eventrul life. One more instance of his efforts to do good, and I shall pass on to note his present work : Rev. Mr. LEMKE gathered the first congregation of Roman Catholic Christians in Kansas, for whom he built a church ; but while he was absent in Europe, on business, the border ruffians applied the torch, and the pleasant sanctuary shared the fate of many attractive homes. This act of lawless men was the means of Cirecting the indefatigable missionary to Elizabe h. The congregation of St. Michael were sada in need of a taithful minister. They were 'ew in number, po se-sed but little wealth, a heav, debt rested on their property, threatening his forieiture Their church was small, and describte of ornament. Desirous of being is laud; ed faithfully to promote the the testimony of in partial witnesses, that their pustor has earnestly sought to make his people intelligent citizens and devout Christians. But the crowning glory of this emment pas-to.'s life remains to be stated : Desirous of providing the means for erecting a new house of worship for his congregation, he has just deeded, for their beneat, all his estate as a free gitt! Of the value of this donation, some idea may be formed when I state that it includes a large portion of that hand some plat of ground bounded in part by Spring, Magnolia and Bond streets.

His gift is a magnificent one, for it includes all his worldly wealth! His pleasant home, his money, securities, plats of land, all his property, he has consecrated to holy uses. The humblest member of his flock is hardly as destitute of what the world calls valuable possessions, as the minister whose life has been checkered by such wondrous vicissatudes.

In this selfish age we carely hear of men whose virtues make their lives sublime. Many give of their abundance, and the world applauds. But in our midst, greatly beloved by those who enjoy his friendship, we find a Chrison Tuesday, at the Argument Court, to two tian minister devoting his last dollar to the service of the Redeemer whose excellencies he loves to proclaim. On the spacious grounds adjoining the home of the BENED CTINE SISTERS, on Magnolia St., substantial brick church, for the use of St. Michael's congregation, is to be erected at an early day: The work of grading will be commenced forthwith. The site is very pleasant, convenient of access, and the sacred edifice will soon be surrounded by the homes of a prosperous people. The plans of the proposed structure show that the basement is to be arranged for school-rooms. That the munificent denation of their pastor may incite the congregation to diligence in every good work, and that he may find his reward in the approving smiles of the Saviour whom he diligently serves, is the ardent desire of all who are familiar with the history of his JAMES S. DRARE.

CARROLLTOWN, Oct. 11, 1869. Dear Freeman-A young man named Leuman, whose parents reside in this place, met with quite a serious accident last week. He had gone to a wood in the vicinity for weight on a defective limb, which broke and precipitated him to the ground, fracturing one of his legs at the hip. Dr. Oatman adjusted the broken bone, and the boy is now doing as well as could be expected, considering the painful nature of his injuries, During the early part of last week a lad whose name I understood to be Leavy, and whose parents reside near St. Nicholas, in Blacklick township, was kicked in the abdomen by a horse, and his death resulted from the sad occurrence on the following day. There is a tendency among the most of boys to expose themselves to unnecessary danger with fractious horses, and this unfortunate accident should be a warning to them to be more careful in the future.

An enthusiastic democratic meeting was day evening last, and was addressed by F. A. Shoemaker and R. L. Johnston, Esqs., of your town. As the long agony will be over before this will be in print, I deem it unnecersary to particularize the meeting.

Your correspondent is engaged in preparing some valuable and interesting reminiscences of the early history of this neighborhood, as gleaned from the recollections of several old settlers who have resided in the vicinity for more than half a century, and will endeavor to have the first of the series ready for publication in your next issue.

I have learned that a few, at least, appreciate my "pen pictures," and express a desire that I should continue them. Well, all that was mortal of a yet young woman, whose only regret in severing the ties which bound her to earth was the thought of her little children, who would be bereft of parental care, was berne past our window, a few days ago, and a funeral cortege of afflicted relatives and sympathizing friends followed to see her remains consigned to their final resting place. The incident gave rise to thoughts which perhaps may find a response in the hearts of many of your readers, and my inclination leads me to write them out as the first chapter in FAMILIAR SCENES. Some writer has remarked that "every house contains its skeleton," and he might have added that "every home possesses an angel." Talented writers overlook the simpler home scenes, in which all are interested. and elaborate upon grand themes that only interest the few-like the munificent charities of many of our wealthy ones, who would bestow thousands where their benevolence would be widely advertised, but would turn aside with a cold sneer from the ragged and starving victim of want who solicits a few pennies for the purpose of purchasing food to keep body and soul together.

Every hearth has its domestic angel! Perhaps the bodily presence has long since mingled with its native dust, but the memory of that angel is still with you constantly, and useful, Mr. Lembe cheerfully yielded to Bishop on Bayley's request, and, during the last nine on earth forever. Need I say that angel is best interests of an important, parish. It is appearance by looking back to years long gone, when the great world was a sealed book to you, for you were then in your innocent childhood, and your world was confined to the not distant hills where the sun rose or sank to rest-at least you thought so then. The long summer days flew dreamily by, and the winter evenings gathered the family group around the old hearth stone, but there is one alone, of all that group, whose form and features are indelibly stamped upon your memory. With many it may have been but a trifling score of years ago. and though hillocks and tomb-stones intervene, that mild, placid countenance, and the gentle tones of her voice, seem as real to-day as then. But her mission has long since been fulfilled and dust has been gathered to native dust again. That picture of the past is and will be with us even until our latest breath, prominent in the foreground-represented in colors grateful and glowing to the memory-and we reverentially drop the curtin over a scene upon which the pall has long since been laid, but which the funeral of this young mother has so vividly recalled to-day. With others, the lapse of years finds a shriveled and almost spectral remnant of a once round, full form; a stooping, bent and aged figure, whence the spirit saems loth to depart from scenes which have been hallowe I and sanctified by her presence. Her holy admonitions and wise counsels have guided your youthful footsteps; you have tried to be worthy of your pure, dear mether, and hesitate at no sacrifice you could make to smooth the path of her declining years, for you knew that in a little while the grave would rob you of your greatest earthly treasure. O! you who are blessed with the living presence of a hearth angel, I hope and pray the picture is not overdrawn in your case. Cherish your mother. Let no vain regrets and useless repinings of neglect, or of the pain you may have caused her, mar your loving, prayerful thoughts of your dear mother after she has been called home to her reward, and the proudest epitaph that can be inscribed upon your tomb stone, after you have rejoined her, will be, "A loving, duti-Buz Fuz.

We hope that some of our citizens who are possessed of minds of some calibre will get up an institution of this kind worthy of the name. In looking over the Johnstown Directory we see nothing of the kind mentioned, though it contains some three thousand names and a complete directory of churches, schools, lodges, court, coun-

He says that he wished to present a more youthful appearance than is his wont, on going to see his mother, so that she would not recognize him, but instead of the improvement sought for he got both his head and face burned black. His mother would doubtless have mistaken him for an unbleached American, and would have disowned him. He says he will never dye again if he can help it. My Dear M. Pirk-I have just received two copies of the "Freeman," Nos. 32 and 33, Vol. I have not received any papers from you since July 15th, the date of my departure from Ft. Stanton. However, I will receive them regularly now, as we have a mail once a week. Your correspondent "Rob Roy," though no doubt a well meaning gentleman, is in error in his remarks concerning the supposed honor gained in my transfer to the 3d Infantry. The fact that I am retained, and not sent home on "awaiting orders," is simply a certificate that I am fit for active service. As regards the duties being "more responsible," he is likewise in error. While at Ft. Stanton we were almost constantly on the war path, scouting for Indians, and frequently enjoyed the luxury of a "free fight" with them. At this post we perform none but the usual garrison duties, very good. The Cheyennes are rather restive and may conclude to legve their reservation, which would give us another winter campaign. Enclosed find a V, which please place to my credit, and continue forwarding your paper as heretofore. Very respectfully,

Your old friend, JAMES H. GAGEBY, Capt., 3d Infantry.

TEACHERS WANTED .- Several persons or two statements recently made by our of medium qualifications are wanted to go to L. Cohen & Bro., Johnstown, No. 214 Main transfer from the 37th to the 3d Regiment street, and buy a new suit of clothes, a hat or of U. S. Infantry. We give the contents of cap, a trunk or umbrella. An overcoat would the Captain's letter in full, except the five not come amiss either, as the approaching winter is to be the hardest freezing one ever known to the oldest inhabitant. They have just received a heavy stock of superior clothing which they will sell cheap.

> THREE THEATRES - Every one who loves fun should go to the theatres, one of which is Leopold & Brother's Clothing Hall. known as Oak Hall, where there is a crowd in attendance every day, purchasing made up winter clothing, or getting measures taken for a neat outfit, to be made to order. Leopold's old tape line is nearly worn out taking | cople's measures for made-up or made to order clothing. Call and get a good fit.

JAMES J. MURPHY wishes the public to bear in mind that he keeps ma 'e-up clothing. Everything Wanted by Everybody, for men and boys, at No. '109 Clinton street, Johnstown, where he can furnish any customer with clothing, trurks, gloves, hats, undercloth ing, umbrellas, and gents' furnishing goods as Cheap for Cash or Country Produce, cheap ag the cheapest and as good as the good est. The people can know the place by the Our prospect for a trip to Northern Texas is sign of the "Star," (*) which points the way to great bargains.

> Honse, Main street, Johnstown, have been enlarging their stock of dry goods, preparatory to the fall and winter trade. Their present stock embraces everything in the dry goods line, and those who visit their store will not go away disappointed. They keep a genuine assort ment of dry goods, trimmings and notions, and take great pleasure in wa ting on customers.

BIG THING -Our merchant friend over the way, Vallie S. Barker, talks in loud type largest only, but to be the largest and the ing put on the new German Catholic church, Ward, where an abundance of fall goods, pretat R. R. Davis' cheap cash store in the East in our advertising columns this week, but he goods, dress goods, notions, etc., just opened, to talk about, as any one can see who will pay his cherp cash store a visit just now. A finer, larger or more varied stock has not been open-tion. Its advantages are surpassed by no now they are being supplied with new Geo- | dent or the name of the unfortunate man we Altoona by only 27 maj. The Republicans elected City Treasurer and eight Councilmen.

THE HOME NEWS .- Leopold Mayer, dry goods merchant, 212 Main street, Johns town, has just published No. 4 of "The Home News," and, in an edition of ten thousand, he tells people where he keeps chean goods. It sloner's Office, in Court House, Elensburg, is a valuable circular, containing about two until 12 o'clock, M., on WEDNESDAY, THE hundred definitions of textile fabrics. Mr. Mayer keeps under the Opera House, Main St ... and will be glad to see customers from the north of the county. He has an immense sto k of goods.

KEAN -In Atchison county, Kansas, on Friday, Sept. 17th, 1869, Col. John Kean,

Mr. Kean was born at Jefferson, (now Wil nore,) in this county, where he continued to reside until some fifteen or eighteen years ago. On arriving at his majority he was elected colsition he held for a number of years. Subsequently he was appointed brigade instector. He was twice elected to represent Cambria county in the State legislature, in which body he served with fidelity to the people and credit In 1857 he removed to Kansas, and an Atchison upper, in recording his death, says that his worth and integrity soon made him a conspicuous man in that county, and in 1861 he was chosen to represent the eighth district in the legislature Mr. Kean was a man of strong character. A farmer by occupation, he gloried in earning his living by honest toil. As a ne ghbor he was kind and charitable, and ever ready to as sist those who needed assistance. In politics he was always a Democrat-firm in his convictions, positive in the advocacy of what he be lieved to be right, and faithful to the great principles of the fathers of our country. BURGOON .- On Wednesday, October 4th.

EORGE BURGOON, Esq , aged about 65 years. Mr. Burgoon was elected a Justide of the Peoce for Washington township in the spring of 1860, and at the October election in the same year he was chosen one of the Commisioners of this county He discharged the du ties of both offices with strict integrity and with acknowledged fidelity to the interests of the people. He was a man of more than ordider his hands his customers are always sure nary intelligence, and was highly esteemed by
