A HEASED.

A SWIM FOR LIFE.

TIGED INFERPOSITION OF PROVIDENCE.

Among the numerous disasters to the const-fi-hing vessels in the recent great gale were the complete wrecks of two; Rockport schooners, with their crews, and but one survivor. Charles Jordan, of the schooner Helen Eliza, returned to tell the tale of his peril and escape. The rest of the twelve brave sailars were swept out of longitude 52 deg., with ninety sperm on life as their craft went to pieces near Peak's board. late five widows and seven orphans, besides mothers, sisters, or eweethcauts who will mourn the anmarried seamen. The captain became slarmed at the threatoning skies on the morning of the fatal day, and ran for Portland. The violence of the storm, however, came upon the vessel too soon ; both anchors were thrown out and the cable snapping like thread; the rudder was powerless as a feather, and in twenty minutes of ungoverned running, the vessel struck the ledge. Mr. Jordan was in the forecastle, stripping off his heavier clothes for the chance of life, when the bow was smashed in and five men near him were killed instantly. He immediately ran into the hold, when a tremendous sea knocked off the deck and he was swept into the raging waters. With a coolness hardly credible, he realized his position, and swam for the wreck, which he reached, and, clinging to the wreck, regained his breath. Soon after he was fortunate enough to catch an empty barrel, for which he abandoned the wreck. The waves ran fearfully high, and as he was borne along he passed two of his shipmates, clinging to a plank. He heard them each speak of their fearful position, and doubt whether they would be able to hold on ; and heard them interchange the promise that if either of them were saved he would tell them at home all about it It required his utmost efforts to keep the barrel in position, as the underflow was powerful, and so more perilous still was the endeavor to land upon a rocky ledge, then retreating, would engulf him in the treacherous grasp, threatening every moment to bury him beneath the water ---When he finally succeeded, then came a toilsome passage up the jagged ledge, and be reached the top completely exhausted. While resting, he heard the voice of a shipmate hailing some one He answered, telling where he was, and encouraging the other to try to get upon the ledge, but that -was the last heard of him. He soon found that the ledge did not form part of the island, but was covered at high water, and the tide was already coming in. So, after a brief respite, he again plunged into the seething waters ; another conflict with the surf followed, in which it seemed im-

The kicked goose at once cackled defiance and at once demoralized the whole team to such an extent that victory was impossible. Hart would have come in "O K," only for this "wheel goose" baulking badly and upsetting the nent's disaster, when his team made a sudden right flank movement, which left the driver foundering in the mud. The assembled multitude yelled the louder at the accidents. Righting their crafts both parties made for the shore leading their na his strength was fast failing. Words are inadequate to describe such a situation. Moments seemed like hours, and the sullen roar of the waters as they beat upon the rocks was an awful accompaniment to the borden of his fears. After his desperate efforts had cleared him from the breaker, his misfortunes were not over, for he dropped into a fresh water pond as he climbed over a wall in his progress inland, which was a supplementary calamity quite unnecessary to the poor fellow's comfort. An especially remarkable fact is, that this is the third time that Mr. Jordan has been the sole survivor of disaster. Out of a company of 80 confined in Libby prison during the war, he was the only one who lived to return home ; and out of a crew of thirty men wrecked on Cape Cod, he was the only one saved. He has certainly a fair right to consider himself the subject of providential interposition .- Springfield (Mass) Republican.

BIGHT DAYS ON A WRECK WITHOUT FOOD.

A letter received in Mattapoisett, by Mrs. Mary A. Paine, from Captain J. P. Rounsville, of the schooner Susan N. Smith of Boston, gives the following sad account of the loss of his vessel and all of his officors, boat steerers, and thirteen of his crew in a hurricane on the 28th of August last. Captain Rounseville's wife and two chilofficer, belonged in Sandwich. Captain Rounseville says :

"It began to blow fresh on Saturday night, August 27, and I made all snug for the night. At 2 o'clock next morning the gale increased, close reefed foresail and trysail, and secured hatches. About 3 o'clock lost waist and larboard boats, and heavy seas were constantly sweeping over the decks and filling them with water .--Soon found the vessel could not live by lying to, so kept her off before the wind ; but the foresail soon blew away, the wind having increased to a perfect hurricane,

"After running for about an hour the man at the wheel became alarmed, and let the vessel come to the wind, and we lost our last boat, the schooner laying deep in the water, but I did not think there was much danger, the vessel being so new and good. I told my wife not to be alarmed, but she dressed herself and I then took an axe in order to cut away for cash. the foremast, as the water had got to the
