CONTRACT AWARDED. - On Friday last the enty Commissioners announced the awardg of the contract for the erection of the county prison to Mr. William Callan. Cresson, a most competent mechanic and scendul building contractor, whose bid is $78 900. The proposed jail is to front feet on Centre street and run back 128 at, and in height it will be 36 feet to the res of the roof, and will be surmounted by formidable tower. It will contain 28 lis, kitchen, dining room, parlor, sleeping ms, bath rooms for prisoners, etc., besides eve upon the prisoners. The two sides d rear of the prison will be enclosed by a gh stone wall, which will be connected Ith the building in front. We believe the tire structure is to be of stone, but on

There were ten proposals in all received the Commissioners, varying from $67,-10 to $95,000. Mr. Callan's proposal is insidered a very reasonable one, and there no doubt he will meet the expectations of e people of the county in the construction this much needed building, which promis to be one of the finest and most substanal of the kind that has yet been erected in State.

Revs. Mitchell and Brown, of town, and has been entirely deserted for over Loretto, were also present in the sanctuary, sixty years. It is situated two or three miles and that venerable and revered priest and pioneer of Catholicity, Very Rev. Thomas Hayden, of Bedford, preached the opening the close resemblance it bears to the fulsome sermon, which was indeed one of the most notices of Western speculations, which have eloquent, yet plain and comprehensive, orations we have ever heard delivered by that highly gifted and truly eloquent expounder of the Catholic faith. At the conclusion of the sermon, which was preached after the first gospel, the worthy pastor of the congre gation appointed several gentlemen to take physiving dinner. Perhaps it will come up a collection, and their united efforts resulted in securing between $300 and $400-Monday evening last a little child of several Protestants present as well as mem-

There is no doubt that all were imbued with a commendable pride and satisfaction in beholding in our own midst one of the most substantial, as it is tles: certainly the handsomest and finest finished church edifice between Pittsburg and Philadelphia-an ornament to our town, a credit to those who contributed to its erection, and ford. Here let us say, however, that nearly all the altar and sanctuary furniture and ornaments, including the splendid carpeting, sacred vessels, candle sticks, etc., as well as the beautiful "Stations of the Cross," were obtained through the unaided and highly commendable exertions of one person, and that person a lady, and that lady Mrs. Lynn Boyd. Her generous and unselfish labors are worthy of commendation, and her example should be imitated by all, especially in the matter of paying for the fine statuary which now adorns the church-the requisite funds for which, it is hoped, will be forthcoming applied to support a minister and preceptor, ca- one by one, like the leaves of autumn. JOHNSTOWN, Nov. 15, 1869. Dear Freeman-There is a dangerous fever prevailing here, some cases of which have proved fatal. It is a severe type of scarler fever, or ship fever. Some people are alarmed about it, but their fears are groundless, as it is doubtless owing to the change of the season that it is worse now. There has been scarlet fever here all summer.

ZOUAVES. The new military company called the Zouaves turned out to their Hall on last Saturday for inspection. We never saw a company more neatly dressed. Each one looked as bright as a new piu, and the brilliant colors of their uniforms added greatly to their showy appearance. AN OLD MAN.

There lives an old gentleman, aged eighty wo years, at East Conemaugh, who is the father of thirty-two children by one wife, who is six'y four years old. Some of the children were twins, some triplets, and some quintriplets. He is yet a hearty man, sells on the trains for a living, and drinks a little old rye every day, as he has done all his lifetime, yet he is emphatically a temperance man. We suppress the name, although the statement is a fact.

CARBOLLTOWN, Nov. 15, 1869. Dear Freeman-Your correspondent has been doing the extreme north of the county, during the week past, at the tail end of surveyor's chain; and although we cannot conscientiously recommend this as a superior plan for the observation of the country, particularly at this season of the year, yet much valuable information may be gathered in regard to the extensive and almost uninhabited townships lying north of us. We were engaged for the greater part of the week in hunting up lines on the "Wallies lands" the original survey of a large number of tracts in that section. These surveys were made about the year 1792, and the owners met the usual fate of those who are so un fortunate as to acquire too much land without sufficient capital to back them. A gentleman named M'Connell, a resident of Philadelphia, became surety for the Walliss bank barn. Taken in execution and to be sold company, and when they failed he found at the suit of Hannah Lloyd, Executrix. company, and when they failed he found himself the owner of about 17,000 acres of land in Cambria and Clearfield counties. which was at that time considered of but little value. M'Connell died shortly after securing possession of this immense body of land, having never personally visited it. In the year 1824 Mrs. M'Connell, his widow, came to this county and settled about nine miles north of this place, adjacent to the little village now known as Glen Connell. Here a house was erected for her, the doors and windows of which were packed betice from Philadelphia, and in the vicinity she persuaded several families to locate-among others, Richard Proudfoot, the elder. No doubt she hoped to eventually see her lands settled and their value increased, but though inducements were offered, few cared to pen etrate the then wilderness, and shortly after the marriage of her daughter to John G. Miles Esq., now of Huntingdon, she gave up her hopeless task of peopling those wild acres and removed with her son-in law to Huntingdon, where she died. Her former residence, known as the "Old Glen Connell House," is located on the farm now owned by Mr. John Swope, but I notice this old landmark is being demolished by the present proprietor. As I intend shortly to give your readers a detailed history of the carly settlement of the country north of us I will not say anything more about my work as on the satject. Members of the Preternity to write at length upon this subject.
