

MOTHER, HOME AND HEAVEN
The words of sweet meaning
Of parent, deepest feeling,
Are Mother, Home and Heaven,
The magic name of mother
Reveals in every heart
No feelings first awakened
By that dear parent's part
And could must be the bloom,
Devoid of love the soul,
That is not moved to goodness
By a mother's mild control
With home we all remember
Some vision of the past—
A May day in the morning,
Too beautiful to last
When flowers of lowly beauty
Beguiled our youth of tears,
Concealing 'mid the roses
The thorns of ripper years
Yet, when the past is challenged,
Wherever we turn our eyes,
The word that is most eloquent
Is that dear one of home!
The Christian to the future
His earliest gaze extends,
While in the brightening distance
The bow of promise lends
His weary feet have trodden
The dewy paths below
But now the glorious heaven
With light is all aglow—
His cares are nearly over,
His troubles soon will cease
For smiles of resignation
Assure us of his peace
Of these few words of beauty
I know not which is best—
They speak of love and happiness,
And one of future rest
I feel that heaven is dearest,
And yet I cannot tell
For mother fills the heart with love,
And home has charms as well,
Then let the three united be,
Nor shall the tie be broken;
For words of thrilling melody
Are, Mother, Home, and Heaven.

A STRANGE INCIDENT AT A FUNERAL
—On last Saturday, in a little country church, near this city, as a humble village parson was preaching the funeral sermon of an old man, two young men passed the door of the church; one, a youth of twenty-five, proposed to go in and "see whom they are about to plant," (to use his own words). They entered, and as they did so, the little congregation were about to take a last look at the still, pale face of the deceased, the youths joined the melancholy procession. They paused a moment at the altar, when the one who had proposed to enter the church and "see whom they were about to plant," bent down over the coffin and gave signs of the most poignant grief. He wept bitterly, and refused to leave the coffin. Some one suggested to him to pass on, when he said: "This is my father—how can he be here?"

The sequel was soon told. At the beginning of the war the youth had enlisted in an Indiana regiment, and had remained in the service till the last battle. He had been mustered out, had taken employment in Maryland, and remained in that State until a few days since, when he started home to see his aged parent. En route he had stopped in the village to visit a comrade who had gone through the war with him. The two, in taking a walk, passed the church in which the funeral service of John Slayton was proceeding, and by some strange influence young Slayton had been led to enter the church, when the sight of the lifeless form gave him the first intimation that he was fatherless. The elder Slayton had moved to Ohio during the last few years of his son's absence, and had, after a lingering illness, died.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

ON DEATH—Heavens! what a moment that must be when the last flutter expires on our lips! What a change! Tell me, ye who are deepest read in nature and in God, to what new world are we borne? Whither has that spark, that unquenched intelligence fled? Look upon the cold, livid, ghastly corpse that lies before you! That was but a shell, gross and earthly covering, which held for a while the immortal essence that has now left it—left it to range, perhaps, through limitless space; to receive new capacities of delight, new powers of perception, new glories of beauty! Ten thousand furies rush upon the mind as it contemplates the awful moment big with imagination's greater hopes and fears; it is the consummation that clears up all mystery—resolves all doubts—which removes contradiction and destroys error. Great God! what a flood of rapture may at once burst upon the departed soul! The unclouded brightness of the celestial regions—the pure existence of eternal being—the solemn secret of nature may then be divulged, the immediate unity of the past, the present and the future; strains of unimaginable harmony, forms of imperishable beauty, may then suddenly disclose themselves, bursting upon the delighted senses and bathing them in measureless bliss!—The mind is lost in this excess of wondrous light, and dares not turn from the heavenly visions to one so gloomy, so tremendous as the department of the wicked! Human fancy shrinks back appalled!

A NOVEL GAMBLING EXPLOIT.—The following queer story, which shows the passion of the inveterate gambler, is told as the recent exploit of a knight of the "green cloth" in this city, by an eyewitness. A young gentleman of this city, some eighteen months ago, inherited a handsome property, all of which he has squandered at the gaming table. One evening last week his last dollar disappeared, in addition to which he staked his coat, hat and pantaloons—all of which he has lost. As his going home in a state bordering upon nudity might involve his arrest by the night police, a servant of the gambling house loaned him an empty barrel, the head of which he knocked out, and donning it after the fashion of an overcoat, he trotted home unmolested. It is said that the severe lesson has induced him to forewear gambling, and that his friends will endeavor to repair his fallen fortunes.—Cincinnati Paper.

A QUEER WEDDING.—Rev. D., a Methodist minister, stopped at Meadville some years ago, one evening received a note stating that a couple living in the suburbs of the city desired to be united in the bonds of matrimony, and required his services at nine o'clock next morning. At the proper time he went to the house designated and entered. He inquired of a young lady who was busy washing dishes, if there was a couple there wishing to be married. "I am the lady," said she, blushing, "John will be in a moment." The minister was surprised to see no preparations, and stepped to the door to view the surroundings. Two men were hard at work grinding peaches in the yard, and another, who proved to be "John," was tending a cow and calf in the barn, yard leading a cow and calf in the barn, yard. The young lady came to the door pretty soon, and shouted, "John, John, hurry up, the preacher's here!" John hesitated the fence and rushed to the house; the girl wiped her hands on her apron, and, after joining hands, said they were ready. The minister proceeded, and had just got through questioning the young man when the old lady rushed into the room, shouting, "John, John, you didn't turn the cow away from the calf!" John led her to his sweetheart's hand instantly, and rushed to the barnyard, put the old cow through the bars, and then returned to the house, again took his position, when the balance of the ceremony was gone through with. The minister went on his way, John went to the hayfield, and the lady resumed her dish-washing.—Forest Republican.

AN EMIGRATION INCIDENT.—An extraordinary emigration party was made up a little while ago in the county of Mayo, Ireland. Three children, aged respectively, eleven, six and four, agreed to start from their native village and make their way to Chicago. Their father had sent them a ticket to take them from Liverpool to New York, and armed with that and the sum of ten shillings, they set out on their travels. The poor children, we are told, had not even a wrapper to protect them "from the cold rain and storms of the Atlantic in the late months of autumn." They had nothing on but cotton frucks and "skimpy summer shawls." But they had plenty of courage and the hope of re-joining their father carried them on in hope and confidence. Fortunately for them, a gentleman met them and assisted them on their way to Liverpool, from whence they took ship in safety for New York. It would be hard if those children were not taken good care of by the father whom they had traveled so far to meet again.

POWER OF MUSIC.—The effect of music on the senses was oddly and wonderfully verified during the mourning for the Duke of Cumberland, uncle of George the Third. A tailor had an order for a great number of black suits, which were to be finished in a very short space of time. Among his workmen was a fellow who was always singing "Rule Britannia," and the rest of the journeymen joined in the chorus. The tailor made his observations, and found that the slow time of the tune retarded the work; in consequence, he engaged a blind fiddler, and, placing him near the workshop, made him play constantly the lively tune of "Nancy Dawson." The design had the desired effect; the tailor's elbows moved obedient to the melody, and the clothes were sent home within the prescribed period.

L. LANGSTROTH'S PATENT MOVABLE COMB BEE HIVE!
PROMOVED THE BEST EVER YET introduced in this County or State. Any person having a family right can have their bees transferred from an old box to a new one. In every instance in which this has been done the result has been entirely satisfactory, and the first take of honey has invariably paid all expenses, and frequently exceeded them. Proof of the superior merits of this invention will be found in the testimony of every man who has given it a trial, and among the number are the gentlemen named below, and their experience should induce every one interested in Bees to "BUY A FAMILY RIGHT!"
Henry C. Kirkpatrick, of Carroll township, took 150 pounds of surplus honey from two hives, which he sold at 25 cents per pound.
Adam Detrich, of Carroll township, took from two hives 100 pounds of surplus honey.
James Kirkpatrick, of Chest township, took 60 pounds of surplus honey from two hives.
Jacob Kirkpatrick, of Chest township, obtained 70 pounds of surplus honey from one hive, worth not less than $21, and the right cost him only $5.
Peter Campbell from one hive obtained 36 pounds of surplus honey at one time, now one.
Quite a number of similar statements, authenticated by some of the best citizens of Cambria county, could be obtained in proof of the superior merits of Langstroth's Patent Movable Comb Bee Hive.

Ayer's
Hair Vigor,
For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.
A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such a remnant can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a
HAIR DRESSING,
nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as an excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of man it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. Well adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affection of the throat and lungs, which arises from sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed in all the situations where colds and coughs, and Consumption, are liable to occur. DENTISTRY?
DR. JOHN FRY,
Assisted by his Daughter,
Having permanently located in Johnstown, is prepared to answer all professional calls, and insert ARTIFICIAL TEETH on genuine Rubber (Vulcanite) Base, or, if preferred, he will insert them on gold (20 carats fine), or Silver (chemically pure)—both of his own preparing on Platina, Aluminium, Palladium, Corallite and Adamantine. Also, the Porcelain teeth. Extracting, Filling and Cleaning of Teeth carefully performed, avoiding all unnecessary pain.
He would also call attention to his new mode of filling teeth with CRYSTAL GOLD, which is the best preparation ever introduced for filling teeth. He can restore a TOOTH to its NATURAL STATE with this gold, and make the filling as solid as a piece of gold coin. Go and have your teeth examined every six months at least, and if there is any decay about them have them filled with Crystal Gold and you will never need artificial teeth. Artificial teeth are a good article, but they do not compare with the natural teeth when in a healthy state.
All work done in such manner as not to be excelled in Style, Beauty, Comfort, Lightness, Durability, and warranted to give satisfaction in every respect to the mouth.
Samples of his work may be examined by all who desire to see them. The following speaks for itself:
