HON. CHRISTOPHER L. WARD died suddenly, a few days ago, at his residence at Towards, Bradford county, in this State .-Mr. WARD was a ripe scholar, a gentleman of fine literary attainments, and a vigorous and polished writer. Although a prominent and active politican, we believe he never aspired to nor held any public office. In the Presidential campaign of 1864 he was Chairman of the Democratic State Central last letter of Mr. McLaughlin in shape of a supplement, he having had them printed in that form because we declined to cumber our columns with any further communications on the subject. In circulating these supplements we do for the author what we would do for any legitimate dealer or merchant, and what we will do for Mr. Pershing, if he desires it. It is altogether a business no one will be simple enough to conclude that we endorse or approve of Mr. McLaughlin's course because we have seen fit to cir- hill. culate his letter in the shape in which it "Pigmies, though perched on Alps, are pigmies has been furnished us. If Mr. McLaughlin has not damaged we cannot see wherein he has helped his cause by his last production.

Ir would be satisfactory to know precisely how many men in this country are lucky enough to bear the enviable title of brotherin-law to our "Second Washington." The supply of that material seems to be inexhaustible, and fully equal to the demand. They are snugly quartered in comfortable positions, both here and in foreign parts .-We thought it was, or ought to be by this time, extinct, but this delusion is made to vanish by the official announcement that CRANT has just appointed another of the same sort, by name GEORGE W. DENT, to be appraiser of merchandize at San Francisco. Whose turn will come next? How would a constitutional amendment do prohibiting the election of any man to the Presidency who has any brothers-in-law at all laying around loose, and willing, like the Irishman, to take a good fat office, provided it is forced upon them.

THE Governor of South Carolina having so likewise is John Cessna. set apart a day for a special election in WHITTEMORE's district, it is confidently pre_ cellencies, and especialy his disinteresteddicted by the friends of that Bay State ness as a legislator on a question involving carpet-bagger that he will again make his his own pectiniary interests, there seems to other well-bred savage familiarly known to appearance on the Congressional boards .-Why not? Who so fit to represent the first the following extract from a late article in South Carolina district, in which threefourths of the voters are "men and brothers," and amongst whom "Brudder" WHIT-TEMORE is the political GAMALIEL, at whose feet his ebony admirers worship. WHITTE-MORE has solved the question about any difficulty which might possibly arise in reference to his admission to his seat, by declaring that as RODERIC R. BUTLER, of Tennessee, who was tarred with the same cadetship stick, has been permitted to retain the seat which he disgraced, he (WHIT-THMORE) can read his title clear, not to mausious in the sky, but to the questionable honors of a seat in the present Congress .-And so it will be.

Pershing--M'Laughlin.

The delectable controversy between these two gentlemen is in all probability at an end, and, after all, the angry discussion has only disclosed a single weakness on each sideand here they are:

Pershing's mistake is given at the head of M'Laughlin's letter : "On this subject you must get all the light you can, and then vote as your conscience tells-you is right."-Pershing was in favor of submitting the question of removal to a vote, and so informed Mr. Schnatterly, to whom the letter was written. It was the letter of one high-minded Democrat to another high-miaded Democrat, neither of whom would, under any the Union as a State. This practice of erectcircumstances, vote contrary to the dictates ing new States out of sparsely populated of conscience! But voting "as your con- territories is one that is more honored in the science tells you is right" is just what Mr. McLaughlin and his friends did not want, the political power of the country is fast and therefore Pershing made a mistake.

McLaughlin's mistake was in opening a sealed private letter. How a professional man could so far forget himself as to do an act which the poorest farmer or laborer in tories ought at once to be raised to the Cambria county would scorn to do, is pass- power and dignity of States. ing strange! Whatever weakness caused it, he and every friend he has, if indeed he can bered to the opinion, that no territory ought universal verdict here is that in this inhave any left, will regret it as long as he to be admitted as a State until it had populives. He ought not to attempt to palliate lation enough, under the then existing ratio 16, for it is inexcusable. Indeed, we feel of representation, to entitle it to elect a memsure that this is what has caused him to lose ber of Congress. We regard even this rule often during the discussion.

This is all there is in this long-winded controversy, and we trust for the credit of both parties that it is dead beyond all hope of resurrection.

Eulogy Run Mad.

Daniel J. Morrel's organ in this place, the Alleghanian, in speaking of the nomination of that gentleman by the late Radical Couny Convention, pronounces on him the following extravagant eulogium :

"Of Hon. Daniel J. Morrell, the declared choice of Cambria county for Congress, is not secessary to speak in multiplied words of eulogium. He is a representative man of the time, and his name is a household word throughout the land. An earnest and original Republican, a firm supporter of the administration of President Grant, a steadfast friend of a protective tariff, a clear thinker, and a logical reasoner -in short, a statesman-he has made for himself a reputation to be envied."

Whether this was meant for "sarkasm," as Artemas Ward would say, might admit of considerable doubt. Lord Byron was accustomed to say that he woke up one fine morning and found himself tamous. A similar stroke of unexpected greatness reems to have been in reserve for Mr. Morrell.

It has been the standing reproach of Pennsylvania, for a period of time "whereof the memory of man runneth not to the contrary," that she could produce more great men and more distinguished statesmen, on paper, than any other State in the Union.

We are entirely willing to acquiesce in any reasonable demand on the score of ability that Mr. Morrell's friends may make in his behalf, but the foregoing political rhapsody is beyond all established precedent .-We cannot, however, refrain from congratulating the people of Cambria county that they have in their midst so great a man and so pronounced a statesman as Daniel J. Morrell, without apparently being conscious of the remarkable fact.

This is a nice thing for Cambria-it is a tall feather in her cap-that amidst the general decadence of Radical intellect in the WE supply our readers this week with the high places of the nation, there has suddenly loomed up among her "frosty sons of thunder" a statesman as is a statesman. But to be serious, Mr. Morrell is a gentleman of fair attainments and of excellent administrative abilities, and in his management of the complicated affairs of the Cambria Iron Company, of which he is the Superintendent has exhibited first rate business capacity. When this has been said, however, the subtransaction on our part, and we trust that ject is exhausted, and the effort to make a terposed from that source. If it is once setstatesman out of Mr. Morrell is simply an tled in a Congressional caucus, that Pandoattempt to create a mountain out of a mole ra's box from which has proceeded all the still, And pyramids in vales are pyramids."

What has Mr. Morrell ever done to entitle him to the honors of statesmanship? If a slavish support of all the obstructive legislaion of Congress ever since he has been a member of that body-if his vote in favor of the causeless impeachment of a President -if his advocacy of all the villainies of reconstruction, whereby the ballot has been placed in the hands of six hundred thousand ignorant negroes in the South, and the same boon has been withheld from three hundred thousand intelligent men of his own colorif his votes coercing three States into the ratification of the fifteenth amendment, under -the penalty for a non-compliance of being denied representation in Congress-if his votes in favor of giving away millions of acres of the public domain to land-grabbing railroad corporations-if his active support of all the iniquities of a high protective and plundering tariff-if all this, and much more of the same sort, constitute a statesman then is Mr. Morrell eminently entitled to that appellation. So is John Covode, and

In reference to Mr. Morrell's peculiar exbe a decided opinion, as will be seen from the New York Evening Post, a leading Rad-

"Mr. Morrell, of Pennsylvana, one of the three owners of the Bessemer patent for making steel, is the most active man in Congress | in, had he been one of Macbeth's witches. in promoting an enormous increase of duty on steel rails, which, if adopted, will multiply the value of his patents, at the expense of travel and traffic of the whole country.

"This case is a peculiar one, in its shamelessness. Mr. Morrell came forward prominently in the discussion on the subject, and when the votes were taken, he was the most zealous "whip" on the floor, carrying his protectionist friends as well as voting on each question himself. His vote was challenged in Committee of the Whole, by Mr. Cox, on the ground than Mr. Morrell had a direct pecuniary interest in the result. The Chairman could not entertain the challenge, because the House, and not the Committee, had jurisdic tion of it. But Mr. Morrell took advantage of this technicality and still used his position and vote to fill his own pocket. "On Tuesday the question came up again in Committee. Mr. Cox and Mr. McNeely again challenged Mr. Morrell's vote, and a motion was made to go into the House in order to determine his right to vote a tax on the people for his own benefit. This motion was rejected by forty-six ayes to seventy-eight noes does not, of course, indicate that the majority in Congress think it proper to use their power as legislators to enrich themselves but only that they were in a hurry and thoughtless.— We ask them now to consider the question."

New Mexico.

The necessary legislative steps are about to be taken by the present Radical Congress for the admission of New Mexico into breach than in the observance. Although gravitating from the east to the comparatively young but energetic west, it does not follow, either as a matter of public policy or justice, that all of our thinly peopled terri-reference to the subject. In order to perpetuate their power, the and forty-six feet long.

Radical leaders in Congress are determined to bring into the Union as a State, any territory that gives promise of voting the Radical ticket. They made two determined efforts in that direction with Colorado, that has never polled more than 8,200 votes, and were only foiled in their efforts by the prompt and effectual use of the veto power by An drew Johnson. In 1864 they admitted NE VADA as a State, for the sole reason that her vote might aid in the election of LINCOLN. At the election in November of that year the total vote cast in the State was 16,420, and at the Presidential election in 1868, four years afterwards, it was only 11,698, showing a decrease of nearly 5,000 votes. Take the case of NEW MEXICO. In 1867 that territory cast 17,685 votes, and in 1869, at the election for a deligate to Congress, the entire vote was only 14,467, or 5,218 less than it was two years before-thus showing that the territory is actually decreasing in popu? lation. And yet it is in contemplation by Congress to perpetrate a gross act of treachs ery towards the people of the United States. by making New Mexico the one thirty. eighth part of the entire political power of this great republic. Is it right, is it just, to confer on these 14,467 voters in New Mexico, many of them half-breed Indians, the power of casting two votes in the Senate of the United States, thus giving them the same weight in that body that is now exercised by New York or Pennsylvania? The outrrge in admitting New Mexico would not be any greater than the admission of MONTANA with her 9,350 votes-Washing-TON with her 5,338-IDAHO with her 5,320 -WYOMING with her 5,266, or DAKOTA with her 3,886 votes. The justice in the case of either of the latter territories is quite as apparent as in the case of New Mexico, that only polls 1,481 votes over double the number cast in Cambria county at the last

Presidential election. If the country had a President who was not notoriously incompetent for the position he occupies, this great fraud upon the larger States of the Union could never be consummated; but as Grant has shown himself to be a mere instrument for registering the decrees of Congress, no obstacle will be incurses in the shape of Radical legislation that have afflicted the country for the last four years, that there exists a party necessity for the admission of New Mexico, the villainous scheme will be carried through, urged against so palpable a wrong

JOHN COVODE, AS SEEN BY DON PLATT .-John Covode is one of the stock clowns of the lower body of the National Legislature, as Drake is of the Senate. Covode is a mixture of Scotch, Irish and Pennsylvania Dutch, and he resembles an army mule in his carriage, bray, propensity to pull in the Party team, and occasionally to kick up his heels for recreation. He is cunning, without pride or concern for personal dignity or honor, rich by strategic approaches, and politics is as much a business with him as breeding stock or keeping shop. He has no abstract idea of power, or fame, or anything which imaginative people suppose would be apt to make a man wish to sit in the Congress of the United States ; for he belongs to a run-down Commonwealth where the highest ideal of the nation is that it is a sort of Indian's stew-pot, where all the States sit round flashing out benefits and savory morsels with their fingers. John Covode grew up dirty and course on purpose to qualify himself for this general grab. He can run his arm down lower, hook out more fat and noctuous pieces, and digest them upon a more omniverous and cast iron stomach than Spotted Tail, or Hole-in-the-Day, or any the Indian agents in the lower story of the Patent Office building. When you come to statemanship as a fine art, Covode's proposition is that it consists in a personal sense, of putting as little into the pot as possible, making the numerator small and the denominator almighty. He would have thrown the smallest might of "Blaspheming Jews," and hooked out the whole "maw and gulp" of the shark. He holds his seat in the present Congress by the tenure of partisan injustice, having been beaten in the most manifest manner by Henry D. Foster, but given the seat by a partisan committee; and yet this grotesqe old rascal quotes rare scripture and assumes at times more honesty than the Incorruptible Stanton. He reminds me of Artemus Ward's sayings of a certain man "that be had but one tooth, and yet this gifted being plays on the bass drum,"

HORRIBLE AND FIENDISH OUTRAGE IN KANSAS-Prompt and Merited Retribution. -An account of the most diabolical affair ever recorded is published in the Fort Scott Monitor of the 13th inst. On Tuesday seven men, either Texans or straggling outlaws from the Indian Territory, came to the town of Ladore, a few miles south of here. After This drinking all day, they went to the boarding house of J. H. Roach and asked to stay all night. Being refused on account of their drunken condition, one of the party knocked Roach inscusible with a revolver, and they went to the bed occupied by the two daughters of Roach, aged twelve and fourteen years, and ravished them during the entire night, using knives to accomplish their purposes. Roach revived after a time, but feared to stir, knowing that he would be killed if he did so. He describes the cries and entreaties of the girls as heart-rending. A quarrel arose among the demons, and one was shot dead while satisfying his lust. At day-break the party fled, one taking with him to the woods the youngest girl. The town was immediately aroused, and parties started in every direction in search of the fiends. This one with the girl was soon overtaken and hung to a tree. Two others were found secreted in the town and were hung to the same tree; and the remaining three were also captured, and two of them We believe that Stephen A. WHAT A PLEBISCITE Is .- One of the editors of the New Orleans Times has received a business letter, of which the following is a verbatim copy :

A "plebiscite" is a thing only a few "fellers" can understand. You see, when in the course of human events, the polity of a government in its transcendental relations with the political economies of a State becomes imbued with the sprectral analysis of abnormal influences, infringing upon the perpetui ty of institutions at once nugatory to the obtruse interests of theocracy, why then, a decent respect for the opinions of mankind requires the promulgation of a popular analytical manifesto in which short a "plebiscite" is plainly a "plebiscite:" or in other words, it is French for "Shoo fly, don't bodder me."
