HOW STRANGE IT WILL BE.

BY FLORENCE PERCY.

How strange it will be, love—how strange when we two Shall be what all lovers become—
You rigid and faithless, I cold and untrue,
You thoughtless of me and I careless of you,
Our pet names grown rusty with nothing to do,
Love's bright web unraveled and rent and worn through,
And life's loom left empty—ah, hum!
Ah, me!

Ah, me! How strange it will be.

How strange it will be when the witchery goes Which makes me seem lovely to-day, When your thought of me loses its contour de When every day serves some new fault to dis-When you find I've cold eyes and an every-day I was out of the common place way;

How strange it will be! How strange it will be, love, how strange when we meet
With just a chill touch of the hand;
When my pulses no longer delightfully beat
At the thought of your coming—at the sound

When I watch not your coming far down the When your dear, loving voice, so thrillingly Grows harsh in reproach or command; Ah, me! How strange it will be!

How strange it will be when we willingly stay Divided the weary day through:
Or, getting remotely apart as we may,
Sit chilly and silent, with nothing to say.
Or coolly converse on the news of the day,
In a wear some, old-married-folks sort of way!
I shrink from the picture—don't you?

Ah me! How strange it will be! Dear love, if our hearts do grow torpid and cold, As many others have done;
If we do let our love perish with hunger and If we din all life's diamonds and tarnish its gold If we choose to live wretched and die uncon-'Twill be strangest of all things that ever were As happening under the sun! Ah, me!

How strange it will be!

HANNIBAL'S SKELETON .- Thousands of persons throughout the United States, who have gazed in wonder upon the colossal proportions of Van Amburgh's famous ele hant "Hanni bal," on exhibition in this country about fortysix years, the largest specimen of the species ever imported into this country or Europe, will be interested in the final disposal of his bones, which, we understand, are to be added to the zoological curiosities of New York Central

Hannibal died at Centerville, Md., in about the ninetieth year of his age, in May, 1866 -The complete skeleton of an elephant being very difficult to obtain, the bones are very valuable, and great precautions we e consequently taken to preserve those of Hannibal, and under | ly rendered whenever desirable or available. the charge of Albert Townsend, the carcass was dragged to a field about a mile from the village, and a large and strong mausoleum of masonry erected over it. There it was suffered Home & Norton, General Agents, 64 Fourth to remain until the flesh had wasted away sufficiently to permit the removal of the bones. So great was the mass that not until a few days since was it thought advisable to open the tomb. The bones have been cleansed, transported to the Central Park and set up in the zoological department, there to remain an object of interest to visitors until the touch of time causes them to crumble into dust.

The above article was started by a New York paper some time ago and has been go ing the rounds of the press. It contains several serious errors which we feel it our duty to correct. In the first place Hannibal did not die at "Centerville, Md.," but at . Centerville, in this county. His carcass was not "dragged to a field about a mile from the village, and a strong mausoleum of masonry erected over it," but a large ditch was dug close by where the monster expired and his body rolled into it. His tomb has not been opened, and his bones have not "been cleansed, transported to the Central Park, and set up in the zoological department there to remain an object of interest to visitors" who by thousands throng the most beautiful park in America. Hannibal's body still "Hes mouldering in the grave" in our own Valley of Cumberland, and the sight-seer who goes to the zoological department of Central Park for the purpose of gazing on the outlines of the colossal proportions of the once famous elephant will be fooled, muchly .-We understood, however, that the Park Commissioners have been negotiating, for some time, with Mr. Whip, on whose farm the bones of Hannibal are resting, to have the carcass shipped to New York, but up to this time the parties have been unable to come to terms. When that important event comes to visit the grave of Hannibal, he will find it near Centerville .- Bedford Guzette.

LEARN A TRADE-DON'T BE IDLE .- "A man that is too well born for a trade, is very well born for the gallows." There is a deal too much disrespect for honest labor for the healthful maintenance of either morals or government. There obtains a notion among a great class of people that when a person is relieved, by the possession of property, from the necessity of arduous toil, it becomes a degradation for him to labor at all. If the habit of work is so fixed that the moneyed man cannot remain idle, he apologizes for it as a sort of vice and refers to "habit" much as he would to addiction to opium or rum, as something to be ashamed of, but which, unfortunately, had got the better of him. His children are carefully educated to "slink the shop" and turn up their noses at those who work for a living. In seeking matrimonial alliances for them he looks for wealth rather than industry, and chooses as a husband for his daughter the man who has his inheritance in the bank, no matter how unfitted he may be to cope with misfortune, rather than the man who has a fortune in his brain, and will win his own way. Idleness and extravagance are curses worse than plagues of Egypt to us; they breed sorrow, wretchedness, crime and infamy; and send our sons into drunkard's graves and felon's cells, and put our daughters on the streets, into mad houses and garrets of poverty. Every boy, rich or poor, should be taught that idleuess is crime-and girls should be taught it no less than boys. Every child should be taught some trade, and our school system should be so reformed and improved that of my work and learn my prices.

M. M. O'NEILL. of technical education .- N. Y. Sun.

CURE FOR WOUNDS .- The Melbourne Argus speaks of a gentleman who received a kick from a horse below the knee of the right leg. The wound was partially healed, but it broke out again, and spread until the whole of the lower part of the leg was af fected. Having heard of the success of the earth treatment in other cases, be procured some virgin soil taken from below the roots of the grass and applied it to the wound. which at that time was as large as his hand, and caused the leg to be much swollen. The result was that the swelling was reduced in the girth measurement three inches on the first application. The treatment was continued for three weeks, at the end of which time the wound was quite healed.

To CLEAN GOLD CHAINS .- Put the chain in a small glass bottle, with warm water, a little tooth powder and some soap. Cork the bottle and shake it for a minute violentpattern; rinse it in clear cold water, wipe with a towel, and the polish will surprise you.

Read the testimony of physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis : send for our Rosadalis Guide to Health Book, or Almanac for this year, whichwe publish for gratuitous distribution : it will give you much valuable information. Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore, says;

I take pleasure in recommending your ROSADALIS as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results-one in a case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronoanced himself cured after having taken five botles of your medicine. The other is a case of Scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made and find it an excellent compound of alterative Ingredients. Dr. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Kv., savs he has used Rosadalis in cases of Scrofu la and Secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results-as a cleaner of the blood I know no better remedy. Samuel G. M. Fadden, Murfreesboro'. Tenn . says: I have used seven bottles of
