REMARKABLE RAINS.

There are, comotimes, real showers of very nureal rain. It is stated by an old writer that in Lapland and Finmark, about a century ago, mice of a peculiar kind were known to fall from the sky, and that such an event was sure to be followed by a good year for fexes. A shower of frogs fell near Toulouse in 1804. A prodigious number of black insects about an inch in length, descended in a snow storm at Patroff, Russia, in 1827. On one occasion, in Norway, the peasants were astonished at finding a shower of rats pelting down upon their heads. Showers of fishes have been numerous. At Stanstead, in Kent, in 1606, a pasture field was found one morning plentifully covered with fish, FEED AND PROVISIONS. although there is neither sea nor river, lake nor fish pend near. At Allahabad, in 1839, an English officer saw a good smart downpour of fish, and soon after thousands of Between 13th and 14th Sts., Altoona. small dead fish were found upon the ground. Scotland has had many of these showers of fish, as in Hosshire, in 1829, when quantities of herring fry covered the ground; at Islay, ery will be sold from manufacturer's printed in 1830, when a large number of herring were found strewed over a field after a heaty, gusty rain; at Wick, much more recently, when herring were found in large quantitles in a field half a mile from the beach, In all these and numerous other cases, when a liberal allowance has been made for exag- | sured that my goods are of the best quality and | Stray wind blowing from a sea or river, a water-spout licking up the fish out of the water, a whirlwind sending them hither and thither-all these are intelligible. The rat shower in Norway was an extraordinary one. Swammerdam, the naturalist, told the people of Hague, two centuries ago, that these red spots were connected with some phenomena of insect life, but they would not believe him, and insisted that the spots were real blood and were portents of evil times to come. BUSH YOUR TOMATOES .- It is just as sensible to grow peas without bushing them, as it is tomatees. You may grow both in A. KOPELIN, - - - T. W. DICK, a slovenly way, if you have plenty of room and the ground; but you can grow either twice as well if you have something to support them, and tomatoes are decidedly better grown up in the air than near the ground under the shade of a mass of vines. The R. L. JOHNSTON. best support of a tomato vine is a short bush set firmly in the ground so that the branches have room to spread among the limbs and and support the fruit. The plan is much better than tying to stakes and trimming, according to our experience. We have tried both ways.

THE STEEL PEN .- James Perry, an English schoolmaster, made the first steel pen, and was so good a business man that he succeeded in intorducing it as the Perryan pen. In 1825 he had fifty men engaged in the business of making pens; but it was left for Jeremiah Mason to make the pen popular; the same man, by the way, who became a second Peabody by establishing an orphan asylum endowed with $1,200,-000. Mason was a Kidderminster carpetweaver, but went to Birmingham and manufactured pins, needles, shoe-strings, and infinitesimal essentials. Here he saw in a shop window a steel pen, priced at sixpence. He bought three, made better and lighter ones at a penny and a quarter apiece, and sent specimens to Perry. The inventor was delighted, advanced money to Mason, and the intercourse ended in partnership and mutual wealth. Perry has since died, and Masen is the sole proprietor of the Perryan

IMPRIVOED HIVE

The undersigned has secured letters patent of the United States, dated December 14, 1869. or an improvement in the construction of Bee Hives, and claims for his invention advantages possessed by no other heretofore patented. The principal feature of this Ree Hive is the arrangement by means of which it is thorough honey souring. This desirable end is accomplished by a vertical perforated tube, running entrally through the hive and open at the top and bottom. All persons interested in apiculture will at once see the great advantages secured in this improvement. The ventilator is for the increase of bces

The peculiar construction of the box, particularly in the arrangement of the inner compartments, whereby it can be cleaned at any time without disturbing the bees, is another valuable improvement which will be obvious to any person who examines this Hive. An examination of the workings of the bees or the condition of the interior can be made at any after washing and ironing time, as the sides are cased with glass. Bees can be trasferred from a different hive to the improved one without any difficulty whatever. It would require too much space to enumerate here all the advantages claimed in this invention, but full information will be promptly furnished by applying in person or by letter to the I am now prepared to dispose of territory for the sale of the Improved Bee Hive
