John Chinaman and Woman's Wages.

One of the numerous phases of the coolie question is presented in the following article, which we take from the Woman's Journal. It appears that women who earn an honest living by the labor of their hands are as likely to be effected disastrously by the Chinese invasion as the men. The article goes on to say:

The injustice of woman's disfranchisement is forcibly illustrated in the Chinese question as it now presents itself. "An ounce of example is worth a pound of precept." Take the following instance:

Among the new avennues recently opened to woman's labor, one of considerable importance is found in steam laundries. A number of these establishments are already in successful operation in and near New York. Mr. R. C. Browning, the enterprising proprietor of "Doty's Washing Machine" and the Universal Clothes Wringer," who has done so much, by the successful introduction of those invaluable household machines, to relieve the women of America from domestic drudgery, has recently erected one of these laundries in Orange, New Jersey. In this large establishment he employs some two hundred women. These women work altogether by the piece—With the aid of powerful steam machinery, shirts are starched and ironed at eight cents apiece. At these prices, the women earn from a dollar and a half to three dollars per day according to their strength and skill.

A few days ago, we called, in company with Mr. Browning, upon one of his heaviest customers, Mr. C., an extensive manufacturer of shirts. In the course of conversation, the difficulty of getting faithful and industrious working women being considered, Mr. C. urged Mr. Browning to import Chinamen to take the place of women in his laundry. Chinamen can be hired at seventy-five cents per day in gold, by the year.—They are steady, strong, docile, patient, industrious and persevering. With a little practice, they will do more work for seventy five cents than the women now do for three times that sum.

Mr. Browning admitted the facts, acknowledged the greater convenience and larger profit, but—to his honor be it spoken—expressed his unwillingness to supplant the labor of women by importing men to fill their places.

Yet how few keen, shrewd business men would share this chivalrous feeling. How long will it be ere working women will find their scanty wages still further reduced by the competition of these laborious Asiatic human machines?

And yet,—while working men have the matter under their own control, and can influence legislation in their own favor by their votes as they may deem wise and expedient—tens of thousands of working women are prohibited by law from expressing an authorative opinion in regard to a matter of vital interest to themselves. The very bread may be taken from their months by the importation and substitution of servile laborers. And these servile laborers are legally consituted their political superiors, and are authorized to make laws, public opinion and social usages, to which these disfranchised American women must helplessly conform. Without expressing any opinion as to the wisdom of admitting or excluding their Chinese competitors, we demand the ballot for those working women as their natural right. It is for them to say whether the immigration shall be permitted or prohibited. No other class of citizens have the exclusive right to settle a question in which these women have so vital an interest.

What would any class of working men say if they were thus excluded? What would the Crispins say if they were disfranchised when the rights of the laborer are in question, because they are Crispins? Or the lawyers, if they were disfranchised when laws are to be enacted, because they are lawyers? Or the liquor sellers, if they were prohibited from voting on the question of licenses, because they are liquor sellers? What a cry of injustice would be raised, and what sympathy would be awakened!

Shame on our code of political ethics! It is respectable to be a Crispin, or a lawyer, or a liquor seller. It is a crime to be a woman. H. B. B.

REAPER AND MOWER!

GREATLY IMPROVED,

With double motion, or change of speed at will. By the movement of an easy working lever, without stopping the team, the speed can be easily changed from fast to slow, and from slow to fast; or by the same lever can be thrown entirely out of gear. Also a grand improvement in the new Geared Reel that is so popular, and with a new Self-Rake and other improvements, the "ÆTNA" is conceded to be far ahead of all its competitors in every essential quality of a successful machine.

ROSADALIS

THE GREAT AMERICAN HEALTH RESTORER purifies the blood and cures Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Diseases of Women, and all Chronic Affections of the Blood, Liver and Kidneys. Recommended by the Medical Faculty and many thousands of our best citizens.

Read the testimony of physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis; send for our Rosadalis Guide to Health Book, or Almanac for this year, whichwe publish for gratuitous distribution; it will give you much valuable information.

Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore, says: I take pleasure in recommending your ROSADALIS as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one in a case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of Scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made and find it an excellent compound of alterative ingredients.

Dr. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of Scrofula and Secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results—as a cleanser of the blood I know no better remedy.

Samuel G. M'Fadden, Murfreesboro', Tenn., says: I have used seven bottles of Rosadalis and am entirely cured of Rheumatism; send me four bottles, as I wish it for my brother, who has scrofulous sore eyes.

Benj. Bechtol, of Lima, O., writes: I have suffered for 20 years with an inveterate eruption over my whole body. A short time since I bought a bottle of Rosadalis and it effected a perfect cure.

Rosadalis is sold by LEMMON & MURRAY, Ebensburg, and Druggists generally. Laboratory, 61 Exchange Place, Baltimore. CLEMENTS & CO., Proprietors

CONTINENTAL LIFE INSURANCE CO, OF HARTFORD, CONN.

Samuel E. Elmore, Pres't. - - Francis D. Douglass, Sec'y.

THIS COMPANY ranks among the first class Life Insurance Companies doing business in Massachusetts, and by complying with the laws of that State, insures perfect safety to her Policy Holders. It grants 50 per cent. loan of premium on Life Policies to its Insured, and by applying all the cash collected from its members to Insurance, gives the largest Insurance attainable for the amount of money invested. Its profits are divided among the Policy Holders, and its Dividends have never been less than 50 per cent., thus bringing the net cost of the Insurance within the most limited means, and affording the protection of a Policy on terms not excelled by any Company.

Trustworthy and reliable men are wanted to act as agents for this Company in Cambria and adjoining counties, and with such the most liberal arrangements will be made. To those who may be unacquainted with the business, full instructions and aid will be most cheerfully rendered whenever desirable or available.

PENELOPE.

(Simpson's Bar, 1858.)

So you've kem yer agen
And one answer won't do?
Well, of all the derned men
That I've struck, it is you.
O, Sal! yer's that derned fool from Simpson's cavorting round yer in the dew.

Kem in, ef you will,
That—quit! Take a cheer.
Not that; you can't fill
Them theer cushings this year—
For that cheer was my old man's, Joe Simpson, and they don't make such men about yer.

He was tall, was my Jack,
And as strong as a tree.
That's his gun on the rack—
Jest you heft it and see.
And you come a courtin' his widder. Lord!
where can that critter Sal be?

You'd fill my Jack's place?
And a man of your size—
With no baird to his face,
Nor a snap to his eyes—
And nary—— Sho! thar! I was foolin'—I was,
Joe, for sartin—don't rise.

Sit down. Law! why sho!
I'm as weak as a gal.
Sal! Don't you go, Joe,
Or I'll faint—sure I shall.
Sit down anywheer, where you like, Joe—in that cheer if you choose—Lord, where's Sal?

TENDER LINES.

Sweet maiden of Passamaquoddy,
Shall we seek for communion of souls
Where the deep Mississippi meanders,
Or the distant Saskatchewan rolls!
Ah, no—for in Maine I will find thee
A sweetly sequestered nook,
Where the fair winding Skoodoowabskooksis
Conjoins with the Skoodoowabskook.
Let others sing loudly of Saco,
Of Quoddy and Tattamagouchche;
Of Kennebasis and Quaco,
Of Merigonishe and Buctouche;
Of Mashwaak and Magaguadavique,
Of Memmermammericook—
There's none like the Skoodoowabskooksis.
Except the Skoodoowabskook.

Letter from the "Coming Man."

The epistle of the "Coming Man" published in the Advance some weeks ago calls out this companion piece:

To the Hon. Mrs. Standfast, M. C.

My Honored Wife—It is bearing on the children are safely tucked in bed, though the weeds mendicant stands at the door, I snatch a moment in which to write you. Can you spare a few more years and honors of public life to wade through lines from your fond and obedient husband. I would gladly write oftener, but you know my numerous cares, and some of mine seem very awkward to my unpractised hand. To be sure I gained some experience during your absence in the campaign before the election, but do what I will, I find that I am not my forte, and as for working in the garden with my hands, as you told me, it is a mess! I suggested to Betty the other day—very meekly—that she dust the parlor, but she indignantly refused, telling me that you always took care of the house when you went into politics, and it was the duty of her if your head is turned I do the best I can, but really Betty is a hard one to suit.

Then there is the sewing girl. Every time she gives me with her pay envelope I would pack her out of the house. Our dear children are so shabby and ragged, and so nervous I cannot sew.

By the way, what can be the matter with the pickled cabbage? We opened one of it the other day and it is not fit to eat. Betty says the onions spoiled it. I am sure, dear, you told me to use more onions than it relish; or was it horse radish? I declare I am quite mixed. The spiced currants, too, are terrible. Could I have made a mistake and put them up, and used pepper instead? You see I cannot find the cook book you said was in the house, and I am so short of change that buying one is not to be thought of. Couldn't you spare me next month's allowance a little in advance? Maggie's toes are out of her gaiters, and the best hat is shocking.

Write me a long letter as soon as you read this, and come home for the holidays if you can be spared. But you must not write me so very nice, though I see it is all right. I sweep and dust every week of my life, and insist upon the children keeping their playthings and out-door implements off the table—out of the way there, and so much handier than if hung on the little one's reach.

Your faithful husband,

MOSES STANDFAST.

P. S.—What shall I give little Johnny if he has colic? The other night I gave him painkiller, and you can hardly imagine the noise he screamed. I think it must have been his temper, he got so red in the face. Betty says I ought to give syrups, but I am quite firm. Syrup is good with buttered toast, but I'll never believe it will cure colic. Please attend to your orders. Baby has one tooth.

P. S. again—What shall I do? Betty came to the nursery to give warning, and will leave to-morrow. I was going to show her how to bake bread next week, and now to leave the children to find another girl. Betty says she won't be ordered about by a great staring man. But I ought to annoy you with these trifles.

Know ye the printer's hour of need? Know ye an hour more fraught than ever felt the maid of Greece kissed by Venus' amorous boy? when news of solemn note like this with sadness fill; nor yet when Printers quote the effusions of the worn quill. But, O! 'tis when the printer's fair, or clad in rain or hail, he hears a subscriber say: "I'll be back to pay you for your paper."

—A young lady who has a beautiful foot, but a large ankle, recently went into a boot and shoe store in a certain town to purchase a pair of gaiters. The clerk was of foreign birth, and had not yet acquired the best use of words. He measured the foot, and so far forgot himself as to remark: "Mad am, you have a beautiful foot, but your leg commences to swell immediately." The young lady blushed and was compelled to admit that the clerk spoke to the point.

—A good story is told of a man residing at Calais, Me. In the fullness of his heart the reverend gentleman asked the footman to get into his wagon and ride. The clerical gentleman asked his reason, and "if he was prepared to die," when the latter leaped from the wagon and took a place of safety, doubtless considering the question synonymous with "Your money or your life!"
