

A Man at the Wash Tub, and a SAVE MONEY! ROSADALIS

A Sioux City (Iowa) reporter thus describes a sight he recently saw in that town. As an illustration of the progress of woman's rights in that section, it is interesting :

In a certain house upon a certain street, a certain man was sweating over an uncertain washtub, for it stood on a three legged stool that looked inclined to topple over. His shirt sleeves were rolled up to his arm ALL KINDS DRY GOODS, pits, and his hands were very red and his ALL KINDS DRY GOODS, face very long. We saw him pull up from the hot steaming suds a certain garment that suggested a woman's most sacred article of apparel. As he held it a moment in the air, it seemed to us that his fips moved in Ready-Made CLOTHING, imprecations, and we are quite sure that when it went back into the tub, it went back with a little more force than duty to the garment required, though it must be confessed it showed very visible effect of the ter- CLOTHS, CASSIMERES, rible heat and the wretched dust of dog day service.

A woman sat at the window, and from her general appearance, which was that of the REALENT CARE STATIS one waiting for clothes to be washed, and from the dogged manner in which she was observed by the man at the tub, we concluded that she was none other than the wife of the martyr, who, instead of keeping her bed, as would have been most modest and CHOICE FAMILY GROCERIES appropriate, had been constrained to come forth on account of rebellion on the part of the little man.

Her face, which was stern and uninviting, was resting on her hands, which was supported by her elbows on her knees. Her position in the window brought her feet about twelve inches from the floor, and well into view. They were by no means delicate, BACON, SALT, FISH, and were covered by a pair of cloth gaiters. considerably down in the heel and out at the toe, which it is safe to say were put into service before the first 300,000 men who responded to the patriotic call of Father Abra- DRIED & CAN'D FRUITS, ham. a scene. Such things have been suggested to us, and we have even heard of their existence in neighboring states ; but we did not dream there was such a slavery in Iowa, Best Brands of Cigars and Tobacco, much less in the free and rollicking town of Sioux City.

Just as we were withdrawing, how ever. another act in this life drama was performed. By some mishap, which we did not foresee, the miserable stool gave way, and the dependent tub and the abominable suds, and the dozens constituting the wash, went over with a crash and splash upon the floor ! The woman jumped like a tigress upon the hapless victim of a man, and taking one of the terrible gaiters from her terrible feet, she proceeded to give him a scientific wallop-

REMARKABLE INDIANS .- A large faction of the Piute tribe of Indians live on the Great American Desert, a region about 1,000 miles long from north to south, and about 300 miles wide from east to west. There are on this desert stretches of 100 miles | tail without grass or water. It is a region of sand and rocky mountains, with but little vegetation, and this of a peculiar stunted character. Here and there at distant intervals, there is a little wood, a little grass and a little water procured from holes. A run-

Their opper extremities are very slender. They carry scarcely any flesh but that employed in locomotion. Their life has im. pressed upon them a wonderful physiology Their capacity to eat and to starve is truly astounding. Six munths ago seven Indians, including a child six years old, ate a horse that had perished from drinking alkaline water, which had weighed not less than one thousand pounds, from three o'clock in the afternoon to ten o'clock in the morning of the succeeding day-intestines, heart, liver, lungs and all. Even the bones were crushed and the marrow taken from them. In short, at ten o'clock next day nothing remained of the horse but the boofs. So in less than twenty-four hours they consumed, per capita. more than one hundred pounds of meat.

A QUEER ANIMAL .- The Springfield (0.) Advertiser says: "Upon the table upor which we are writing is scrambling one of the most perfect specimens of entomological extravagance we have ever seen. It is neither fish, flesh, nor fowl, thing human, divine, or brutish. From its mechanical construction it might sport in mud or dive in ocean depth, or burrow to the earth's centre. It may be a tarantula, with intentions poisonous, or a centipede equally fearful. It was captured ST. JAMES' HOTEL, in a garden at the West End.
