

ABOUT POTATOES.—Not a little discussion has been indulged in by writers in the various agricultural journals respecting the proper time to dig and the proper way to care for potatoes after they are dug.

As to subsequent care, the mode adopted by the best growers is to put them immediately in a cool, dry cellar, in bins raised about six inches from the ground, and not over three or four feet wide, with shut doors and sides, so that the air can circulate freely through the mass.

In this way, unless they are poisoned, before putting in the cellar, potatoes can be kept from August to April.

Speaking of the Early Rose, a correspondent has recently dug several hundred bushels which yielded enormously, which he proposes to keep till next May before marketing.

Later varieties on the same farm will not be worth digging.

ARTHEMUS AND BETSEY JANE.—In an affecting account of his courting with Betsey Jane, Artemus Ward says: "There were a great many affection'ries which made me hanker after Betsey Jane. Her father's farm jined ourn—her cows and ourn—both our old mares had stars on their fore'd—the measles broke out in both families nearly the same time—our parents (Betsey Jane's and mine) slept regularly every Sunday in the same meetin' house, and the nabors used to observe, 'How thick the Ward's and Peaslee's air!' It was a sublime sight in the spring of the year to see our several mothers (Betsey Jane's and mine) with their gowns pin'd up so that they couldn't see 'em, affectionately billin' sonp together and aboosing the nabors."

An editor in Lancaster invested six weeks' salary in a gift entertainment, in the hope of getting the big prize. He drew a tomato pin-cushion, a night cap, a hat with a full on it, six clothes-pins and a carriage stuffer. Perhaps he gushed over half a column in eulogy of the enterprising next day! He was the most disgusted man in Lancaster—about the night cap especially, because his wife found it in his pocket, and was half-way round to lawyers to get a divorce, before he could explain.

A wonderful draught of fishes lately gladdened the hearts of the fishermen of Kings county, Nova Scotia. On one day a couple of nets hauled up 40,000, and on the following day 80,000 shad. The value of the fish caught within a few days was estimated at $18,000, or when cured for the market at $72,000.

THE WRESTLING MATCH.

I never see two men wrestling fully together, but it reminds me of an incident which took place under my eyes while I was in the army in 1864.

One regiment, which was in cavalry one, had been in quarters for more than two weeks; and our men were beginning to wish for some more exciting occupation than picking the worms from their "hard tack" at meal time, and playing with their horses in the intervals.

We were soon flung out of camp at a cheery but somewhat jerky trot; and when we got forward on the road to Dabney's Mills, the jerkiness of our trot was somewhat augmented, though we went on at a pretty good pace considering the fact that we were going over one of Old Virginia's "corduroy" roads.

After halting at the mills an hour or so, we continued on our way to the front, and in a short time we came in sight of our inner line of breastworks. There we found everything quiet, except when an occasional shot was given by us and returned by the rebels.

No second halt was ordered until we came to the outer line of our works, when we found a bugle rang out a clear, sharp, decisive peal, and the order came to dismount, feed our horses, and take our own rations.

Some New York regiments were camped along the outer line, but the one at whose headquarters we stopped was the Michigan. They were all fine, tall fellows, full of life and fun, and continually playing all sorts of tricks on one another.

One of the men on our cavalry squadron, by the name of George Sanders, a Kentuckian by birth, offered to wrestle with any of the Michigan boys for a chew of tobacco.

"This was a tall, muscular, young fellow, about six feet two inches in height, long, sandy, straight hair, and heavy, well-muscled, evidently one of the crack men of his regiment, and the life of the little group around him, laughing and joking, and—most comical—swearing with everybody within a circuit of one hundred yards around him.

His opponent was a Michigan boy, a tall, sturdy young fellow, about six feet, and nearly so, in height, but he had black, curly, and sparkling black eyes; he was, however, equally as upright and full of spirit as his fellow soldier.

The terms of the match were easily settled. One of the men in the crowd was to "kick the line," and the other was to "kick the line." As near as I can remember the following was the conversation that preceded it: "I say, chum," said George, "I'll bet you a chew of tobacco that I can throw you every time."

THE KIDNEYS!

The Kidneys are two in number, situated at the upper part of the loins, surrounded by fat, and consisting of three parts, viz: the Anterior, the Interior, and the Exterior.

The anterior absorbs. Interior consists of tissue, or vessels, which serve as a deposit for the urine and convey it to the exterior. The exterior is a conductor also, terminating in a single tube, and called a Ureter. The ureters are connected with the bladder.

The bladder is composed of various coverings or tissues, divided into parts, viz: the Upper, the Lower, the Nervous, and the Muscular. The Lower, the Nervous, and the Muscular, will expel, the lower retains. Many have a desire to urinate without the ability; others urinate without the ability to retain. This frequently occurs in children.

To cure these affections, we must bring into action the muscles, which are engaged in their various functions. If they are neglected, Gravel and Dropsy may ensue.

The reader must also be made aware, that however slight may be the attack, it is sure to affect the bodily health and mental powers, as our flesh and blood are supported from these sources.

GOUT, OR RHEUMATISM.—Pain occurring in the joints is indicative of the above diseases. They occur in persons disposed to acid stomach and chalybeate secretions.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., FEB. 28, 1867. DEAR SIR:—I have been suffering, for upward of twenty years, with gravel, bladder, and various affections, during which time I have used various medicinal preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent Physicians, but have derived but little relief.

Having seen your preparations extensively advertised, I consulted with my family Physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu. I did this because I had used all kinds of advertised remedies, and had found them worthless, and some quite injurious; in fact, I despaired of ever getting well, and determined to use no remedies thereafter unless I knew of the ingredients.

It was this that prompted me to use your remedy. As you advertised that it was composed of pure vegetable ingredients, and that it occurred to me and my Physicians, as an excellent combination, and with his advice, after an examination of the article, and consulting again with the druggist, I concluded to try it. I commenced its use about eight months ago, at which time I was confined to my room. From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks, was able to walk out. I felt much like writing you a statement of my case at this time, but thought my improvement might only be temporary, and therefore concluded to defer and see if it would be a greater value to you and more satisfactory to me.

I am now able to report that a cure is effected after using the remedy for five months. I have not used any new for three months, and feel as well in all respects as I ever did. Your Buchu being devoid of any unpleasant taste and odor, a nice tonic and invigorator of the system, I do not mean to be without it whenever occasion may require its use in such affections.
