JOHNSTOWN, Oct. 24, 1870. Dear Freeman-The new school house in Millville borough is just receiving its last touch.— It is a noble edifice. The main building is 56 feet square and two stories high. There are two feet square and two stories high. There are two projections for stairways, one castward and one westward, of 15 feet by 20. The basement contains two beating furnaces. The first story contains four rooms 28 feet square and one 28 feet by 56. This room is intended for exhibi-tions. It is covered with a slate roof and has 52 windows, four double entrance doors, and twelve other doors. School will be opened in this and the four rooms on Cinder street in about a month. The new building stands on the old Benshoof property, below the red mill. The steel works in this place are progressing slowly. Workmen are now placing the engine and the fly wheels which are to pump the air and water for blasting the furnaces and for hy-drostatic pressure. The frames for the couver-ters are put in, and the foundations for the cu-polas. It will take six months yet to finish the job. A railroad track is being laid to the build-ing.

ing. The new woolen factory at Woodvale is about half up. It will not be completed this year.— There was too great a demand for brick this year and as a consequence the work was re-tarded. The weather continues good, notwithstanding the lateness of the season. The pleasant nights have favored the efforts of some burglars to break open some stores and by accident one was arrested and sent up to your place. Sever-al drawers and tills have of late been relieved of small amounts of money. The shock of the carthquake was not felt here, which is somewhat strange. It happened everywhere at II o'clock. Even in SanFrancisco it happened at eleven, and as there is three

ALTOONA CITY, Oct. 25, 1870.

Friend Mac-Our people were painfully exci-ted on Sunday morning by the announcement of the sudden and unexpected death in the First Ward of Mrs. Hackett, wife of Mr. George F. Hackett, an engineer on the Middle Division.--5,400.

Hackett, an engineer on the Middle Division.— Mrs. Hackett was a young woman and had been married only about a year. She was in good health on Saturday, attended to her household duties as usual, and retired to bed between 9 and 10 o'clock that night. About 1 o'clock on Sunday morning she awoke with a very painful sensation in her head, and calling her husband, informed him of her feelings. He proposed to go at once for a physician, but she objected, re-marking that she thought she would be better in a short time. Soon afterwards she again 6.000.

still very ill. Mr. Hackett immediately dressed himself and started for the doctor, stopping at a neighbor's (Mrs. Hughes) to get her to stay with his wife during his absence. Returning to the house with Mrs. Hughes, he once more es-sayed to go for the doctor, but had searcely reached the outside of the house when his wife arose from her bed, wilked to the window, and rapped for him to return, remarking at the rapped for him to return, remarking at the ame time that she was dying. Mrs. Hughes at his moment entered the room and asked Mrs. Hackett what she could do for her, and the re-ply was, "Fan me!" Scarcely had she uttered the words, however, when she fell forward and expired, and this, too, before her husband had time to reach her. Who can tell the anguish of that stricken man's mind when he returned to find his beloved wife, who but a few hours be-fore was in good health and gave promise of a long life, a pulseless and inanimate corpse?— But let me draw the yell over the sad scene, too

A GOOD MARKET. -- Johnstown is a good mar-ket for all kinds of produce and the store of Leopold & Brother, No. 241 Main street, Johns-town, is a good place to get bargains in the made-up clothing line. Suits made to order and fits warranted. Made-up clothing of every style and just the thing for the fall and winter season. Sundar dress coats, pants and yeats as senson. Sunday dress coats, pants and vests as cheap and as fine as can be bought in the East-ern cities. Call and get your measure taken for a wording miles. a wedding suit.

I FEEL.-I feel, I feel like going to N. F. Car-roll's Store, No. 215 Main street, Johnstown, and purchasing thirty dollars' worth of dry goods and groceries. I feel like the morning star when I think of his choice dress goods. Shoo fly, don't bother me, when I am buying goods from Carroll, because Carroll keeps such pat-terns as would make even the morning star feel prouder. Call and purchase some of his latest styles. Buy a dress for your wife, sister, daugh-ter, or mother immediately. ter, or mother immediately.

SWEET HOME.—There is no place like home, but even home can be made sweeter by deco-rating it with dry goods and dress goods from Murphy's Store, Mansion House Corner, Johns-town, where all the fashions are fully repre-sented and where every kind attention is paid to the comfort of the customer. Call on John J. Murphy and have a talk about his new styles and patterns, and don't be bashful about buy-ing. Now is the time for bashful about buy-ing. ing. Now is the time for bargains.

LEAVES .- Leaves have their time to fall, and LEAVES.-Leaves have their time to fail, and flowers to wither at the north wind's blast, and stars to set, and Leopold Mayer, No. 212 Opera House, Main street, Johnstown, to sell dry goods and dress goods faster than the leaves can fail. Mr. Mayer has an immense lot of goods now on his shelves for sale at extraordi-nary low prices—as low as those who are clos-ing out. He has most beautiful styles of winter bonnets and shawls. Give him a call.

MRS. PARTINGTON .- This old lady told "Ike" that the late earthquake had disturbed the equanimity of the polls and enabled James J. Murphy to sell more ready-made clothing at his famous stand, No. 109 Clinton street. If one should be shaken off the earth there is nothing like taking a good supply of clothing along for uncertain weather, and James J. Murphy is the man to sell you everlasting clothing at very cheap rates, considering the war call.

AURORA.—The Northern Lights were so bril-liant a few nights ago as to enable M. H. Mayer to sell ready-made clothing till near midnight, at his famous old stand, No. 214 Opera House, Johnstown. Mr. Mayer keeps superb clothing for men and boys. He has coats, overcoats, vests, pants, shirts, and all other kinds of made-nn clothing to the very best material and chean up clothin; of the very best material and cheap for cash. Kind reader, you cannot do a better thing than call on Mayer.

But let me draw the veil over the sad scene, too heart-rending to be dwelt upon. I need scarce-ly add that Mr. H. has the sincere sympathy of all who have learned of his great and unexpect-ed bereavement. On Friday last a little five or six years' old daughter of Mr. Reuben Leader, residing in this city, complained of being unwell, and was told by her mother to go up stairs and lie down. As the child had been chatting pleasantly while on her way up stairs, the mother naturally sup-posed that she was but slightly indisposed and for the time being paid no further attention to her. When the father returned from his work, however, he inquired for his little daughter, however, he inquired for his little daughter, and on being told that she was up stairs he proceeded to seek her, but what was his horror to find her lifeless body stretched out upon the

When the war of 1812 broke out he shouldered his musket in defence of his adopt-ed country, under Col. Caberry, and was dis-charged after three months' service. In May, 1814, he volunteered again and fought under Capt. Rood. Col. Thompson and Gen. Winder at the battle of Bladensburg. Mr. Crouse was, perhaps, the only survivor who fought at that battle. He never applied for a pension, and when urged to do so his reply was, "There are greedy fellows enough in this country."—But-ler Herald. Mr. Crouse was the father of Messre. John and Jos.
