And as good maps are the basis of all useful research in every department of science and the arts, especially in the practical sciences of geology and metallurgy, the first step toward a geological survey is to obtain as correct a map as possible, if not of the entire State, at least of such parts thereof as are of the most importance to be studied geologically.

Cambria Freeman.

EBENSBURG, PA. THURSDAY MORNING, JAN. 12, 1871.

The result of the Georgia election is a little better than we announced last week. The Congressional delegation stands now six democrats to one carpet-bagger—three-fourths of the Legislature democratic, and a democratic majority on the popular vote of the State of over forty one thousand. How "will that do for high" for U. S. Grant?

JOURNALISTIC.—The Harrisburg Daily Patriot commemorated the new year by taking into itself an entire new outfit, head-gear and all, and is now fully and judiciously expended. The requisite number of gentlemen, possessing the necessary qualifications, have generously consented to serve on this board, which is now fully organized, and the objects fully contemplated are being accomplished. Early during the session their first annual report will be presented for your consideration, which will give a full account of the extent and importance of their philanthropic transactions in behalf of the Commonwealth.

THE EUROPEAN WAR. While two heroic nations in Europe have been engaged in deadly strife, shocking to civilization, our country has been but little affected by it in a physical sense. But our sympathies are deeply excited for both people, and in the name of humanity we earnestly hope their differences may soon be satisfactorily adjusted, and peace restored.

THE MILITARY AT ELECTIONS. The employment of the United States troops at elections, without the consent of local and State governments, has recently received considerable attention and reprehension. It is regarded as an interference with the sovereign rights of the States, which was not contemplated by the founders of the general government, and, if persisted in, would lead to results disastrous to peace and harmony. The practice is one so serious in its character, and so injurious in its tendencies, as to merit prompt consideration, and decisive action, not only by the General Assembly, but by Congress.

THE ELECTION OF "OLD UNCLE" JAKE ZEIGLER OF THE BUTLER HERALD, to the position of Clerk of the Senate, is a proper and well merited reward for long and faithful services rendered to the democratic party. Besides all this, he has hosts of warm and admiring friends in this county of Cambria. His reputation as a fearless and able democratic journalist is widespread, and no man of either party from one end of the State to the other, who knows Jake Zeigler, will regret his election, or fail to acknowledge his peculiar fitness for the duties of the office to which he has been elected. Long live "Old Uncle Jake," and may higher honors be as freely bestowed as they are eminently deserved by the worthy Clerk of the Senate.

HON. EDWIN BANKS died at his residence in Lewistown last Friday, aged about 80 years. He had long been a leading and active member of the Democratic party of the State, and was a participant in the Reform Convention of 1838. After that time, he was twice elected by his party to the office of Auditor General of Pennsylvania, and subsequently held the position of Associate Judge of the Courts of his county. He was highly respected and esteemed by all who knew him, and has left an honorable and unsullied record behind him. He was the father of Thaddeus Banks, Esq., of Hollidaysburg, who is a most worthy son of a worthy sire.

The corrupt and annually exciting election of State Treasurer is no doubt transpiring at Harrisburg to-day (Wednesday) as we go to press. The political bazaar of both parties are therefore in full force, ready for their pray. Of course, so far as the interests of the tax payers are concerned, it makes but little difference who the man is who may prove successful in the disgraceful scramble, and as for ourselves, we feel no manner of interest in the result. We will say this, however. The Democratic party has a majority of one in the State Senate. Let the members of that party in the Senate pass a law just as soon as possible, to effectually control and protect the public monies of the people, and then throw the responsibility of the defeat of the bill on the radical majority in the House. That course will make an invulnerable record for our party; otherwise it will sink into deserved contempt. We intend to refer to this question next week. It is a matter of great State interest, and the people, and not a corrupt "ring," ought to know which shall rule.

P. S. A telegraphic dispatch, received on the eve of going to press, informs us that R. W. Mackey, Esq., of Allegheny county, has been elected State Treasurer by a vote of 70 to 60. We will have more to say about it next week.

The message of Gov. Geary, judging from the tone and temper of the radical papers of the State, does not meet with general endorsement or even common courtesy from his political friends. It is well known that John W. Geary at one time in his somewhat eventful life was a citizen of this county, and was then a democrat of the strictest faith and in full sympathy with the principles of that party. It is also well known that at a much more recent date he declared himself "a democrat without suffix or prefix." In view of these facts, then, it need not be wondered at that he sometimes "shows his raising," as he takes occasion to do in the well merited rebuke he administers to the President in that portion (published entire in our paper) of his message relating to the employment of troops at elections. Grant has, in violation of all law and precedent, as our readers are aware, used the military power of the general government to overawe and coerce the citizens of several States into submission to his arbitrary demands; in all of which attempts, however, we are glad to say, he has most signally failed, as he certainly deserved to do. On this subject Geary treats the President's disgraceful conduct in the strongest terms of condemnation, and although a more benighted time to have done this would have been when United States soldiers were stationed at several of the polls in the city of Philadelphia, on the day of the recent election there, still we cannot refrain from giving the Governor due credit for having even at the eleventh hour, enunciated such bold and patriotic sentiments as he gives expression to in this and other portions of his recent message to the Legislature. But of this more in our next.

Speaker Wallace's Address.

We publish below the address of HON. WILLIAM A. WALLACE, of Clearfield county, delivered on the occasion of his election as Speaker of the State Senate. It is a creditable production, full of sound and Statesmanlike suggestions, and greatly adds to Mr. WALLACE's reputation as an able Senator and an upright and pure man. The Democratic party in Cambria county, on more than one occasion, have testified their approbation of Mr. WALLACE, and we know that he gratefully appreciates their cordial recognition of his honest and efficient support of the principles of that party which he and they believe will sustain and make permanent the honor and sure prosperity of the State. We regard WILLIAM A. WALLACE, taking his record as a State Senator, as a fit and honorable representative of the party of the State, and feel quite sure that in his new and responsible position, as Speaker of the Senate, he will sustain his well earned and well deserved character for ability and integrity.

SENATORS.—Accept my thanks for the honor conferred upon me. I shall endeavor to discharge the duties of my post with impartiality, and I pray your aid and support in the administration of the government. I am confident that the decorum which becomes the Senate. In assuming control of this body for the first time in ten years, we recognize our responsibility, and forgetful of the calamities that have befallen us since we were first elected, and faithful always to the great duties of free government. Loud and able, but now approaching their full tide in the public mind, we trust their power to guide the present course of our country, and in our mission to remedy the evil of present legislation. Accomplished feats and their logical sequences are to be justly estimated and in their light we must hold the policy to lead the State to the control of the nation. Experimental reforms are worse than useless, but progress under the guidance of established truths becomes necessary and duty. To lead in such reforms, to guide our much loved State in such a channel, to increase and develop her resources, to cause her to take precedence with the lion of busy industry, to give equal and honest representation to every citizen, to retrench in her expenditure, to pay her debts, to check the tide of special legislation, to banish corruption, and to place our progress under the guidance of established truths becomes necessary and duty. REMARKABLE.—There lives a family in Dorchester county, every dark eyed male member of which, for the past fifty years, has gone blind, at the age of 20 or 25 years. Those with blue eyes escape the terrible affliction. There is a tradition about this singular circumstance which we lay before our readers as we heard it: Some sixty years ago, so goes the story, a beautiful black eyed girl of 20, from some cause or other, lost her eyesight. Her misfortune brought poverty and woe to her. Being unable to do any thing, she was sent to an orphan asylum. During one of her journeys she visited the neighborhood in which resided the ancestors of those who are now sightless. Instead of her helpless condition exciting, as it should have done, a feeling of sympathy, she was treated with ridicule by some of the younger members of the house her evil star had led her into. Two of the boys, as a matter of mere levity, took her for a promise to conduct her to a place where plenty awaited. Instead of giving her a safe conduct, they carried her into a swamp and left her. It is said that she cried out beseeching them to put her on the public road, but they heeded not their lamentations. Finding herself about to be deserted among the tangled brushwood, she turned her prayer to a curse, asking her Maker, in revengeful anguish, to punish her betrayers by making their offspring, for seven generations as helpless as she was; it is said that she was found dead in the swamp, having perished from hunger and cold. This may appear somewhat romantic, but whether the traditional part of it be false or true, it is assuredly a fact, that the male offspring of the family referred to lose their sight as indicated. Hundreds of people in Dorchester county will verify it.—Cambridge (Mass.) Herald.

A WESTERN HEROINE.—A Schoolmistress Risks her Life to Save her Pupils.—The heroic conduct of a lady teacher of Independent Grove, Miss Maggie Cooper, is recorded. The school building, which she was teaching in, was provided with ventilating pipes, connected with the rooms with registers of cast-iron, weighing about forty pounds each, and are let into the wall about thirteen feet from the floor. On Monday afternoon of last week, as two little boys were working at the black board, directly under the register, in Miss Cooper's room, the lady happened to cast her eye in the direction of the ceiling, and saw in her conformation the heavy iron register was on the very point of falling on the heads of the unconscious children. Taking in the situation at a glance, she saw that the little ones could not be removed in time to save their lives. At a sacrifice, she rushed to the spot, and extending her arms above the heads of the little boys, received the falling iron, and, by the utmost exertion of her strength, divided it which was its descent to the floor, where it fell close by the side of the imperiled children.

There is not the least doubt that, but for the heroic action of Miss Cooper, the lives of one or both of the boys would have been sacrificed. Miss Cooper received a slight cut in the hand, and for a day or two her arm was so numbed by the concussion as to be entirely useless.

The United States steamer Saginaw grounded on October 29, 1870, on the Grand Frigate Shoals, near Midway Island. Owing to the heavy surf which prevailed from that day until the 11th, when the steamer went to pieces, the officers and crew (about ninety in number), who had escaped to Ocean Island, were unable to save much of their stores. The island being barren, they were reduced to quarter rations at the very beginning. Lieutenant Talbot and a few of his men started in the gig for Honolulu on November 18, and on December 18, reached Kani, one of the Sandwich Islands, where he and many of the crew were drowned in the surf. Word was at once sent to Honolulu, and two steamers were immediately sent to the assistance of the shipwrecked sailors.

The fiftieth anniversary of the ordination to the priesthood of Very Rev. Father Keenan, of Lancaster, was celebrated on Jan. 1st, with impressive solemnity. Remains were made by Bishops Wood, Shanahan, and O'Hara. The venerable Father Keenan was ordained to the priesthood on January 1st, 1820 at St. Joseph's Church (then the Cathedral) Philadelphia, by the Right Rev. Henry Conwell, Bishop of the Diocese of Philadelphia. He came to Lancaster as pastor on Sept. 29, 1823, since which time he has been continually connected with St. Mary's.

It is understood that Gen. Butler has two more letters which Admiral Porter wrote to parties in New York denouncing Grant. These letters are said to eclipse the one already printed. Butler says he will make them public in a few days.

The Doctors Nospluss.—A Girl takes a Nap of Five Days and Nights, and Wakes up as Fit as Ever.—We have recently had in our midst a most remarkable case of coma with general anasthesia, lasting 120 hours. Emma Gray, who lives at 617 Green street, was attacked with epileptic convulsions early in the evening of December 27, which were repeated very frequently every four or five hours. After the convulsions ceased, she fell into a comatose state, in which she was utterly deprived of all her senses, not being able to see, hear, or feel, or in which she was electric batteries, or any applications which ordinarily succeed in reaching the human senses, and provoking some evidences of vitality.

The patient was visited by several of our prominent physicians who had heard of the phenomenon. Such cases are mentioned as being of extremely rare occurrence, and doubtless all of our disciples of Esculapius would have been glad to have witnessed to one of Watson, in his Principles and Practices of Physic," says that, after epileptic attacks, the subject has been frequently known to lapse into a stupor which lasted for an hour or two, sometimes for half a day. He says nothing of the complete loss of sensibility, however, as was the case in this instance. Many features in the case bore a strong analogy to that of the sleeping beauty from Obion county, Tennessee. The Green street woman was in this condition for nearly two days, until about ten p. m., Saturday, during which time she breathed regularly and freely, with no distortions of her face, her eyelids being just closed. To all outward appearance she was merely enjoying a gentle sleep. She says that she came to this city from Memphis, and that about five years ago, while living remote from scientific medical men, she fell into a similar state, which lasted nearly a week. Preparations were made to take her to the city, but she died before she gave signs of returning consciousness. The case is certainly a remarkable one, both as to symptoms and the duration. Emma is a stout, hearty girl, and looked, and really was, as well, in a very short time after waking, as she ever was, with the exception of paleness and weakness, which were the natural results of doing without food or water for so long a period.—St. Louis Times, Jan. 4.

News and Political Items.

Joseph T. Budlow was blown to pieces in the Hoosac Tunnel, on Thursday night last, by the premature explosion of a dynamite cartridge. —The York Gazette speaks highly of Messrs. Hendricks, Thurman and Hancock in regard to the next Presidency but prefers the Hon. Michael C. Kerr, of Indiana, as the next Democratic candidate.

—Mrs. Crosby, a Texan matron, is a model dreamist. She dreamed the other night that if she should buy a lottery ticket she would win a prize. She accordingly purchased the last ticket that was for sale, and drew $400.

—Miss Edmunda Lewis, the young scilicet has returned to Rome. She takes with her a commission to chase a life-sized statue of John Brown for the Union League Club, New York. It is thus that "loyalty" seeks to make the memory of the fanatic who sought to have Southern women and children butchered.

—Buckingham Smith, a State Senator of Florida, was found insensible in the streets of New York on Thursday, and died in Bellevue Hospital yesterday. The cause of his death was consumption. Deceased studied law in Maine, and was subsequently Judge of a Florida court, and Secretary of the Spanish Legion.

—An unknown and very fatal disease has appeared in Oregon, entire families being sometimes stricken at the same time. The physicians term it small-pox, but microscopic examination of the pustules obtained from the worst cases have failed to detect the first small-pox globule. It is still spreading, and baffles all medical skill.

—A curious freak of nature is said to have occurred recently at Cape Cod, Massachusetts. It is no less a phenomenon than a child three months old, who speaks more than human. The cause of such an abnormal growth seems to have been (as usual in such cases) that the mother during pregnancy had a monomania for killing snakes.

—The celebrated case of Fredrick Riell, a girl of 21 years, against Robert Barnes of Evansville, 72 years old, worth half a million dollars, for breach of promise and seduction, damages laid at $56,000, was concluded on Wednesday night at Princeton, Ind., the jury rendering a verdict for the defendant. The trial lasted for five days, and was of a most sensational character.

—A correspondent writing from Sallito, Indiana, gives account of remarkable twins born in that town. They were joined together from their shoulders to the lower portion of their bodies. There was but one body in fact, yet three arms and hands, two heads, two sets of legs, and two sets of feet. One died a short time after birth, one head dying ten minutes before the other.—The curiosity is in possession of Dr. Stauley, at Sallito.

—An extraordinary case is on trial before a United States Commissioner at Rochester. It is alleged that the defendant and about thirty others entered into a formal written agreement, before the election, to sell their votes to whoever would pay the most, and that the vote of the by-law of the association provided that twenty lashes should be inflicted on any member who voted contrary to the direction of their President.

—What shall be done with Asa Kittle, the blind boy who murdered his father and mother, is earnestly discussed in Troy and its neighborhood. It has been proposed to appoint a commission to settle the question of his care, and the Troy Times says the District Attorney will probably apply to the State very strenuously, and many persons believe that to send the boy to an asylum would be the best disposition that could be made of him.

—Minnesota papers tell a sad story of a little girl and boy who wandered away from the house of their father in Morrison county, in that State, and were subsequently found dead by the Indians. The boy lay on his back, having apparently died without much suffering. The girl had her arms and legs from her ears, and wrapped them in a lock of her hair, in a small piece of cloth, had put the little parcel in her pocket, and then laid down and died from cold, hunger and exposure.

—The census returns from more than a thousand counties in the Southern States show what needed no showing, that with negroes freedom is synonymous with death. When slavery existed the negroes in the South were a tenth of the population, but within the last ten years their multiplication has been scarcely perceptible, and so it becomes very probable what legal slavery increased illegal slavery has diminished.—Once the masters were men; now they are wretches, and carpet-baggers.
