

Cambria Freeman.
WEDNESDAY, MARCH 18, 1871.
LOCAL AND PERSONAL.
The ground was liberated on Thursday morning, and the prisoners were set at liberty.
The first storm of the season with thunder and lightning accompanied occurred on Wednesday.
"Wilmore" forgave us for crowd, and the common saying is, "it will rain on the day of the crowd."
The first of our French train to and from Philadelphia was a most satisfactory one.
The thermometer stood at 78 degrees in the shade. Pretty good for this time of the year.
Our farmers have commenced planting their corn, and it is to be hoped that some of them who are not farmers will do so.
The day was commemorated in Philadelphia by Grand High Mass and sermon at the Catholic church.
The Rev. Father, pastor at Nolo, Indiana, was killed by a horse one day last week.
The day was commemorated in Philadelphia by Grand High Mass and sermon at the Catholic church.
The Rev. Father, pastor at Nolo, Indiana, was killed by a horse one day last week.
The day was commemorated in Philadelphia by Grand High Mass and sermon at the Catholic church.
The Rev. Father, pastor at Nolo, Indiana, was killed by a horse one day last week.

St. Patrick's Day.—Yesterday, the 17th inst., was celebrated as the birth day of St. Patrick, the Patron Saint of Ireland. History tells us not only as to the day of his birth, but also as to the place of his nativity. His original name was Succoth, but at the time of his conversion by St. Germain it was changed to Maginnis. It was not until his appointment as Bishop of the diocese of Ireland that he had conferred upon him the name of Patrick. It appears from the most authentic records that Patrick was born in Wales about the year 372. The book of Lecan says his mother was a Frank. She was sister of St. Martin, Bishop of Tours. Patrick, with his father, mother and five sisters, embarked for Ireland for Brittany, probably to avoid the dangers and distresses which a country exposed to hostile invasions must ever be in. The Irish legend tells the number of captives taken in Britain, and among the captives taken was Patrick and two of his sisters. This invasion of Britain happened A. D. 288, at which time Patrick was sixteen years old. He lived in slavery seven years, and after his escape he went to Gaul, and then to Britain, and among the captives taken was Patrick and two of his sisters. This invasion of Britain happened A. D. 288, at which time Patrick was sixteen years old. He lived in slavery seven years, and after his escape he went to Gaul, and then to Britain, and among the captives taken was Patrick and two of his sisters.

COMMUNICATION.
WILMORE, March 14, 1871.
Mr. Editor.—Although I am not a subscriber to your valuable paper, I occasionally trespass upon your privilege by reading it. I received your issue of the 14th inst. I was surprised to find that a certain article signed "Soltero" had developed some views on the subject of the weather and crops, nine lines to "Squire Miller" to his special correspondence, and the rest to his humble self, with a slight sprinkling of the internal organs of the School Board of Sumnerville, which is a crime to print in your paper. My first thought was to write you an attack on me, but I was so much interested in your reflection, I changed my mind, fearing it might do you some harm. I have been such a herculean effort to pass without notice, and I would abide by such a decision, but I am not a subscriber to your paper, and I would not be deprived of such a glorious privilege. In the absence of any such action by the Board, I have been obliged to publish in your paper, and did only what I believed to be my duty. I have been a member of the School Board of Sumnerville, and I have been a member of the Catholic church in this town. I have been a member of the School Board of Sumnerville, and I have been a member of the Catholic church in this town. I have been a member of the School Board of Sumnerville, and I have been a member of the Catholic church in this town.

Our System of Practice.
The medical world has become divided into two camps, the one for the old system, and the other for the new system. The old system is based on the theory of humors, and the new system is based on the theory of the nervous system. The old system is based on the theory of humors, and the new system is based on the theory of the nervous system. The old system is based on the theory of humors, and the new system is based on the theory of the nervous system.

SMITH.—At the residence of his step-grandfather, Mr. John Quayle, at Summitville, in this county, on Saturday, the 11th inst., JAMES S. SMITH, Esq., aged about 24 years.
The deceased was the eldest son of Mr. M. H. Smith, for many years a resident of Summitville and Galtzville, this county, but now a citizen of Philadelphia. He was a subject of this county, and he was a member of the Pennsylvania State Militia, and he was a member of the Pennsylvania State Militia, and he was a member of the Pennsylvania State Militia.

DIED.
At the residence of his step-grandfather, Mr. John Quayle, at Summitville, in this county, on Saturday, the 11th inst., JAMES S. SMITH, Esq., aged about 24 years.
The deceased was the eldest son of Mr. M. H. Smith, for many years a resident of Summitville and Galtzville, this county, but now a citizen of Philadelphia. He was a subject of this county, and he was a member of the Pennsylvania State Militia, and he was a member of the Pennsylvania State Militia, and he was a member of the Pennsylvania State Militia.

THE ORIGINAL & RELIABLE
WALTHAM
WATCHES
The extensive use of these Watches for the last fifteen years by Railway Conductors, Engineers and Expressmen, the most exacting of watch-makers, has thoroughly demonstrated their strength, steadiness, durability and accuracy. These time-keepers are made every improvement that class in all these respects, is to decide the question as to the real value of these time-keepers. More than 300,000 of these watches are now speaking for themselves in the pockets of the people—a proof and a guarantee of their superior quality. The superior organization and great extent of the Company's Works at Waltham, enables them to produce watches at a price which renders competition futile, and those who buy any other watch merely pay from 25 to 50 per cent. more for their watches than is necessary. These time-keepers are made every improvement that class in all these respects, is to decide the question as to the real value of these time-keepers. More than 300,000 of these watches are now speaking for themselves in the pockets of the people—a proof and a guarantee of their superior quality. The superior organization and great extent of the Company's Works at Waltham, enables them to produce watches at a price which renders competition futile, and those who buy any other watch merely pay from 25 to 50 per cent. more for their watches than is necessary.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.
The ground was liberated on Thursday morning, and the prisoners were set at liberty.
The first storm of the season with thunder and lightning accompanied occurred on Wednesday.
"Wilmore" forgave us for crowd, and the common saying is, "it will rain on the day of the crowd."
The first of our French train to and from Philadelphia was a most satisfactory one.
The thermometer stood at 78 degrees in the shade. Pretty good for this time of the year.
Our farmers have commenced planting their corn, and it is to be hoped that some of them who are not farmers will do so.

St. Patrick's Day.—Yesterday, the 17th inst., was celebrated as the birth day of St. Patrick, the Patron Saint of Ireland. History tells us not only as to the day of his birth, but also as to the place of his nativity. His original name was Succoth, but at the time of his conversion by St. Germain it was changed to Maginnis. It was not until his appointment as Bishop of the diocese of Ireland that he had conferred upon him the name of Patrick. It appears from the most authentic records that Patrick was born in Wales about the year 372. The book of Lecan says his mother was a Frank. She was sister of St. Martin, Bishop of Tours. Patrick, with his father, mother and five sisters, embarked for Ireland for Brittany, probably to avoid the dangers and distresses which a country exposed to hostile invasions must ever be in. The Irish legend tells the number of captives taken in Britain, and among the captives taken was Patrick and two of his sisters. This invasion of Britain happened A. D. 288, at which time Patrick was sixteen years old. He lived in slavery seven years, and after his escape he went to Gaul, and then to Britain, and among the captives taken was Patrick and two of his sisters.

COMMUNICATION.
WILMORE, March 14, 1871.
Mr. Editor.—Although I am not a subscriber to your valuable paper, I occasionally trespass upon your privilege by reading it. I received your issue of the 14th inst. I was surprised to find that a certain article signed "Soltero" had developed some views on the subject of the weather and crops, nine lines to "Squire Miller" to his special correspondence, and the rest to his humble self, with a slight sprinkling of the internal organs of the School Board of Sumnerville, which is a crime to print in your paper. My first thought was to write you an attack on me, but I was so much interested in your reflection, I changed my mind, fearing it might do you some harm. I have been such a herculean effort to pass without notice, and I would abide by such a decision, but I am not a subscriber to your paper, and I would not be deprived of such a glorious privilege. In the absence of any such action by the Board, I have been obliged to publish in your paper, and did only what I believed to be my duty. I have been a member of the School Board of Sumnerville, and I have been a member of the Catholic church in this town. I have been a member of the School Board of Sumnerville, and I have been a member of the Catholic church in this town.

Our System of Practice.
The medical world has become divided into two camps, the one for the old system, and the other for the new system. The old system is based on the theory of humors, and the new system is based on the theory of the nervous system. The old system is based on the theory of humors, and the new system is based on the theory of the nervous system. The old system is based on the theory of humors, and the new system is based on the theory of the nervous system.

SMITH.—At the residence of his step-grandfather, Mr. John Quayle, at Summitville, in this county, on Saturday, the 11th inst., JAMES S. SMITH, Esq., aged about 24 years.
The deceased was the eldest son of Mr. M. H. Smith, for many years a resident of Summitville and Galtzville, this county, but now a citizen of Philadelphia. He was a subject of this county, and he was a member of the Pennsylvania State Militia, and he was a member of the Pennsylvania State Militia, and he was a member of the Pennsylvania State Militia.

DIED.
At the residence of his step-grandfather, Mr. John Quayle, at Summitville, in this county, on Saturday, the 11th inst., JAMES S. SMITH, Esq., aged about 24 years.
The deceased was the eldest son of Mr. M. H. Smith, for many years a resident of Summitville and Galtzville, this county, but now a citizen of Philadelphia. He was a subject of this county, and he was a member of the Pennsylvania State Militia, and he was a member of the Pennsylvania State Militia, and he was a member of the Pennsylvania State Militia.

THE ORIGINAL & RELIABLE
WALTHAM
WATCHES
The extensive use of these Watches for the last fifteen years by Railway Conductors, Engineers and Expressmen, the most exacting of watch-makers, has thoroughly demonstrated their strength, steadiness, durability and accuracy. These time-keepers are made every improvement that class in all these respects, is to decide the question as to the real value of these time-keepers. More than 300,000 of these watches are now speaking for themselves in the pockets of the people—a proof and a guarantee of their superior quality. The superior organization and great extent of the Company's Works at Waltham, enables them to produce watches at a price which renders competition futile, and those who buy any other watch merely pay from 25 to 50 per cent. more for their watches than is necessary.