IN GRANT'S PARADISE.

What a Correspondent Saw in San Domingo.

The people here—I refer, of course, to the blacks, for they are really the population—are not, I am sorry to say, a virtuous people, as the report of the Commissioners to Congress will probably show, for they have investigated the question and found the facts appalling. The number of diseased children is very large, and cases of grown persons being literally eaten up by disease are not rare. But the general healthfulness of this portion of the island is established beyond question. Dr. Newcomb, of Cornell University, who is charged by the Commission with the investigation as to the sanitary condition of the island, reports the existence of leprosy.—The evidence of the physicians in charge of the hospitals shows that there is always leprosy here, but the cases are few—not more than twenty in the whole city—and it is not considered contagious. But what the city is rich in is cripples and monstrosities. There are big headed children, children with a dozen or two fingers, and some without any, children with joints as big as their heads, and with legs bigger than their bodies, children overgrown and undergrown, children with feeble minds or with without any at all, and all other capricious varieties. But the most singular of all are the spotted children; that is, white children turning black or black children turning white. You may believe either, according to your politics. Whether this is a freak of nature to show that the black and white races can live in harmony together on this island, or whether it is the beginning of a system to introduce white labor here and exterminate the black race, I leave for Democrats and Republicans to discuss in Congress. The spotted children are certainly curious specimens of Santo Domingo productions. There are not many of them, but enough for variety. There are children also here that have learned much of our coinage system, which is astonishing in creatures so young. They stand on the street corners all over the city, and continually say to the Americans who pass them, "Five cents," or "Ten cents," according to the extent of their English or the knowledge of our coins. They also plead for cigar-stumps, for I believe that unfortunate children of tender age here are "brought up" on nicotine instead of lacteal fluids. They all smoke from the time they walk, without regard to sex, race or color, or previous condition. The simplicity of their habits is also worthy of notice. A single costume, or one better fitted to the climate, might not be suggested, and "the fit," as the tailors say, is perfect. There are many beggars in this city, as in every other, and one in particular is peculiar. He is a week minded man of perhaps fifty years of age, who wears as few clothes as he can get along with. He goes about town with the vacant countenance of one who, and if he sees a white man or a stranger, he follows him slowly about the city for hours at a time, sometimes a few yards behind and sometimes only a few feet. He never says anything, but constantly follows, as faithful and as silent as your shadow. If you enter a shop, he guards the door until you come out, when he again takes up his line of march. If he carries a stick or cane with him, as he frequently does, he rubs it slowly under his nose from end to end. If he has no cane, he scratches his nose gently with his hat, while he continues to eye you. After he has followed you thus for a mile or two, you become very nervous, and this feeling continues to grow as your walk is extended, until finally you become so uneasy that you fear that you will go mad yourself unless he turns back. You finally stop and ask him what he wants. You make gestures at him, you ask him if he speaks Spanish, if he speaks French, if he speaks English; and you protest against being followed in that manner wherever you go. He says not a word; he merely looks at you fixedly and polishes his nose with his cane, or sandpapers it with his hat. In your despair you appeal to anybody that comes along. Ten chances to one you cannot make yourself understood, and still your shadow grins at you and puts an extra polish on his nose.—You become frantic, you begin to think it is a conspiracy to make you crazy. You walk on rapidly, your friend is close behind you; you turn corners, you are conscious that that cane and that nose are following you; you rush into a store, you can hear the grating of that hat against that nose. And what do you think this is about? Mercy this: the man is a helpless and harmless idiot who follows people about until they give him money—five cents, ten cents or a quarter of a dollar—and then he leaves them. He never says a word, but has a droll prejudice against gold. If you offer him a gold piece, he scratches his nose and refuses it; but he will take silver coin to any extent.

The soldiers of Santo Domingo are a curious lot of fellows. I imagine Falstaff's soldiers must have been dressed like princes in comparison. Look out from the piazza, we see the following assortment, part of them guarding the palace doors, and part doing duty at the tower across the way.—Here is a tall negro, very black and thin, with a white slouch hat, a shirt of uncertain color and material, blue cotton pantaloons, and barefooted; he is armed with a musket. Near him is a red-faced mulatto, with red whiskers and red hair, who wears a long black frock coat and brown linen pantaloons rolled up to the knees, barefooted, and armed with a sword. Another one of very small stature wears a black silk hat—probably fifteen years of age (the hat not the man)—a blue coat faced with red, and indescribable pantaloons, barefooted, and armed with a machete, or long knife. Another is in his shirt sleeves, another has a full suit of blue cotton, and another is ragged in the extreme. Nearly all in the city have cartridge boxes and waist belts, marked with brass plates containing the letters "U. S.," the same worn by our own soldiers during the war, and similar to those now in use in our regular army. Many are armed with Springfield rifles, and some with the superior Remington breech loaders, or English Tower muskets. All these were bought from the United States, or received in part payment for rental of Samana Bay, except the old Tower muskets.—Tribune Correspondence.

JOSH BILLINGS thus defines "horns:" "Dinner horns—This is the oldest and most solemn thare is. It is set to musik, and plays 'Home, Sweet Home' about noon. It will arrest a man and bring him in quicker than a sheriff's warrant. It causes the deaf to hear and the dumb to shout for joy. Glorious old instrument! Long may your lungs last!—Whiskey horn—This horn varys in size—from three to six inches is the favorite length. It is different from other horns, being of a third sekter. It is really more ingenshus than the ram's horn; six inches of it will knock a man perfectly calm."

—"The old man's dumb again," the latest popular song, was sung in a concert during the late inauguration at Washington. A Tammany Senator left the audience, believing he had been insulted.

HENRY T. HELMBOLD'S

COMPOUND FLUID

EXTRACT CATAWBA

GRAPE PILLS.

Component Parts—Fluid Extract Rhubarb and Fluid Extract Catawba Grape Juice.

For Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Bilious Affections, Sick or Nervous Headache, Costiveness, &c. Purely Vegetable, containing no mercury, minerals, or deleterious drugs.

These Pills are the most delightfully pleasant purgative, superceding castor oil, salts, magnesia, etc. There is nothing more acceptable to the stomach. They give tone, and cause neither nausea nor griping pains. They are composed of the purest ingredients. After a few days' use of these, such an invigoration of the entire system takes place as to appear miraculous to the weak and enervated, whether arising from imprudence or disease. H. T. Helmbold's Compound Fluid Extract Catawba Grape Pills are not sugar-coated, from the fact that sugar-coated Pills do not dissolve, but pass through the stomach without dissolving, consequently do not produce the desired effect. The CATAWBA GRAPE PILLS, being pleasant in taste and odor, do not necessitate their being sugar-coated. Price Fifty Cents per box.

HENRY T. HELMBOLD'S

Highly Concentrated Compound

FLUID EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA

WILL radically exterminate from the system Scrofula, Syphilis, Fever Sores, Ulcers, Sore Eyes, Foul Legs, Sore Mouth, Sore Head, Pimples, Skin Diseases, Salt Rheum, Cankers, Blotches on the Face, White Swellings, Tumors, Carbuncles, Abscesses, Scrofulous Humors, Diseases of the Throat, Chronic Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, and all diseases that have been established in the system for years.

Being prepared expressly for the above complaints, its wonderful curative properties are far in advance of any other preparation of Sarsaparilla. It gives the complexion a clear and healthy color, and restores the patient to a state of health and purity. For purifying the blood, removing all chronic constitutional diseases arising from an impure state of the blood, and the only reliable and effectual remedy for the cure of pains and swelling of the bones, ulcerations of the Throat and Legs, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurvy, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

ROSADALIS

THE GREAT AMERICAN HEALTH RESTORER! purifies the Blood and cures Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Diseases of Women, and all Chronic Affections of the Blood, Liver and Kidneys. Recommended by the Medical Faculty and many thousands of our best citizens.

Read the testimony of physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis; send for our Rosadalis Guide to Health Book, or Almanac for this year, which we publish for gratuitous distribution; it will give you much valuable information.

Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore, says:

I take pleasure in recommending your ROSADALIS as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one in a case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of Scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made and find it an excellent compound of alterative ingredients.

Dr. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of Scrofula and Secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results—as a cleaner of the blood I know no better remedy.

Samuel G. M'Fadden, Murfreesboro', Tenn., says: I have taken seven bottles of Rosadalis and I am entirely cured of Rheumatism; send me four bottles, as I wish it for my brother, who has scrofulous sore eyes.

Benj. Bechtol, of Lima, O., writes: I have suffered for 20 years with an inveterate eruption over my whole body. A short time since I bought a bottle of Rosadalis and it effected a perfect cure.

Rosadalis is sold by LEMMON & MURRAY, Ebensburg, and Druggists generally. Laboratory, 61 Exchange Place, Baltimore. CLEMENTS & CO.,

Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS

Hundreds of Thousands

Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK,

Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell.

$1000 will be given for an incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Head ache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurvy, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

MEDICAL PROPERTIES OF EGGS.—The white of an egg has proved of late to be the most efficacious remedy for burns. Seven or eight successive applications of this substance soothe the pain and effectually exclude the burn from the air. This simple remedy seems preferable to collodion, or even cotton. Extraordinary stories are told of the healing properties of a new oil which is easily made from the yolk of hen's eggs. The eggs are first boiled hard, and the yolks are then removed, crushed and placed over a fire, where they are carefully stirred until the whole substance is just on the point of catching fire, when the oil separates and may be poured off. One yolk will yield nearly two teaspoonfuls of oil. It is in general use among the colonists of South Russia as a means of curing cuts, bruises and scratches.—Health and Home.

ASSISTING WITH OIL.—A foreign paper gives this advice; we cannot vouch for its correctness:

When a child, or an adult, for that matter, takes a cold which settles on the chest, or in the throat, or in the head in the region of the nose, one of the first things to be done is to anoint the parts affected with sweet oil. The oil should be heated, which it can be easily by pouring a little into an iron spoon, and holding the latter over the flame of a lamp for a minute, and then rubbed into the skin of the patient with the hand. Do this always at night and at other times in the day when the case is a severe one. It is a certain relief, and will do not a little towards affecting a cure. Incipient influenza and croup may not unfrequently be warded off in this way.

NEW REMEDIES FOR BURNS.—Two new remedies for burns are added to the list—The first is charcoal. A piece of vegetable charcoal laid on a burn at once soothes the pain, says the Gazette Medicale, and if kept applied for an hour cures it completely.—The second one is sulphate of iron. This was tried by M. José, in the Children's Hospital, Lausanne. In this case, a child four years of age, had been extensively burned. Suppuration was abundant and so offensive that they ordered the child a tepid bath, containing a couple of pinches of sulphate of iron. This gave immediate relief to the pain, and being repeated twice a day—twenty minutes each bath—the suppuration decreased, lost its odor, and the child was soon convalescent.—Medical Press and Circular.

BEE STINGS.—A correspondent of the Sheffield American says that "a good absorbent" will ease the pain of stings. "The best absorbing substance that I have tried is lean fresh meat. This will relieve the pain of a wasp sting almost instantly, and has been recommended for the cure of rattlesnake bites. I have also used it with marked effect in erysipelas."

THERE is a remedy for croup going the rounds, which may, perhaps prove efficacious. It is simply allspice tea, the tea being made of whole grains of allspice. According to all accounts, it gives almost instant relief in cases where other remedies have failed, and seems at once to cut the phlegm loose and relieve the child.

Astonishing Discoveries of an Extinct Race in New Mexico.

Since the result of Governor Axtell's explorations in New Mexico was made public there has been no discovery of more interest to the American archæologist than that alleged to have been made recently by a party on the line of the projected Dulanty and Minnesota railroad. The workmen were engaged in excavating for the road bed in a limestone at the foot of a bluff, and it is said have come upon a flat stone covered with strange characters. This being removed opened the way into a passage about two feet wide and six feet high, leading directly into the heart of the bluff. At the distance of about fifty feet from the entrance to the stone, similar to the first, had to be removed when a large chamber revealed itself. The walls of the solid rock, about twenty feet square and twenty feet high. The floor was hard and smooth, while the walls and ceiling were carved in sort of rude figures, interspersed with figures of birds, trees, stars, serpents and characters. The south wall was also carved, with a representation of the sun, immediately below this the figure of a man standing in his hand a cloven.

So far the revelations were the most extraordinary ever known in the history of this country. But the most curious part of the discovery was yet to come, and one which would go far to support the theory that the Aztecs are the descendants of the ancient race. A flat slab in the center of the cavern being raised, revealed a subterranean vault filled with skeletons of human beings, the largest being seven feet eight inches in length, by actual measurement. By the side of each skeleton was set a small vase filled with ashes, and below earth, beneath which were found bones and particles of animal matter. The skeletons were placed in a sitting posture, with their faces toward the southwest.

Who this last and unknown race of people were can have been we leave it for others to conjecture. Perhaps they were a remnant of that mysterious and ancient people with whom the Aztecs are said to have waged war, and destroyed in the valley of Mexico. Or they may have been related to the great race of mound builders, which once held away all along the valley of the Mississippi. The figured stone in the cavern, the stone chamber would indicate that they had advanced in the arts beyond the condition of the Indians, and had attained a higher degree of civilization than was reached by the race that came after them. In the fingers of the skeleton was clasped a pencil, and traces of cloth were found around the feet of the remains. What these important and curious, many years, discoveries were found, time only will disclose. The Lake Superior mines had been worked at a very early period.

If the accounts we have received of these remarkable caves are strictly true, the information may derive from it importance to the study of our stock of knowledge concerning the primitive races of this continent. We are glad to know that the remains have been removed to the Smithsonian Institute at Dubuque.—New York Times.

A FAMILY OF GIANTS.—The entire population of Jackson county and the neighborhood of Lone Jack is enjoying the sensation of "three days' wonder." They have discovered a family of extraordinary size. The party of eight-seven from this county, and learn as follows concerning them: They arrived in Jackson county a few days ago and took up their abode in a log cabin. The party found them living in a house devoid of windows and without a floor. The light was admitted through a hole in the roof, which also served as a chimney. The party were received by a man of about six inches in height, who introduced them to his wife and daughter, the latter a mere child, not more than twelve years old, whose proportions were even more extraordinary than those of her father. She is the Rose Plummer, and though not quite fifteen she is larger than the mother, she standing nearly seven feet high and proportionately large otherwise.

The man appeared to be glad to see the visitors, and invited them into the house, which were surprised to see no table, but instead a stone supported by two trestles on which were planks laid upon them. The meal consisted of bread without dishes or crockery of any kind. The food, consisting of plain substantials, was served up on shingles. The party separated more than they enjoyed the interview. Rose Plummer says he comes to Mount Vernon from Indiana, and he thinks he has made a mistake in coming here, and proposes to abandon the enterprise and return to his gal and start out in a new line of business. He says his fortune is made if he can only quit growing." He remarked in reply to a question as to whether he was not annoyed by the visits of the curious:

"Well, no; I don't care as much as the 'gal' does. I don't change a thing for the sake of her to the neighbors. Who come here are kind to us since we came here, and I reckon it will get her used to being looked at, and she will not mind the show business by the summer."

The mother of the girl is not taller than the ordinary size, and seems to weigh about the curiosity manifested by spectators.—Kansas City (Mo.) Bulletin.

TALKING WITHOUT A TONGUE.—In the transactions of the Philosophical Society, published between 1742 and 1751, there is an account of Margaret Cutter, who, at four years old, lost her entire tongue from a cancerous affection; but she, nevertheless, afterward retained the power of distinct following and speech, without any impediment or distortion whatever. She not only spoke as distinctly as other people, but could sing to admiration, articulating with distinctness her words while singing. What is more singular, she could form no idea of the sound of a tongue in other persons. This remarkable case was brought before the Royal Society, under certificates of attestation by the minister of the parish, a medical practitioner, and an another respectable gentleman well known in Suffolk, where she resided. On account of the extraordinary character of the case, the society requested an additional report upon the subject, and from another set of witnesses, named by the society for the purpose, and for whom they drew up the necessary questions and marked out the proper course of examination. The second report coincided with the first in all particulars and shortly afterward the young woman was brought to London, where she astonished the account by personally appearing and speaking and singing in the presence of the Royal Society, and many other persons.

—A man living in Columbia, Pa., after owning the house he lives in, lately refused to bury his father, who died suddenly, and returned the body over to the Coroner to be buried as a pauper, signed his name to the paper which read as follows: "I hereby refuse to take charge of the corpse of my father or pay for its burial."
