A SENSATION IN JOHNSTOWN .--- Under date of March 21st a correspondent of the Pittsburgh Leader turnishes the following:

A circular, gotten up by some unknown party or parties, "going for" a number of the prominent persons of this place, has been creating a sensation here the last couple of days. It is headed "Cod Fish Aristocracy," and signed "Night Hawk," and rather raps the editor of the Tribune and the managers of the Assistance fire company quite severely over the knuckles The subject matter of the circular is based upon a notice of the recent firemen's ball here, which appeared in the Tribnne. The said notice went on to compliment the fire company, "especially upon the gratifying measure of success attending their efforts to wrest the healthful pleasures of the dance from the low and vulgar." The author of the circular rather takes exception to this, and insinuates that the company at the ball was not it, and in fact says "disreputable persons were in attendance ; and in proof of this assertion it is only necessary to refer to a certain character, a resident of the Fifth ward, and a notorious member of the DEMI MONDE, on account of whose presence certain respectable ladies refused to dance." The circular-attacks, in an underhand way, several well-known persons here, and it has created quite a commotion among our people.

OUR TENTH TOWN COUNCIL -- March 14th, 1834, the following named officers were elected to govern Ebensburg horough : Burgess, M. D. Magehat. ; High Constable, Charles Litzinger ; Town Conneil, John Ivory, Wm. Rainey. Wm. Davis, David H. Roberts, John Lloyd. March 15, Moses Canan was appointed Town

Clerk, William W. Pryce Treasurer, Rowland Humphreys Street Commissioner, John Wiliams, Johnston Moore and James Rhey Street Regulators, Richard Lewis, John Williams and Johnston Moore Firemen, and Richard Lewis Superintendent of the Hay Scales. On motion, a "case for keeping the papers of the borough" was ordered to be bought, said case to cost $2.50. All obstructions in the streets and alleys of the borough were ordered to be removed before the first day of May, notice of the edict to be given through the columns of the "Sky." A committee was appointed to procure a water trough, to be placed near

ALTOONA CITY, March 22, 1871. FRIEND MAC-The past few days have been exceedingly prolific of accidents, of a more or less serious nature, and which I proceed to chronicle briefly:

Another boiler maker named Nagle, while at work on Tuesday in cutting rivets from an old fire box, was struck in the left eye by a piece from one of the rivits, which entered the pupil and entirely destroyed the sigh of the eye.

John Householder, one of the best cabinet makers in the State, was struck with such force by a piece of timber, which flew from a brass key and perknife were broken in one of his pockets and a lead pencil was driven into

Show as much about prayer and the word of God as Mr. "Maggie" himself. Mr. "Maggie," however, will bear with me when I tell him that Catholics cannot, in con-science, join in the prayers of unbelievers or read their corrupt version of the Bible. We are not of those kind that are "rags upon every bush and stick to none." We believe in "one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all," and per consequence in only one Church. Thus convinced, would it not be base and hypocritic. Our new Council and worthy Mayor do not work as harmoniously together as they might. There being some men of the Summer stripe in the Council may account for it. According to our city charter the Mayor has the right to appoint the Chief of Police, while the Council regulates his salary. The present Chief of Police, if we can be said to have one at present, for some reason became obnoxious to the majority of the Council, and the consequence was they notified the Mayor that the payment of the said Chief's salary would cease on and after date of notification. This action of the Council raised the ire of the Mayor, and he re-used to make another appointment, where up in the Council "Hazzard" ed an appoint ment of its own, at the last meeting, but up to There should be a time and place for all things, and if Miss Black has any leisure time at her this time his Honor has emphatically refused

Friend Mac-The last issue of your journal contains a communication from Wilmore signed by Maggie Black. Those who know the lady in question will not be prepared to admit that the composed the epistle, for, with all its im-perfections, it is too good to have ever come from her pen. Those who know nothing of her capacity, however, might credit her with the production. John McDevitt, a tinner in the Railroad

Others may continue on in their inconsistent course, but as for us we decline to follow in their train. And just here let me remind Mr. "Maggie" that Catholics pray at home and at church, and elsewhere attend to their duties without interfer-ing with others, which in truth and in spirit fulfils the precept to pray always; and if Miss Black and all other enthusiasts like her would pursue the same course the peace and harmony which should exist amongst all people would not be so often disturbed by bitter dissensions.

COURTING.-If you are a young man and are blessed with good health and ability to "hoe your own row" don't court favors of any one. or get a suit in the county court either. If you must go into the courting business, however, court some good girl and marry her, always being sure to buy the wedding ring first, and numerous household articles afterwards at the great jewelry, clock, fancy goods and general variety mart of C. T. Roberts, who courts the custom of his friends and fellow citizens.

GOLDEN CARE .- Take they olks of eight eggs, one cup of white sugar, one-half cup of sweet milk, one-half cup of butter, and one and three-quarter cups of the best flour, such as can always be bought at the lowest cash rates from E. J. Mills, dealer in flour, feed, lamps bacon, brooms, etc.-to which add a little back ing powder then mix and bake in the usua way and behold the result. For this and al other baking purposes be sure to use Mills

T. I. M. Yours, &c., JOHNSTOWN, March 22, 1871. DEAR FREEMAN-We have remarkably fine weather, brought about, no doubt, by Ben. Wade's visit to Dominica and the prospective Wade's visit to Dominica and the prospective anneration of that warm country. The weath-er is indeed such as is seldom seen in March-The very opposite is the fact. But the gentlebut look out for a squall between this and the 10th of Maynez ! The dry warm weather has positively dried up all sensations, and all kinds of local news. We are not even fighting about the bible down here !

Bunyan's Pilgrim Progress is played out .--Wendell Phillips pronounced his PHILLIP pic on Mr. O'Connell, and has departed, and the town is without a scene. But there is to be a stock fair on the race grounds some time in Aard. A. Kopelin is getting his front fence painted The Johnstown schools closed this week. A new brick schoolhouse is to be built in Kern ville. Our city will not buy the Kernville bridge. The Cambria Iron Co. is filling up to the old canal basin with the intention of bringing up a number of horses from the "flat." Work has not yet been resumed on the new woolen factory in Woodvale. The streets need scraping badly. Benj. Butler is getting out of

for which he has our thanks. Judge Roberts and Danisl Confer, both of whom died so sud denly within a few days of each other, were of the same age-69 years. St Patrick's Day was not celebrated here in a public manner, though there are very many Irishmen about Johnstown. The roads through the country are in a splendid condition. If every other evidence of the utter worthlessness of our police force was wanting, the old Grise house in the very centre of town, is a standing monument of their usclessness. About a month ago Mr. Grise moved out, and now every win-ashes, oyster shells and other obstructions in | ist because for sooth I would not be will Lutheran prayers with Miss Black or The wordy war between the Radical and read or listen to her mutilated version of the Scriptures. If this makes me an Atheist, there are three hundred millions more like me in the world. But I am a Catholic, and not an Atheist. Still I am free to say that Atheism, bad as it is. is no worse in many particulars than Luther-anism. The first pushes its impiety further than the latter, but, withal, it is unquestionably more logical. Lutheranism is a stekly, decrepid human institution in which it is folly to live and madness to die. How can any man lash himself into the belief that he can save his soul by the aid of a religion called into existence by an apostate monk? Mr. "Maggie's" frequent allusions to "this man is not posted, perhaps, and it may do no harm to refresh his memory with a little history. "This land" was discovered by a Catholic and named in honor of a Catholic, and Catholies were the first to proclaim liberty of con-science on its shores. And as regards the inde-pendence of this republic, let us see by compar-ison what Catholics and Lutheraus have done in that direction. George the Third, who tried to make us the most shield of divers we at to make us the most abject of slaves, was a Lu-theran. A Lutheran German prince sent his Lutheran Hessians over here in droves to crush and stamp out the life of this young republic, Quite different was it with Catholics, however, France sent us men and means; the Irish re-cruited the ranks thinned by Ressian bullets, and the immortal Washington could truly have said that he received Catholic aid and sympathy from all quarters of the world. And yet, notwithstanding all this, the very descendants of dustardly Hessians would now invade the sacred rights of conscience-rights for which our coreligionists fought, bled and died, as is abun-dantly recorded on the pages of American his-

Miss Black finds an apologist for her obscuri-ty and bad spelling in Mr. "Maggie," who puts in the plea that she wrote to illiterate persons. This would certainly be no justification, even it ue, for it is much easier for even the illiterate understand a correct than a stupid letter. Miss Black wrote as well as she knew how, but I assure her that those she styles unintelligent were not slow to detect her deficiencies; and they are not now prepared to believe that she could bring either "ancient or modern lore" into requisition, no matter how much she might try. Moreover, some members of that family to whom Mr. "Maggie" sneeringly alludes, could teach him and his protege more about "ancient and modern lore" in ten minutes than they ever earned in their entire lifetime. My own pedigree has also been handled in the s own pedigree has also been under that sub-munication from Wilmore, but on that subcommunication from wilmore, but on that sub-ject the gentieman is grossly mistaken. "My father and mother were Irish, and I am Irish too," though born in this township. My origin is purely Milesian, and my ancestors lived in the table." "Green Isle" long before the days of St. atrick. I know as much about the history of that country as Mr. "Maggie," but have yet to learn that Catholic Ireland ever put any one to death for reading the Scriptures. On the other hand, let it be borne in mind that the first relious persecution ever known in Ireland began the days of Henry the Eighth, and who can ignorant of the relentless cruelty with which has been carried on against Irish Catholics in that day to the present. This, however, a delicate subject, and one that should not type been introduced by the Wilmore gent.

The gentleman read something somewhere about the "dark ages," and as in the case of the "ancient and modern lore" quotation, he pre-tends to know all about them. As this com-munication is already longer, however, than I to pieces. What makes the matter look worse is that it is next door to the Presbyterian "dark ages," except to ask a plain question or two. If Lutheranism existed before the "dark ages," why did it permit the ages to become dark? It cannot even be urged that they made an effort to ward off the darkness, for there is an enort to ward on the carkness, for there is no trace in history of the fact. We have no ev-idence whatever that a Lutheram over raised his voice on behalf of Christianity at any time previous to the so-called "dark ages." If they existed in those days they must be held responsible for permitting the ages to become so dark, and it is shaneful for them to binme others for their own misdeeds. Again, if the early Chris-tians were Lutherans, the first Catholic must have originally been a Lutheran, and must have become a pervert to Catholicity. After that he must have converted all the Lutherans to the new faith, for history clearly shows that there was a time when there was not a single Lutheran in existence, nor even the name of that sect known among men. Now if the "dark ages" intervened without the slightest opposi-tion from the Lutherans, nothing came to pass but what the but what that seet richly merited. If any op-position was shown to the "spirit of the age," if any pen was used or any voice raised by Lutherains at that time in defence of Christianity, the fact is susceptible of proof, and we would be giad to see the evidence. No such proof, howthe Fire Insurance Companies of the country in the matter of capital, promptness and relia-bility. Alexander Brothers, 1319 Eleventh Av_{-} enue, Altoona, are its only authorized agents for this section of the State. They will insure property at lower rates than can be obtained for the very can be adduced, as every scholar knows, and it is therefore fair to conclude that there were no Lutherans anterior to the "dark ages." and as they were not in existence then they must certainly have been introduced since, not must certainly have been introduced since, not

OBITUARY.

CONFER .-- Died, suddenly, at his residence in East Conemaugh, on Saturday, 11th inst., Mr. DANIEL CONFER, aged 69 years. The deceased had for many years been a resi dent of East Conemaugh, and by his proverbial uprightness had secured the good will of all with whom he became acquainted. He was in the enjoyment of his usual health up to the time of retiring to rest on the night of the 10th. and on the morning of the 11th he was found dead in his bed with his hands crossed upon his dead in his bed with his hands crossed upon his breast, as if wrapped in deep but natural slum-ber. Mr. Confer was a native of Bedford coun-ty, having been born there in 1802, and was the son of a much respected farmer. He was by son of a much respected farmer. He was by son of a much respected farmer. He was by trade a clothier, but for the past thirty years he has followed the occupation of inn-keeper, and since 1859 has been the proprietor of the Confer House in this borough. He served in the capacity of councilman for several terms, and in that position, as well as in all other acts of his life, both public and private, the rule of action and duty with him was ever in accord-ance with the divine precept, "As ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." He was a devout member of the Caththem.' olic church, and how often have we watched him, that aged man, wending his way, regardless of all worldly doings, to that altar before which his mortal remains were at last borne by his co-associates, the ex-councilmen and exburgess of our borough, then and there to have the last solemn rights of the faith he professed performed over all that is or to us seems to be the last of man's mortality. The bereaved fam-ily of our old and true friend, now gone from our midst forever, have the heartfelt sympathy of this entire community. Of him and them (the deceased and his stricken family) it may truly be said, The angels have led you in silence away ; For them there are shadows-for you there is
