

The Fat Contributor's Failure.

It is related of Girard that when a young tradesman, having bought of him and paid for a bag of coffee, proceeded to weigh it home himself, the spread old merchant offered to trust his customer for as many bags as he might desire.

That sort of thing might have worked well enough with old Girard, but it didn't fool anybody now. I have tried it. I bought half a pound of tea at Pendery's the other day, after reading the above paragraph, and wheeled it home in the most ostentatious manner, to see if Pendery, who was looking on, wouldn't offer to trust me for all the tea I wanted, but he didn't.

On the contrary, I overheard him speak up sharp to a clerk as I went around the corner, asking him if "that tea was paid for?"

I afterward took a wheelbarrow and went to a flour store on Central Avenue. Bought a small bag of flour, twenty-five pounds, I think, and loaded it on. The head of the concern looking at me with apparent interest.

"Now," I thought, "is my opportunity. This is a Girard fellow. He will tell me to come and get all the flour I can wheel away, and pay when I get ready. Perhaps he will offer me a partnership in his store."

Then I spat on my hands and whipped them over my shoulders to encourage a vigorous circulation, rubbed together smartly and clutched the handles of the barrow, started off at a brisk trot. I had proceeded about a square when I heard some one shouting after me. I looked around and saw the flour man coming on a dead run.

"Ha, ha!" thought I, "the thing works admirably. The example of S. & G. Girard is not lost. I have revealed a trait of character in being my own porter, to say nothing of my beer, and my fortune is made. The flour and feed man recognizes my merits, and comes to offer me partnership."

As he approached I saw he had some money in his hand. "He is at least," I said, "going to return me my money." "There was a severe look on his face as he came up to me, which did not accord at all with what I had pictured Girard's countenance to have worn when he gave the carte blanche for coffee."

While reflecting that it might be "his way," he said: "Sir, I want you to go right back to my store."

"It is coming now," thought I did not quite like his tone. Wheelbarrows are not quite so ready to receive their reward. He is going to offer me a partnership; perhaps to turn over his entire business to me. I was consequently elated.

Then I said to the flour and feed man, (just as though I didn't know, you know, the clever things he meant to do for me.) "May I inquire for what purpose, sir?"

"Certainly you may," he replied following worse than ever. "You showed this one dollar counterfeited bill to my clerk, and you must come back till I get a policeman. Oh! you needn't try to look so innocent! I suspected you when I saw you coming round to my store to get such a little job 'n' flour as that. Watched you to see you didn't steal nothin'. You see you can't fool an old hand like me."

There was a turn in affairs that would astonish old Girard himself. I tried to explain. Assured him that I supposed the note to be genuine. He was merciful for a time, and was disposed to have me locked up and the wheelbarrow detained as a witness, but finally let me off on my redeeming note.

The wheelbarrow business is all a humbug. A man can't make a character in any such way. And the chances are that he will lose what little he starts out with.

WALTHAM WATCHES

The extensive use of these Watches for the last fifteen years by Railway Conductors, Engineers and Firemen, the most exacting of watch-wearers, has thoroughly demonstrated the strength, steadiness, durability and accuracy of the Waltham Watch. To satisfy that class in all these respects, is to decide the question as to the real value of these time-keepers.

Among the many improvements we would particularly mention the invention and use of a centre-pinion of peculiar construction, to prevent damage to the watch by the use of a centre-pinion.

Harmonized and tempered hair-springs, now universally admitted to be the best of any made, and the use of the American method of adjusting the watch.

Our new patent steel-spring, or leaf-spring, is always a decided success, and a great improvement on any other spring made.

ALLEGED CURE FOR GONORRHOEA. The Journal of Medical Chemistry says: "Snak the first of the warm water, then with a sharp instrument pass off as much of the corn as can be done without pain, and bind up the part affected with a piece of muslin thoroughly saturated with sperm oil, or what is better, the oil which flows upon the surface of the pickle of herring or mackerel. After three or four days the dressing may be removed, and the remaining dead tissue removed by scraping, when the new skin will be found of a soft and healthy texture, and less liable to the formation of a new corn than before. We have this recipe from a source that we cannot well doubt, and publish it for the benefit of many suffering readers."

REMEDY FOR NERVOUS HEADACHE. A well known Kentucky minister, subject to severe spells of nervous headache, writes to our office the other day, saying that he was in a one-ounce vial, a druggist to put two drachms of nitric acid and six drachms of rose water. With this mixture wet the corns night and morning for three days. Snak the feet every evening in warm water without soap. Put one-third of the acid into the water, and with a little picking the corn will be dissolved.—Health and Home.

The potatoes should be washed and wiped dry, paring them in a flat bottomed cast-iron pot, on the back of the stove, covering the kettle with a close-fitting iron or tin cover.
