The Poet's Department... "DON'T WHIP HIM!" From the Illinois State Journal. The following pretty poem inculcates a wholesome lesson.

Thoughts were that we had struck upon some hidden reef or shoal which this part of the Mediterranean abounds in, but on reaching the deck I soon saw my mistake.

It was too late. One awful scream, one cry of agony—such as I pray I may never hear again—such as she plunged to the bottom; and of all those cabin passengers, I alone was left.

OUR DOG IN CHURCH. He was a little flattered on first entering the chapel—so many people there and all sitting so quiet. In this there was something awesome for Our Dog, and when out of this unnatural quiet they rose suddenly to sing, Our Dog was frightened.

ent attention, so soon as he made for them, the smiles would vanish, the faces become solemn. And so at last, with a yawn, Our Dog flung himself on the aisle floor, laid his head on his fore paws and counted over the beef bones he had buried during the last week.

Tales, Sketches, Anecdotes, &c. A LEAP FOR LIFE. I was on my way from Paris to Rome, one morning in May found myself in the City of Versailles, where I had made up my mind to take the steamer for Italy.

Having taken off my clothing, I seized a small settee; it was almost good for nothing as a float, yet more than one attempted to take it from me, and it was only by threatening them all with my knife that I could keep possession.

Nearly two years have now passed since that night, but I can yet see those pale faces, and hear the shrieks as they sank. It will cling to me while I exist, for I am sure I can never forget while memory lasts—my leap for life.

Still he kept employed. There was a line of chairs in the aisle. In one of these deliberately sat Our Dog. If everybody would do nothing but sit still and look at that man in the pulpit, so would he.

"So it does," said Mr. Brougham; "let us go and have it made up." "Turning into the nearest drug store the paper was given to the clerk, who gave it a careless glance, and then proceeded to get a phial ready and to pull out divers boxes.

As I said, we sailed on the morning of the 7th of May, 1869, and nothing occurred to mar our voyage up to 8 o'clock that night, when the wind changed, and a head sea set in, which quickly drove all the ladies and most of the men below.

How's THAT FOR HONEY?—Rather an amusing joke was practised recently on one of the committee of ladies appointed to examine honey, and other sweets, and award premiums, at a fair in California.

WHAT AILED THE MAKE—Farmer—"What do you think is the matter with 'er, Mr. Quackington?" Young Farrier (fresh from the Horse College)—"Well—ahem—ah—I think that probably the cartilaginous processes have subtended the ossification of bone, and thereby forcing the coronal arch to the magnetic meridian; consequently, as things which are equal to the same thing are equal to the square of the hypotenuse, it follows that the lateral thrust becomes so powerful as to diminish the elasticity of the projection, producing such a contension of the field portions of the periosteum, and lesion of the less conglutinated pigments of the organic therapeutics, as elevate the chalybeate constituents of the anterior extremity of the rib, which must, of course, guide the treatment to be pursued." Farmer—"Lor!"

Why is the stomach ache like a celebrated English poet? Because it's an ache inside. (Akeside.)
