THE COLEMAN CHILDREY .- It is with real pleasure we announce the fact that the Coleman Chil iren, the youngest troupe of dramatic performers, vocalists and musicians that has ever traveled, will give two of their brilliant of Mr. W. persons who witnessed the performance of the Coleman Children at Ellior's Academy of Music last evening, we presume there is not one who did not exclaim "astonishing !" "admira-ble !" "excellent !" as they were treated to bue offer mother of the tast. ble 1 "excellent 1" as they were treated to one after another of the various parts of the en-tertainment. Their proficiency in music is wonderful and their performance on different instruments takes the addience by surprise. If their musical acquirements are so rare, what shall we say of their histrionic abilities. it can only be expressed by the word "won-derful." That such little children should acquire such correct stage deportment, such appreciation of the characters they represent, with such admirable rendering of all their parts, is truly a marvel. It must be seen to be appreciated, and if the people generally had any adequate idea of the real merit of the entertainment to which they are invited, there would not be an empty seat in the Academy

THIRTEENTH TOWN COUNCIL .- March 17,

1837, the following named persons were elected to dispense justice, wi hout fear, favor, or affection, to Ebensburg: Burgess, M. D. Mazehan; Town Council, James Murray, James Fenlon, D. T. Storm, William Rainey, Rob't Young; High and Town Constable, Charles Litzinger, B. D. Bausford was appointed Clerk; John Lloyd, Treasnrer; Nicholas Nagle, Street Commissioner: George J. Rodgers, Superintendent of Weigh Scales; John J. Davis, Alexander Bell, and John Williams.

Street Regulators; Johnston Moore, Richard Lewis, and D. H. Roberts, Firemen. "July 24, one thou and eight hundred and thirtyseven, the Burgess and Town Council of the borough of Ebensburg met at James Fenlon's, in said borough"-and adjourned without performing any business. As appeareth by the record, only two meetings were held by the Council, and no work was done at either of them. Perhaps it put in the spring making garden-the summer, trout fishing-the fall, drinking cider-the winter, sleigh riding .-That would account for it .- Alleghanian.

Science - John Smearmand, a young man about 25 years of age, who kept a billiard saloon and eating house in this borough, committed suicide on Friday afreenoon last, by shooting himself through the heart with a pistol. About two o'clock in the afternoon he went to Noltie's brewery, across the river, and he made threats there that he would shoot humself. A short time after this he rode through town in a buggy, unaccompanied, and shortly after passing through the neighboring village of Smithfield he shot himself and died almost in stantly. On being examined a bottle of whisky and a tumbler were found in his boot, and a considerable sum of money found in his pocket. It is not positively known what led the young man to commit the rash act, but liquor had the most to do with it, while a religious difficulty a later Association of Johnstown is is rumored as one of the incentives. He had has been a very pleasurable epi-ode, a considerable sum of money in back. He 'eaves a wife and two children -Huntingdon Globe.

DEAR FREEMAN-During the recent absence weeks, the strap was taken from the engine house of his tannery in the Fifth Ward. This strap was about seventy feet long and one foot dren. Of these remarkable young performers When Mr. Keim came home he missed this broad, and valued at from fifty to sixty dollars. the Williamsport Daily Gazette and Bulletin strap and another smaller one. After search, portions of it were found in sundry shoemaker shops about town. The proprieters of these shops stated that they had purchased the leather from a young man named Frank Shearer, a resident of the Fifth Ward. Frank was just about this time missed, but was traced to Harrisburg, arrested, brought home, and after a hearing was sent to jail in your place, not having been able to procure the two thousand dollars security demanded for his appearance at court to answer the charge.

We hear it whispered around that a certain "onpleasant" transaction took place last week on Canal street which was not very creditable to the parties concerned. It is said that the police interfered and the frail one was attended We mention no names, but believe that she is not the only frail one in town who gives great grief to families and friends. There are too many lecherous scoundrels, too, left run at large for the safety of society, some of whom lisguise their disgraceful doings so effectually as to pass for respectable, virtuous citizens. Mr. James Benford has fitted up the Black

House, on the old Island, for hotel purposes. This house is "catercornered" from Union Hall and "formenst" the new school house. It is casily found, as his name is blazoned in large letters in front. Every room.gand there are some twenty of them, is newly papered and painted, and well furnished. When you come down, Mr. Editor, this will be a good place to get a cheap, substantial dinner.

The Houston House has also changed proprietors as well as names, it being now inhabited by a gentleman from Blairsville named Martin, who has christened it the Merchants' Hotel. When you come down this will be an excellent place to get a good supper.

NEW CHANGES AND NEW ENTERPRISES.

Mr. Baumer, of the firm of Akers & Baumer, goes to Kansas and Frank M'Cullough has taken his place. I wish the new firm success.

David Dibert & Son have established a boot and shoe store in the room recently occupied by Mr. Carroll, Main street. As we used to make Scott dance in his younger days, he might give us a pair of "pumps" now .

Thomas Gallagher has removed his store to the room formerly occupied by Hess's furniture depot. He is another old pupil of ours, and is from Westmoreland county.

Mr. Kress is to remove from Clinton street to the Houston House room vacated as above. Elder J. F. Reynolds of Somerset has come here to preach for the Disciples. He is no relation to Frank Reynolds of Harrisburg. George Thomas has moved from the Fifth Ward to Clinton street, next door above Geis & Foster's big store.

COMMUNICATION.

SUMMERHILL TWP., April 12, 1871.

Friend Mac-After two weeks' preparation Mr. Maggle addresses me again through the col-umns of your paper of last week. He is not to the point, however, and seems to forget that I advanced facts in my last communication which claimed his attention. But stubborn facts are not easily bridged over, and my friend no doubt concluded that it was wiser to avoid than to ap-proach them. I admire his prudence, but hope hat he will not always remain a victim of bad faith

I am asked how I know that Miss Black is not the author of the letters published in the Free-man over her signature. I will tell, but Mr. Maggie must be blamed if my reply makes a laughing stock of somebody. In the first place, then, I am gwart that Miss Black has not the ability to write an article for publication, for she and I are not entirely unacquainted, the bold assortion of her champion to the contrary notwithstanding. Secondly, Miss Black is well known to this community, and I have heard young and old persons repeatedly declare that she was a miserable scholar and unfit to teach she was a miserable scholar and unfit to teach a school. Thirdly, several teachers told me that her bad spelling elicited general remark at an examination of teachers held some time since. Fourthly, a reverend friend of hers, in whem she implicitly confides, and who knows her abil-ities or rather lack of abilities well, and who is no doubt fully posted about her pretended com-munications, told me that he did not believe she was enabled of enurosing them. Lastly I have while an able of composing them. Lastly, I have occular demonstrations and even tangible evi-dence that she is not the author of them. Her genuine letters are at my command, and they furnish ample testimony as to her incapacity. Those who read the one published in the Free-man of the 25th ult, need not be fold that the merits of the sain tilt, head not be four that the merits of Miss Black's composition are on a par-with a leg of multion pronounced to be as lad as bad could be—fil fed, ill killed, ill kopt, and ill dressed. Are not these behavits shtisfactory? The second paragraph in Mr. Maggie's epistle is irrelevant, and too personal to deserve more than a passing remark. Abuse may gratify the cravings of a corrupt and poluted heart, but must and will fail to make a favorable im-pression on an honest and upright mind. Let pression on an honest and upright mind. Let my opponent recollect, however, that I left my teens years ago, have alway's resided here, and am too long and favorably known in this com-munity to need to defend myself against his personal attacks. If his record is as clear as mine, though I do say it myself, there is no rea-son for saying that his presence is a curse or his absence a blessing to any community. To tell me that he was born a Lutheran is to exhibit his incorance of the first principles of 1871.

absence a blessing to any community.
To tell me that he was born a Lutheran is to exhibit his ignorance of the first principles of Christianity, and even of his own sect. But this matter is too trivial for further comment. I am astonished, however, that a man who pretends to have read St. Jerome would make such a profession. He calls Jerome holy, and holy men reil the truth. The following passage from the writings of St. Jerome show that the Saint and my friend do not sail in the same ship — that a wide and deep chasm lies between the religions of the two: "I am united with your Holmess—that is with the Chair of Peter; on that rock I know that the Chair of Peter; on that rock I know that the Chair of Peter; on of holy Jerome. What does my opponent think of it? I she in union with his Holmess, the immort a Pius IX, successor to St. Peter and Vicar of Christ on earth, as was Jerome? Where does he eat the lamb? If not, let him see to it in time-let him take care and change his course, lest the rapid current of error and unbelief may one day carry him into the gulf of perdition. I now arrive at a point in which I find a little of everything and not much of anything. I will but briefly notice it out of compassion for your compositors. To say that I represented Colum-bus as the first discoverer of this country is to state a fulsehood, and I refer the reader to my last letter, published in the Freeman of the 25th uit, which will throw some light on the love my adversary has for the truth. This is only one however, of the many false statements contain ed in the communication I review, but having made up my mind to treat the others with silent contempt, they pass unnoticed. I have heretofore said, and now repeat it, that Catho-lics, and Catholies alone, discovered this conti-Railroad street It is not to be a block house, though Bloch is the owner.

every class and variety of disease. Those who would obtain a knowledge of this important branch of the medical art, having a knowledge of the appearance and standard properties and qualities of the urine, as also the general pathological conditions in disease, can soon learn the chemical analysis and microscopic operations necessary to detect the precise pic operations necessary to detect the precise nature of almost every inalady with a positive-ness amounting to more nearly mathematical precision than is possible in any other way. These investigations and the prescribing of medicines in accordance with these facts has been the practical business of our life. So ex-tensive has been our experience in these exam-imations during the last twenty years that scarcely a town or township within fifty miles scarcely a town or township within fifty miles of Pittsburgh, but numbers a dozen or more of patrons who have thus sent to us and obtained relief. And knowing that hundreds of others are still ingering out a miserable existence without medical aid, some because they have passed through the "old ordeal" without relief, and some perhaps because they may not know where to apply to, we feel justified in making these facts public, satisfied that a number will seize upon these plain truths and be fully rewarded by a cure.

Our churches are grand and majestic in design-our charitable institutions are found everywhere in the Union. Can Mr. Maggie say so much for his denomination Certainly not. His churches are more shan-ties compared to ours-he has scarcely any schools or colleges, and in vain would be try to point out his charitable institutions. These are the bone and since of a nation, and those who erect them are the most useful and de-serving citizens. It is selfish, then, for Mr. Maggie to arrogate to himself, at the expense of decency and truth, that to which he has no right. If my opponent thinks that his sect existed prior to Luther, he labors under a serious mistake. Where had it an existence? Who believed in it? Who preached its tenets?-Does not Luther himself tell us that he was the only one of his kind in the world, when he commenced, in his vexation and anger, to reform the church of Christ? Mr. Maggie may say as much as he pleases about his being in heaven, but let me remind him that "birds of one feather flock together." Lucifer and Lu-ther sound very much alike, and their revolts and dispositions were also somewhat similar, and the consequent presumption is that God did not spoil two houses with them. Luther deserves not the gratitude of mankind. He and his followers have yet to convert the first and his followers have yet to convertifie hist pagan nation to Christianity. If I am wrong let the Wilmore gent show it. He reflected a large portion of the New Testament, and gave the Landgrave of Hesse permission to have two wives at the same time, thus giving his approbation to polygamy, which is pric-ticed even now on our own soll, to the ruin of families and in opposition to the Gospel.-These are the works of Luther and my friend s welcome to all the glory attached to them. Mr. Maggie need not tell me that he has not the advantage of a good education, for I am able to see that in all his effusions. However, he is hardly conscious of this fact himself, for te less one knows the more he thinks he knows.

Miss Black never gave general satisfaction as a teacher. Still, had she confined herself as a teacher. Still, had she confined herself to the primer, which she was employed to teach, people would have overlooked her shortcomings. But as soon as she began to entertain the children with religious exer-elses in which the Lathersan preacher even led, then it was time to remind her of her du-ties. In doing these things she was certainly consolider on the sight of others and such encroaching on the rights of others, and such proceedings could not be tolerated any longer. Private measures were taken to stop all this, has no nervoids. All wishing a highly finished job at moderate but to no purpose.
