

THE BLUE LAWS.

Many of our readers, who have often heard of the Connecticut blue laws, probably never had an opportunity of perusing that famous code. The territory now comprised in the State of Connecticut was formerly two colonies—Connecticut and New Haven. The colony of Connecticut was planted by emigrants from Massachusetts, at Windsor, in 1636, and at Hartford and Wethersford, in 1636 and 1636. The other colony, styled by its founders the Dominion of New Haven, was settled by emigrants from England in 1637. The two colonies were united in 1655.

The statutes copied below, from an old volume relating to the history of the American colonies, were enacted by the people of the "Dominion of New Haven."

The governor and magistrates, convened in general assembly, be the supreme power under God, of this independent dominion. From the determination of the assembly no appeal shall be made.

The governor is amenable to the voice of the people.

The governor shall have a single vote in determining any question, except a casting vote, when the assembly shall be equally divided.

The assembly of the people shall not be dissolved by the governor, but it shall dissolve itself.

Conspiracy against this dominion shall be punished with death.

Whoever says there is a power and jurisdiction above and over this dominion, shall suffer death and loss of his property.

Whoever attempts to change or overturn this dominion, shall suffer death.

The judge shall determine controversies without a jury.

No man shall be a freeman, or give a vote, unless he be converted, and a member in full communion of one of the churches allowed in this dominion.

Every freeman shall swear by the blessed God to bear true allegiance to this dominion, and that Jesus is the only king.

No quaker, or dissenter from the established worship of this dominion, shall be allowed to give a vote for the election of magistrates or any officer.

No food or lodging shall be offered to Quaker, Adamate, or other heretic.

If any person turns quaker, he shall be banished and not suffered to return but on pain of death.

No priest shall abide in the dominion; he shall be banished, and suffer death on his return.

Fines may be seized by any one with a warrant.

No one shall cross a river, but with an authorized ferryman.

No one shall run on the Sabbath day, or walk in his garden, or elsewhere except reverently to and from meeting.

No one shall travel, cook victuals, make beds, sweep house, cut hair, or shave on the Sabbath.

No woman shall kiss her children on Sabbath or fasting day.

The Sabbath shall begin at sunset on Saturday.

To pick an ear of corn growing in a neighbor's garden shall be deemed theft.

A person accused of trespass in the night shall be judged guilty, unless he clear himself by his oath.

When it appears that an accused has confederated, and he refuses to discover them, he may be racked.

None shall buy or sell lands without permission of the selectmen.

A drunkard shall have a master appointed by the selectmen, who are to debar him from the liberty of buying and selling.

Whoever publishes a lie, to the prejudice of his neighbor, shall be set in the stocks, or be whipped ten stripes.

No minister shall teach a school.

MANAGEMENT OF BROOMS.—If brooms are not swept once a week, they will become very tough, will not cut a large lot of broom, and always wear out in the broom.

DISPEPSIA AND VINEGAR.—As soon as food reaches the stomach of a healthy man, it pours out a fluid substance called gastric juice.
