A LIVE HOME JOURNAL .- NOTABLE CHANGE, 1 -Last October, HEARTH AND Home passed into the bands of ORANGE JUDD & Co., of 245 Broadway, New York, the well known publishers of the American Agriculturist-a journal long without a rival in sterling value and circulation. The marked improvements then expected to appear in HEARTH AND Home have been fully realized, and it is now one of the choicest illustrated journals anywhere issued for the family circle-adapted to both the juvenile and adult people, and meeting the special wants of the housekeeper. Besides, it supplies very useful chapters for the garden and farm, and an important news sheet, giving a valuable RESUME of the news for a week, up to the moment of issue. From $500 to $800 weekly number. We notice now a still further mark of enterprise on the part of the publish ers ; they have secured the exclusive editorial services of EDWARD EGGLESTON, so widely and favorably known by his writing in SCRIBNER's MONTHLY, and many other Magazines and Journals, and especially as the chief superintending Editor of the New York INDEPENDENT for some time past. SERIOUS CHARGE.-From Altoons, that city of abominations, comes another criminal case which, if half the revolting details connected with it be true, is the most outrageous and immoral affair which has ever disgraced the annals of this county. At present, however, we have to do with only one feature of the case, and that briefly. Wednesday morning last was brought from Altoona and committed to the county jail a middle aged man named Jona-than Davis, charged, on eath of his wife, with the commission of a dastardly outrage upon the person of his step-daughter, a young girl about thirteen years of age. Mrs. Davis, who was a widow and the mother of two daughters when she married her present husband, alleges that she learned from her child some time ago of the brutal occurrence. Fearing a repetition of the outrage, she sent her daughter from home.

Upon discovering the absence of the child, Davis, it is asserted, flew into a passion and made

GENUINE WIT .- We never suspected that the Herald man had the least bit of humor in his composition, but if the following, clipped from last week's issue, is not what Artemus Ward would have called "sarkasm," we confeas we don't know under what head to put it: "Never were our prospects better; and if our county convention does what is right, Cambria will this fall be redeemed from the hands of the Democracy." Out of justice to the Herald man we will say that he didn't attempt anything else in the way of editorial last week. The thirty line article, of which the above is an extract, so overcame him that he wilted down as effectually as if he had been struck by the thermometer at 120 degrees in the shade. "And if our convention does its duty," etc.

The the State line, and nine miles further still we came to Elmira, New York, a busy railroad town of about 16,000 inhabitants. Leaving Elmira, we spun along the bank of the Chemung canal past Horse Heads, Millport, Havana, to Watkins, at the southern extremity of Seneca Lake. At Watkins we had two hours to spare, which we spent chiefly in rambling through Watkins' Gien, at one end of the town. This famous glen is one of the most romantic and lovely spots imaginable. We went all through it, climbed up the dizzy precipice, and returned to the town through a cemetery so beautiful and quiet that I hope only good people sleep there. Returning to town, we took dinner at the Langdon House, a from Geneva to Rochester. Twenty-three miles from Geneva we came to Canandaigua, a handsome town of some 10,000 inhabitants. This town is situated at the northern extremity of the lake of the same name, and is the county seat of Ontario county. The town is very much scattered; so much so that the express agent at the place told us that when he got half a dozen packages it took him all day to deliver them. Twenty-eight miles northwest of Canandaigua we came to Rochester. This is a prosperous city of over 62,000 inhabitants, It is situated on the Genesee river, seven miles from its mouth. Rochester is distinguished for its manufactures, especially of flour, for which it has acquired a wide-spread reputation. At this place we had two hours to wait; but there was so much bustle and business going on that the time did not hang heavily on our hands.

It was between ten and eleven o'clock in the evening that we left Rochester, and went rushing along through the darkness towards Niagara. Fifty-seven miles from Rochester we passed Lockport, on the Erie canal, an important town of about 15,000 inhabitants, and for which $1,000 will be paid. We were among the latter; and after a short ride of two miles further we brought up in the town of Niagara Falls, at one o'clock at night.

We went to the Spencer House, an excellent hotel in the neighborhood of the depot. The house was about full; but we succeeded in getting a bed, and retired about two o'clock and slept the sleep of the just. But we were up bright and early the next morning, for we had gone to sleep with the eternal roar of Niagara in our cars, and were all impatient to see the falls. We saw the falls. We spent the day lingering over their strange, wild, awful beauty and magnificence, and have glorious pictures engraved in hearts
