LURIOUS SLEEPERS.

Di Sensito Minimatoni del Collina, Vidalita da Sancia del

Sleep is nearly as great a puzzle as ever it was. Much has been discovered concerning the bodily peculiarities manifested during this portion of our existence; but all whose opinions are best worth listening to, admit that they are only on the threshold of the subject yet. Why, for instance. can some men maintain their bodily and meniul vigor with so small an amount of sieep as falls to their share? Lord Brougham, and many other great statesmen and lawyers, are known to have been content with a marvelously small quantity of sleep Frederick the Great is said to have allowed himself only five hours; John Hunter, five hours; General Elliot, the hero of Gibraltar, four hou: s ; while Wellington, during the Peninsular War, had still less,

How, on the other hand, to account for the cormorant sleepers ? De Meivre. the mathematician, could (though it is to hoped he did not) sleep twenty hours out 2 of the twenty four. Quin, the actor, sometimes slept for twenty-four hours at a stretch. Dr. Reid, the metabhysician, could so manage, that one potent meal, followed by one long and sound sleep, would last him for two days. Old Part slept away his latter days almost entirely. In the middle of the last century a young Frenchwoman, at Toulouse, had, for half n year, fits of lengthened sleep, varying from three to thirteen days each. About the same time, a girl at Newcastle on Tyne, slept fourteen weeks without wok ing, and the waking, process occupied three days to complete. Dr. Blanchet, of Paris, mentions the case of a lady who slept for twenty days together when she was about eighteen years of age, fifty when she was about twenty, and had nearly a whole year's sleep from Easter Sunday, 1862, till March, 1863; during this long sleep [which | hysicians call hysteric cema] she was fed with milk and soup, one of her front teeth being extracted to obtain an opening in her mouth --Stow, in his "Chronicle," tells us that . The 27th of April, 1546, being Tuesdaie in Easter weeke, W. Foxley, potmak er for the Mint in the Tower of London, fell asleep, and so continued sleeping, and could not be waked with pricking, cramping, or otherwise, till the first day of the next term, which was full fourteen dayes and fifteen nights. The causes of his thus sleeping could not be knowne, tho' the same were diligently searched for by the king's physicians and other learned men; yea, the ling himselfe examined ye said W. Foxley, who was in all points found at his waking to be as if he had s pt lu' one night."

Another very notable instance was that of Samuel Chi'ton, of Tim-bury, recorded of the Royal Society." In the year 1694, he slept for a month, and no one could wake him. Later in the same year he had a four months' s'eep, from April the 9th to August the 7th; he woke, dressed. went out into the fields [where he worked as a laborer, and found his companions reaping the corn he had helped to sow the day before his long nap; it was not till that moment that be knew of his sleep having exceeded the usual duration of a few hours. He went to sleep again on the 17th of August, and did not wake till the 19th of November, notwithstanding the pungent applications of hellebore and salamoniae to his nostrils, and bleeding to the extent of fourteen ounces. He woke, asked for bread and cheese, but went off to sleep again before it could be brought to him, taking another spell of sleep, which lasted till the end of January .-After this it is not recorded that he had any more of these strange relatises.

There are instances of sleep so intensely deep as to deprive the sleeper of all sense of pain. The records of the Bristol Infirmary present an extraordinary illustration of this. One cold night a tramp lay down near the warmth of a limekiln and went to sleep. One foot must have been close to the fire hole of the kiln; for during the night the foot and ankle were so completely burned away as to leave nothing but black einder and calcined ash. He did not wake till the kiln man reused him next morning, nor did he know what a fortnight afterwards.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Among the great discoveries of modern science, few are of more real value to mankind than this effectual remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. A vast trial of its virtues, throughout this and other countries, has shown that it does surely and effectually zens, of all classes, establishes the fact, that CHERRY PECTORAL will and does relieve and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Lungs beyond any other medicine. The most dangerous affections of the Pulmonary Organs yield to its power; and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are public-ly known, so remarkable as hardly to be beeved, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy it is adequate, on which the public may rely for full protection. By curing Coughs, the forerunners of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and con-vinces the most sceptical. Every family should keep it on hand as a protection against the early and unperceived attack of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first, but which become incurable, and too often fatal, if neglected. Tender lungs need this defence; and it is unwise to without it. As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of childhood, Cherry Pectoral invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued from premature graves, and aved to the love and affection centred on them. For Infinimentary and Chronic Rheuma- It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, tism and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, securing sound and health-restoring sleep. No will suffer troublesome Influenza and pain-Bronchitis, when they know how easily

Originally the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, no cost or toil is spared in making every bottle in the utmost essible perfection. It may be confidently reied upon as possessing all the virtues it has ever exhibited, and capable of producing cures as memorable as the greatest it has ever effected.

THE GREAT CHAMPION EATER —Her- THOMAS CARLAND, TUST OPENEDI man Schneider, now of Los Angeles, Cal, is one of the most remarkable eaters in the world. He was born in the Grand Dutchy of Monaca in 1830. His father GROCERIES & QUEENSWARE was a German and his mother a Greek. At an early age his voracious disposition attracted the attention of the college savants, and his case buffled the science and skill of the most noted of the medical family. His voraciousness seemed to increase with age. Nathing seemed to appease his appetite, and his case was abandoned as hopeless. His first exploit on arriving in New York, some years ago, was to wager that he could eat a whole ham, one pound of candles, one and a half pounds of biscuit, and drink thirty cops of tea, all in one day. His advertisement attracted the attention of the notorious Kit Borns, who duly installed the remarkable individual as an addition to the noted canine attraction of his place. Kit's first effort on acquiring his charge was to undertake a more vigorous system of training, whereby he could test the capacity of the remarkable man's stomach, which was fully accomplished by eating an amount fabulous to contemplate, and which in quantity surpassed his former greatest efforts. His case finally attracted the attention of the New York police, by whom he was arrested as a nuisance, and, on being convicted, was sentenced by Judge Barnard to six months' imprisenment on Blackwell's Island. On his term expiring he mingled again in the world; was in a short time lost sight of, until last week, when he made his appearance in a restaurant in New Commercial street, in Los Angeles, where he HEATING AND COOK STOVES ate for two hours, to the disgust of the proprietor, and on retiring proffered twenty-five cents in payment, which the saloon-keeper looked on as only one-fifth the cost of the material. His greatest effort was the consumption of nearly thir ty four pounds' weight, avoirdopois, of what was nearly all oleaginous matter, And GENERAL JOBBER in SPOUTING such as pork, fat, train oil, tallow candles,
