DROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION of PENNSYLVANIA. JOINT RESOLUTION Proposing an Amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

Be it Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment of the Constitution of this Commonwealth be proposed to the people for their adoption or rejection, pursuant to the provions of the tenth article thereof, to wit:

THE EDITOR'S GOOD ANGEL.

"Good morning, Sir, Mr. Editor, how is the folks to-day ? owe you for next year's paper, I thought I'd come in and pay And Jones is agoin' to take it, and this is his money, here : shut down lendin' it to him, and then coaxed him to try it a year. And here is a few little items that happened last week in our town thought they'd look good for the paper, and so I just jotted 'em down.

And here's a basket of cherries my wife picked expressly for you ;

And a small bunch of flowers from Jennieshe thought she must send somethin', too. You're doin' the politics bully, as all of our family agree ;

Just keep your old goose quill a flapping and

- give 'em a good one for me. And now you are chuck full of business, and I won't be takin' your time ;
- ve things of my own I must tend to-good day, sir, I b'lieve I will climb.

The Editor sat in his sanctum and brought down his fist with a thump ;

God bless that old farmer." he muttered "he's a regular jolly old trump ;

and 'tis thus with our noble profession, and thus it will ever be still :

That there are some who appreciate its labor and some who perhaps never will. But in the great time that is coming, when Gabriel's trumpet shall sound, And they who have labored and rested shall come from the quivering ground: When they who have striven and suffered to teach and ennoble the race. Shall march at the front of the column, each one in the God given place, As they march through the gates of The City with proud and victorious tread, The editor, printer and devil, will travel not far from the head

NAMES AND THEIR MEANINGS.

In school lists, on cards of invitation, and wherever else young girls' names are written or printed, we constantly find in what are called "pet names," new variations from old usage. Mamie, Minnie, Glemmie, Louie, Bertie, Tudie, Lottie, Roxana is the dawn of day; Rhoda, a Ettie, Millie, Mollie, Mattie, Tressie, rose. Milicent means strength ; Malvi-Hattie, Nettie, Katie, Addie, Lidie, Effie, na, a handmaid ; Florence, flourishing ; Sadie, Carrie, Gertie. Josie, are to be found, with many more of the like char acter. The above samples are both sufficient to make the ridiculous nature of the custom apparent, and to show that absurdities grouped together do not support qualified electors of the State, at such times | each other, but make each instance more ridiculous by association. The only excuse for "misnaming" the young ladies is, that these titles are supposed to be terms of affection and endearment. The plea to a degree is valid, where the use of the "pet names" is confined to the family circle, or is the privilege of very intimate friends. But to write such names, to sign them to formal letters, to record them in school or other catalogues, and, worse than all, to print them in any connection, is to widen the "family circle" exceedingly, and to increase "intimate friendship" indefinitely. A little travestie of fashionable correspondence was published some years ago, which puts in an amusing light the absurdity both of writing pet names and of fashionable precocity. The writers are supposed to be young ladies of eight years or thereabouts-such young ladies are now figuring in "childrens' balls" at the watering places, if the "correspondents" truly report. The first note ran thus:-"Miss Minnie Smith's compliments to Miss Maggie Jones, and desires the pleasure of her company this evening. Refreshments at eleven." The response was Miss Maggie Jones' compliments to Miss Minnie Smith, with regrets that "prior engagements" preclude the pleasure of acceptance. She is to be whipped at seven, and sent to bed without her supper at eight." In order to see what is lost by the de facing of honored names, till their origin can scarcely be recognized, it may be interesting to trace the significance of a few of the names which in one sense-their frequency-may be called common names. The first, Mary, which in its various legitimate forms, is borne, probably by more persons in Christian lands than any other name. Maria, Marion and Mi riam have been adopted as English names, and all have the same signification. The first on record who bore the name of Mi riam was the sister of Moses and Aaron. The derivation which was most generally accepted was Marab, bitter; and as Miriam was one of the children of the captivity in Egypt, it is not difficult to imagine why this name was chosen .--Whatever was its origin, the first wearer of the name made it a common one in Israel, perhaps from the association of Miriam with the triumph at the Red Sea. For an obvious reason the name has always been highly popular among Christians ; and the poet seems to have put in verse a universal sentiment when he wrote "I have a passion for the name of Mary." Elizabeth or Elisheba was the wife of Aaron, the mother of a Jewish priesthood; and Elizabeth, the wife of Zachariab, the priest, was the mother of John the Baptist. Thus curious is the name connected with the beginning of the two dispensations. The meaning of the name is "God do that he might git. As the crockery hath sworn," and it is therefore an appeal was getting a little more numerous, he his covenant. Elissa, the name of chel, an ewe; Lydia is from the name of a province in Asia, said by Josephus to have been founded by the children of Lud, fourth son of Shem ; Charlotte and Caroline are feminine forms of Charles or Karl, signifying a man or manly ; Emily, Amy and Amelia may mean affable and industrious, and Emma, sometimes confounded with them, seems, like Mamma, to have come from the first lispings of the child, and is said to mean grandmother. Ellen, Helen and Helena mean light, in the sense of luminous. Catherine or Katherine, pure ; Clara, Clarissa and Claribel come from famous or fair. Jane and Joanna mean the grace of the Lord. Abagail, meaning the father of Joy, must be read the cause of Joy. Debora is a bee. Dorothea and Dora mean the gift of God. Dorcas is a gazelle. Augusta is venerable-honorable or stately, if young ladies like that better. Agues is pure. Alice means noble cheer, good for housewife. Amanda means worthy to be loved. Phoebe means shining. Bridget means strength. Harriet is a household name, meaning home rule. What the very pleasant name Cecilia may mean is disputed. The Roman Cacilian family objected to the legend that their ancestor was blind, as the name would import, and invented other legends. The present popularity of the name comes from St. Ce cilia the martyr who sang with her last breath and is in the calendar as the pa troness of music. Matilda should be able to hold her own, her name meaning battle maid. Sophia is wisdom ; Sophonia, of a strong mind. Rebecca or Rebeka comes from a root signifying to bind, and is appropriately introduced in a prayer in the Episcopal marriage service. Louisa means famous holiness. Frances is free. Gertrude means spear-maid. Antoinette is nestimable ; Arabella, an eagle heroine.

Jenkins Goes to a Pic-Mic.

Maria Ann recently determined to go to a nic-nic

Maria Ann is my wife-unfortunately. She had plannnd it to go it alone, so far as I was concerned, on that pic-nic excursion ; but when I heard about it, I determined to assist. She pretended she was very glad, I don't believe she was.

'It will do you good to get away from your work a day, poor fellow,' she said : and we shall so much enjoy a cool morning ride on the cars, and dinner in the woods.'

miuutes later she disturbed my slumbers. and told me to come to breakfast. I told her I wasn't hungry, but it didn't make thing. a bit of difference, I had to get up. The sun was up; I had no idea that the sun began business so early in the morning, but there he was.

'Now, said Maria Ann, 'we must fly around, for the cars start at half past six. Eat all the breakfast you can, for you won't get anything more before noon."

I could not eat anything at that time in the morning, and it was well I could not, for I had all I could do. There was ice to be pounded to go around the pail of ice-cream, and the sandwiches to be cut. and I thought I should never get the legs of the chicken fixed so that I could get the cover on the big basket. Maria Ann flew around and piled by groceries for me to pack, giving directions to the girl about taking care of the house, and putting on her dress all at once. There is a deal of oats. energy in that woman, perhaps a trifle too much.

At twenty minutes past 6 I stood on the front steps with a basket on one arm and Maria Ann's waterproof on the other, and a pail in each hand, and a bottle of vinegar in my coat skirt pocket. There was a camp chair hung on me somewhere, just what he was worth. too, but I forgot just where.

NUMBER 30.

Oats are a singular grain, perhaps I should say plural, bekauze there iz more than one of them.

Josh Blilings on Oats.

They gro on the top of a straw, about two foot, 9 and one quarter inches hi, and the straw is holler.

This straw is interesting for its suck shun.

Short pieces of it, about 8 inches or so. dipped into the buzzum ov a sherry cobbler, will suckshun up the entire cobbler in 4 minutes by the watch.

I never hav tried this, but I kno lots On the morning of that day, Maria Ann got up at 5 o'clock. About three around ready to prove this, if sum body will fetch on the cobbler.

This suckshun is sed to be a ded sure

Oats gro on the summit or sum straw, and are sharp at both ends.

They resemble shu pegs in looks and bnild, and it is sed, are often mistaken for them by near-sighted hosses and shumakers.

I don't intend this remark az any derogativeness to shumakers in the lump, for i have often sed in mi inspired moments, if i couldn't be a shumaker, i would like to be a lawyer.

Oats are sold bi weit or mezzure, and are seldom (or perhaps i may say in confidence never) sold by count.

Eggs, and money, are counted out, but oats never. It would be well for nu beginners to remember this, it would save them a good deal of time on every hundred bushels of Outs are worth from 40 to 75 cents a bushel, ackording to their price, and ain good for much, only tew tickle a hoss. They will choak a goose to deth quicker than a paper of pins, and encything that will choke a goose to deth [I mean on the internal side of the throat] iz to say the leest of i,, very skarse. Speaking ov a goose, i have found out at last what makes them so tuff, it is staying out so much in the cold. I found this out all alone bi myself. Oats are a very easy crop to raize. All you hav got tew do, to raize oats, is to plough the ground deep, then manure it well, then sprinkle the oats all over the ground, one in a place, then worry up nights tew keep the chrckens, and woodchucks out ov them, then pray for sum rain, then kradle them down with a kradle, then rake them together with a rake, then bind them up with a band, then stack them up with a stack, then thrash them out with a fluil, then clean them up with a mill, then sharpen both ends of them with a knife, then stow tle in my pocket got broke, and conse- them away in the granery, then spend wet days, and Sundays, trapping for rats and mice.

Spend your leisure time on a whisky barrel. Drink as much as you can pay for, or get others to pay for, or get on credit. Smoke cigars in the same ratio. Master the intricacies of dominoes, billiards and checkers. Above all things make yourself an adept at card playing. Chess, the game of intelligent young men who foolishly desire to be somebody, you should eschew.

Don't read anything except the dime novels of the day. Do these things, and whatever else vile and worthless that shall suggest itself to you, and your ambition will be sated .---You shall stagger and swagger through life, too insignificant to be despised, and tumble into your grave almost too luathsome to be pitied.

A SAD WARNING TO HUSBANDS. -In a village, not a thousand miles from West Union, lives a family. The house of this family was visited one day by a peripatetic vender of cheap dry goods, who inveigled the calico half to select finery to the value of ten dollars, for which she gnaranteed her husband to pay. Meeting him on the street, payment was demanded and peremptorily refused. Mr. Pedler would have his pay or his goods. Familyman told him to gnaw a file and flee unto the monntains of Hepsidam. The merchandise found its way again to his pack --The pot boiled, and stewed, and fumed, and by the time the lord and master found his way home there was the devil to pay -if not the pedler. The way the brooms, wooden bowls, tin pans, and dishes flew about his head, was startling to timid nerves. She'd learn him not to pay her bills, the miserable scoot ! That was all she kept him for, and if he couldn't

Now,' said Maria Ann, 'we must run or we shall not catch the train." 'Maria Ann,' said I, 'that is a reasonable idea. How do you suppose I can run with all this freight ?' 'You must, you brute. You always try to tease me. If you do not want a scene on the streets you will start, too." So I ran.

I had one comfort, at least. Maria Ann fell down and broke her parasol .--She called me a brute again because I laughed. She drove me all the way to the depot in a brisk trot, and we got on the cars; but neither of us could get a seat, and I could not find a place where I could set the things down, so I stood there the ground with a drag all over, then set and held them.

'Maria,' I said, in winning accents, "how is this for a cool morning ride ?"

Said she. 'You are a brute, Jenkins. Said I, 'My love, you have made that observation before '

I kept my courage up, yet I knew there would be an hour of wrath when we got home. By getting out of the cars the botquently I had one boot half full of vinegar all day. That kept me pretty quiet, and Maria Ann ran off with a big whiskered music teacher, and lost her fan, and got her feet wet, and tore her dress and enjoyed herself much after the fashion of pic-nic goers. I thought it never would come dinner time, and Maria called me a and of course that was of no immediate use. The music teacher spilled a cup of hot coffee on Maria's head, and pulled all the frizzles out trying to wipe off the coffee with his handkerchief. Then I sat on a piece of raspberry pie, and spoiled my white pants, and concluded I didn't want anything more. I had to stand up against a tree the rest of the afternoon. The day afforded considerable variety, compared to sight, and on coming up close, the land every day life, but there were so many drawbacks that we did not enjoy it so thirty yards in length by twenty bread .-much as I might have done.
