Some correspondence laid before Parliament gives a curious account of the Welsh settlement on the river Chupat, in Patagonia. A party of about one hundred and fifty Welsh people-men, women and children -betook themselves to this unknown land in 1865, under the superintendence of Mr. Jones an independent minister of Bala, North Wales, and, after many reverses, privations, and desertions, and twenty-five new arrivals, about one hundred and fifty still remain, in good health and spirits, and making fair progress. They are separated from all mankind except the Patagonian Indians; and their occasional communication and commerce with Buenos Ayres having been interrupted by a two years' drought, making the journey impossible, her Majesty's gunboat Cracker was sent round to the mouth of the Chubat in April to ascertain whether these adventurous people were still in the land of the living and doing well. The visit was most welcome; and but for the commander's being able to spare them a considerable quantity of provisions it might | # 2 have gone ill with some of them by this time. They had been without any description of groceries for ten months, living chiefly on bread, butter, and milk, and what guanaco and ostrich meat they could obtain by lun .ing, their few (300) cattle being far too valuable to be used for food at present. The men have land alotted to them, on which they cultivate wheat and a little barley, and rear cattle and horses, and the woman manage the dairies. The settlement extends for some ten miles along a valley of rich alluvial soil, only requiring irrigation, which they are giving it as well as they can. A disastrous flood was followed by the two years' drought; but, under favorable circumstances, the virgin soil yields thirty-fold of wheat. There is good promise of minerals in the mountainous country from which the Chupat arises. Small vessels can come up the river to the colony, but the bar is difficult, and, in fact, the traffic with New Gulf is chiefly by road or track, of forty miles, traversed by unshed horses. There are many things they have at present to do without. They have no shop or "store," and are very short of clothing. They have no doctor; a mechanic, a self-taught herbalist, has charge of the medicine chest. They have "no lunatics, blind, deaf or dumb;" no poor law, no currency except ostrich feathers, no taxation. The colony belongs to the Argentine Confederation, and in the absence of any representative of the National Government, they elect annually by ballot a few muncipal officers. They have no prison, and, substantially, no crime; the adult male population, or "militia," on one occasion turned cut en masse to enforce settlement of a debt, and this is the only display of force that has been. They are on good terms with the Indians, and traffic with them. They have also occasional commerce with Buenos Ayres (a land journey of 200 miles, where little or no water is), sending thither Indian products, skins, estrich feathers, &c. The climate is very healthy, and the colonists feel sure of success as an agricultural settlement, only needing-that great need of a new colonycommunication with the rest of the world. J. WALKER, Proprietor. R. H. McDONALD & CO., In future, the man-of-war going to the Faulkland Islands is to call annually at New Gulf and present the compliments of the outside world, and make kind inquiries.

AN EXTRAORDINARY TIMEPIECE. - A London watchmaker has constructed a gold hunting watch which, in addition to being a timekeeper of the utmost precision, with chronometer adjustments, compensation balance and cylindrical spring, exhibits on the dial plate the following different indications: -First, the equation of the time; second, the moon's age: third, the month of the year; fourth, the day of the month; in addition to the hours, minutes and seconds, as an ordinary watch. The mechanism is so contrived that any one or the whole of the hands may be set forward or backward at pleasure without deranging the rest. Every moment of this mechanical marvel is laid down in the strictest proportion and based upon calculations of an absolutely scientific character, and the whole is within the compass of a pocket timekeeper.

OUR readers have all doubtless heard of the frog that "would a wooing go," regardless of his mother's injunctions, but it doesn't follow that they've heard of the last Michigan frog enactment, and for fear they haven't, we transfer from the Elgin (Ill.) Gazette the subjoined morsel:

In Marine City, Mich., the other day, a young man was walking out with some young ladies, when he found a small frog, and holding it in the palm of his hand brought it near his mouth which he opened wide. The juvenile croaker seeing what appeared to be a place of refuge, gave a jump into the cave. The young man looked very red in the face and the ladies looked down in the mouth, but the frog has never been seen from that day to this.

-A rural youth of eighteen summers invested in a banana in the cars on Monday. He carefully removed the peel, and put it on the seat by his side; then he broke the fruit up in small bits, eyeing it anxiously as he did so. When this was done he picked up the peel, shook it in his lap, and finally threw the pieces out of the window, remarking, as he did so. "That's the first of them prize packages I ever bought, and it's the last, you bet."

THE Gordian Knot was made of the thongs that served as barness to the wagon of Gordian, a husbandman who was afterward King of Phrygia. Whoever untied this knot, the ends of which were not discoverable, the oracle declared should be Emperor of Prussia. DO YOU THINK IT A SIN?

Do you think it a sin in the gloaming To sit near a neat fitting dress, With the daintiest of maidens within it, And fily white fingers to press ? Or softly to lift a stray ringlet, That floats o'er a bosom of snow,

Or to peep into eyes that are glancing, From darkly fringed eyelids below ? Or to see just beyond where she's sitting A something you ought to repair: And pass your arm around her and fix it,

And then to forget your arm there; Or, just in a fit of abstraction, To tell her there's something you miss, And while she's helping you to find it, To steal from her mouth a sweet kiss ?

And as she's reproving you mildly, You draw in your arm rather tight,

And tell her you're sorry you did it, If she does not think it quite right, And then in your penitent moment You say that to you it is plain,

You ought, as a matter of henor, To give her the kiss back again. Yet how to do it is a puzzle, For in viewing the matter all o'er, If I give back the kiss I have stolen,

She might say I'd taken one more. O, I'm sadly perplexed and contounded, I want to be just and polite, Don't you think that it were better to coax her

To give me to kissing the right? I'm afraid I've committed a blunder, And acted somewhere like a dunce : I think I must get up my courage,

And ask her to wed me at once. 've done it-and she has consented-What a fortunate man I have been ! And now you may keep your opinion-I don't think I have committed a sin.

A Wedding in a Lighthouse,

A Toledo (Ohio) paper tells the story of a romantic wedding in a lighthouse on Turtle Island. Mrs. Edson has been the keeper of the lighthouse since the death of her husband, two years ago, and last week she was married to a young man named Burrows who had been employed as her assistant. The wedding party of invited guests left Toledo on Thursday, and the trip was very pleasant until the party reached the vicinity of the island, when they were struck by a squall, were drenched with rain and had a rough time generally. Mr. Burrows watched the party from the island, and throwing off his wedding cloths and donning his working suit, put off in a boat to their assistance. He was thrown back by the rough sea, and came out of the struggle with skinned nose and bruised face. He made a second attempt, reached the tug, transferred the dranched wedding guests, two by two, to the island, where they were received by Mrs. Edson in a manner at once cordial and earnest.

The scene during the gale, and while the party was still on the tug, was very and the awning broke loose from its fastening, swept the deck, where the cake and wedding delicacies were going to destruction. Some man went to the rescue, however, and his daring was repaid by a vote of thanks from the ladies, who were willing to sacrifice their bonnets rather than that cake.

At last Mr. Burrows had all his guests on shore, and made himself ready for the ceremony. He remarked as an introductory that he had been round the world twice, that he had met many women, but he had never loved until he met the lady soon to be his wife. There under the light, in sight of the scene of her heroic struggle to save one man who called her wife, Mrs. Edson became Mrs Burrows, and received the congratulations of her

After an entertainment, in which the rescued wedding cake and attendant fixtures played an important part, and after family prayer, in which the devine blessing was asked on the newly-married couple, the guests returned to the city.

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN. -We hear a great deal about this phrase, "It might have been.'

Sentimental youths and love-lorn lassies, growling old bachelors, and "picky" old spinsters, all join in this contemptible whine, "It might have been;" but the words have another meaning well worth looking for, too.

Instead of mourning over the irretrievable past, and sighing, "It might have been better," we should do a far more sensible thing if we picked up our crumbs, and said. "It might have been worse." Taking time through, there isn't more cause for sorrow than joy, and all bitter complaining only brings us so much the more speedily to that place which is the quintescence of everything doleful. It is not very likely that any of us will be called to endure more than good old Job. When earthly blessings were taken from him, he did not raise a great hue and cry, but patiently said, "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord."

ABOUT Bennets. - Oh, the bonnets of my girlhood-the kind I wore to school; I really thought them pretty-I must have been a fool. And yet I used to think myself on hats a jaunty miss ; perhaps I Manufacturer and Dealer in was, as fashion went-but what was that to this! Oh, the lovely little pancakethe charming little mat! it makes my head so level, and so very, very flat. Oh, a sister's love is charming, as everybody knows; and a handsome neighbor's love is nice [that is, I should suppose]; and PITTSBURGH. the love of a true lover is a love that cannot pall-but the love of a new bonnet it the dearest love of all.

Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation; which is due to merit alone. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR DRESSING ever used, pearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities, or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhoea, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons. It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of
