

Cambria Freeman.

EDENSBURG, PA. THURSDAY MORNING, : : SEPT. 7, 1871. DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

STATE. FOR AUDITOR GENERAL: GENERAL WILLIAM M'CADDESS, of Philadelphia. FOR SURVEYOR GENERAL: CAPTAIN JAMES H. COOPER, of Lawrence County.

COUNTY. Assembly—W. HORACE ROSE, Johnstown. Prothonotary—J. K. HITE, Edinburg. Associate Judges—J. J. LLOYD, Edinburg. District Attorney—W. H. SCHILLER, Edinburg.

At the eleventh hour, a warrant has been issued against George O. Evans for embezzlement, on an information made by State Treasurer Mackey. Evans is in New York, and if proper diligence is used by the officers of the law he can be arrested.

A LARGE PARTY of New Jersey colored men from Jersey City, Patterson, Hackensack, Lodi, and other places, held a picnic in the suburbs of the classic village of Frog-town one day last week and in the evening organized themselves into an Anti Grant mass meeting.

GRANT having become wearied with the dullness and monotony of life at Long Branch, it is now announced by the Radical press that about the middle of this month he intends, in company with Gen. Porter, Tom Murphy, his faithful Achates, and other choice Arcadians, to pay a visit to the coal and oil fields of this State.

Dark and crooked are the ways of Radicalism, but especially is this the case in the reconstructed States. Its lawless usurpations are a standing reproach and a burning disgrace to the country—its unlicensed exercise of power a burlesque on government itself.

Can the history of American politics show anything like this? For the day named the people of Bastrop assembled in large numbers, but not realising the idea of placing themselves under the tender mercies of Davis and his martial law, voted down the proposition by an overwhelming majority.

Blaine of Maine.

This gentleman, who is the Radical Speaker of the National House of Representatives, delivered a speech at Saratoga, a short time since, in which, in the usual slang of Radicalism, he denounced the Democratic party as corrupt and its leaders dishonest. It is an old adage that a man who lives in a glass house should not throw stones, and when a member of high standing in the Radical church undertakes to accuse a great party and its trusted and leading men of dishonesty, he himself should have clean hands and wear unsoiled garments.

Mr. Blaine passes in Washington for a millionaire. He owns a house there, which is said to be worth some $50,000, and he lives in a style which indicates very ample means. He owns rich coal mines in Pennsylvania, rich copper mines on Lake Superior, and a handsome private estate in Maine, besides his extensive mansion in Washington.

Such is the damaging record of a leading New England Radical and an aspirant after Presidential honors. He is a fair sample of a class of men, such as Harlan, Morton, Sherman, and scores of others, who entered Congress as impecunious as Lazarus, but who have amassed princely fortunes and dwell in richly furnished houses.

Mrs. GEORGE H. PENDLETON delivered a masterly speech on the 22d of August, at an immense mass meeting of the Democracy of Clermont and Warren counties, Ohio. Its length precludes its publication in our columns, but we cannot omit to lay before our readers the following eloquent tribute paid by Mr. Pendleton to his friend and co-laborer, the lamented Vallandigham:

Who can commence the discussion of political questions without being carried involuntarily to that great and glorious man, who so lately clothed our party, our State, and our country, in mourning? The silver cord is loosened; the golden bowl is broken; the voice that spoke so eloquently and well is stilled; the intellect which thought so truly exerts its powers on other subjects, in other spheres; the strong, brave heart beats not to the conflicts of time.

maligned him most were beginning to see their error and to do him justice. "I thank God that at the last the sun penetrated the darkness of the night, and that his rays, even though only for a moment, the mists of the morning dissolving before its radiant beams. And if it be given to men who have gone hence to care for, or to know, estimation in what they are held or held on, I know his spirit will be gladdened by the fact that all his countrymen, without dissent, will believe that he was as pure as he was able, as honest as he was brave, and as faithful as he was persistent."

Removal of J. M. McClure, Esq.

A petty stroke of official malice and revenge which had been impending for some time has fallen at last. Yesterday morning Attorney General Brewster removed J. M. McClure, esq., from the office of Assistant Attorney General. On Tuesday, the 15th instant, Mr. McClure received a verbal request to resign from the Attorney General, who informed him that a demand for his removal had been made by Governor Geary.

What is the offense for which Mr. McClure has become removed? He has suffered simply because of his fidelity to the interests of the plundered and betrayed Commonwealth. When he received a hint that a gigantic conspiracy was in existence, whose members engaged in robbing the State of hundreds of thousands of dollars, he resolutely and fearlessly went to work to probe the villainy to the bottom.

The removal of McClure was a bad stroke for Governor Geary. He has only added another strong suspicion to the thickly-accumulated proofs of his connection with the financial operations of Evans from first to last. On what theory consistent with his own innocence does he remove McClure for disclosing the frauds of Evans? Are the interests of Governor Geary so closely identified with those of Evans that a blow given to the one must be resented by the other?

KILLED BY A BEETLE.—On Tuesday of last week, a post mortem examination was held on the body of a two-year old child of Louis Schappert, a butcher living in Ashley, Luzerne county, which died a day or two since in intense agony. It was taken suddenly and violently ill, and nothing could be administered that seemed to afford relief. Its body swelled to nearly twice its natural size, and it died vomiting blood.

As an instance of heartless and shameful brutality which not even panic fear can in the slightest degree excuse, recently occurred at Cadiz, Ohio, a letter published in the Pittsburg Chronicle is true. A young man once a resident of West Troy, in this State, and named Edward Hayward, was seized with small-pox at the Cadiz House, and lay in an upper room. The people of the town grew wild with fear, entered his chamber, and threw him in a blanket, and took him out at a back window and down a ladder. It was raining at the time, yet they placed him in a wagon and drew him to an old tenacious house, without roof or windows, and there left him in care of a negro who received $10 a day for his services.

Eulogy on Surgeon Stanton.

The celebrated wit, Hon. J. Packer Knott, of Kentucky, has been making a speech descriptive of a Radical candidate in that State, which was surely intended for our Dr. Stanton, the hero who never saw service—who is now the Radical candidate for Auditor General of Pennsylvania. We therefore correct some extracts from the speech to suit the case of Dr. Stanton, as will be found below. Our reason for being so particular in giving the public some information in regard to the history of the Radical candidate, is that his supporters refuse to do so. The public want light, and light they shall have.

What deeds of prowess Dr. Stanton might have won upon the gory field, what becomations of slaughtered rebels might have gone down beneath the biting edge of his trenchant blade, had he ever succeeded in meeting his country's foe upon the necked ridge of battle, the course of history will never tell, for ere he had an opportunity to quench his blazing brain in the blood of traitors, he was called from the path of martial glory to the more arduous duties of a contract surgeon. Not the least needed of his services in the hospital. I am willing to admit that there was not another doctor in all the length and breadth of the Commonwealth, from Point Breeze to Erie who was capable of discharging the distinguished functions of contract surgeon, yet I cannot but deplore the inexcusable necessity which compelled him to quit the tented field and bid farewell forever to all the pomp and circumstances of glorious war.

It can, however, be said of Dr. Stanton, as it can of few military heroes of equal prowess and renown, that when his ear dimmed eye rested upon the war-worn forms of our soldiers, he was the first to volunteer that he would have laid down his arms at once. But when Lee, Johnson, and Beauregard ascertained that he was not with the Federal forces, they plucked up fresh courage and determined to prosecute the war to the bitter end.

SINGULAR PHENOMENON.—A singular phenomenon was witnessed on Thursday at Norristown, by a gentleman who was driving on De Kalb street, near the borough line. He noticed a strange appearance in the air, and upon examination found it was due to an immense flight of some peculiar species which had every appearance of a snow storm, the rapidity of movement being about the same as that of snow flakes in ordinary storms.

A HORRIBLE CRIME.—The body of a young and beautiful woman, apparently about 20 years of age, was found packed in a trunk checked for Chicago, at the Hudson River Railroad depot, New York City, on Saturday afternoon week. A malpractitioner named Jacob Rosenzweig, a Polish Jew, accused of being connected with it, has been arrested by the police. Other arrests will follow so soon as the parties implicated are found. The body has since been identified as that of Miss Alice Bowlsby, of Paterson, N. J., and a young man of that place named Walter Conking, believed to have been the seducer of the unfortunate girl, through fear of arrest and exposure, shot and killed himself on Thursday last.

THESE BUILDINGS, COVERING LOTS Nos. 584, 536, 538 Market St., Nos. 1, 3, 5, 7, 9, 11, 13 So. Sixth St. and Nos. 525, 527, 529 Minor St., Whose Salesrooms and Storerooms, spread out, would cover more than Three Acres of ground, making them the Largest and Completest Buildings of the kind in America, if not in the World, are now COMPLETELY FILLED with our MOST MAGNIFICENT STOCK OF FALL CLOTHING, FULLY $750,000'S WORTH OF THE MOST SUPERIOR READY-MADE CLOTHING, FOR MEN AND BOYS, EVER MADE. All perfectly New and Fresh in Designs and Materials. WANAMAKER & BROWN. Philadelphia.

News and Political Items.

—Terra Haute boasts of a ten-acre field of cucumbers on its outskirts. —A colored Democrat in Kentucky lost his situation because he challenged another negro's vote. —A labor reform convention, representing Schuylkill county, met at Pottsville, Pa., on Monday, and made nominations for the fall campaign. —By a typhoon on the Japanese coast a whole district was laid waste, several vessels were wrecked, and about 400 persons were crushed to death by falling buildings. —The horn of a Patagonian ox has been forwarded to Baltimore. It is sixty-five inches long, seventeen inches in circumference at the base, and will hold seven quarts. —The fellow who got an office in the revenue service in Illinois, under the supposition that his name was Dent, when it was Dent, has been removed as an imposter. —The families of the Websters and the Bonapartes are to be united by the marriage of Newport, on the 11th of this month, of Jerome Bonaparte, of Baltimore, and a granddaughter of Daniel Webster. —In Richmond, Va., many birds are said to be going blind and every day dead birds are picked up in the streets, having been killed in their flight by striking against buildings or other obstructions. —At a wedding at Oaksh, where chewing gum is the only amusement, the bride and groom, to show their implicit faith in each other, put their arms around each other's waist, and swapped cuds of gum. No cars. —In Shanburg, Pa., on Monday last, two men were applying benzine to the ceiling of a house, to kill bed-bugs, when an explosion occurred from gas generated by benzine, burning the men and burning Mrs. Schuller to death. —The fight between two factions of the Republican party in Louisiana gained additional interest from the fact that the meanest things either party can say of the other are true, and even then the subject is by no means exhausted. —The September number of the National Medical Journal of New York, gives a quietus to the speculation in cundurango. All the experiments made by reliable medical men with cundurango, in the navy, in private practice, and now in the New York Hospital, prove to be worthless. —Two more of the Grant family have been brought out. Wm. Grant, the President's own cousin, clerk in the Customhouse, New York. Dr. Ed. Grant, clerk in the Internal Revenue Department, New York. The latter is the President's grandfather's brother's great grandson. —An Illinois farmer has told his rat story. He was going out to his corn-crib the other morning, he says, when he saw a large rat, with head erect, carrying a full-sized ear of corn in his mouth, while at the same time his tail wrapped around another large ear, which he was dragging behind him. —The highest farm in the world is said to be situated four miles from Sherman Station on the Union Pacific Railroad. It has an elevation eight thousand feet above the sea-level. Vegetables and grain thrive well on this farm, and two hundred young apple trees have been set out as an experiment. —A negro tied a white boy, thirteen years old, to a tree in the woods in Chesterfield, Va., on Wednesday afternoon of last week, and left him there until Friday noon, when he returned and released him, also threatening him with death if he exposed him. A violent storm raged a portion of the time. —Two negroes and a white man have been hanged by a mob at Caseyville, Ky., for outraging the person of a white woman in that vicinity. Five men were concerned in the outrage, which was of a horrible character. The others had been executed in the same manner soon after the commission of the offense. —A large number of Democratic county conventions in this State have already decided for Gen. Hancock for the Presidency —nearly all that elected delegates. There are so many that it is quite unnecessary to continue to name them. The gallant General is evidently the nearly unanimous choice of the Democracy of this State. —Mr. Edward Richardson, a Vermont farmer, after residing sixteen years on the island of Hawaii, owns an estate of 400,000 acres of land, plentifully interspersed with lava from the volcano of Mauna Loa. He went to the Sandwich islands a poor man to earn a livelihood as a carpenter. Among his other possessions are 600 head of cattle.

Advertisement for Geis & Foster, located at Nos. 113 and 115 Clinton Street, Johnstown, Pa. The ad promotes a wide variety of goods including 'NEW GOODS', 'BLACK AND COLORED ALPACA MOURNING GOODS', 'WHITE GOODS', 'HOUSEKEEPING DRY GOODS', 'MILLINERY GOODS', 'CARPETS', and 'SCHOOL AND HALL FURNITURE'. It also mentions 'Andrew Moses, DRAPER & TAILOR, 4 CLINTON STREET, JOHNSTOWN, PA.' and 'ELLIPTIC SEWING MACHINE OFFICE'.