A Queer Community.

A correspondent has discovered a community, numbering at present about seven the erand souls, which has flensished for many centuries, though no wolfeen has ever leen permitted or known to set foot in the country. I'w of the inhabitants, he says, have nny definite idea of what a woman is. The whole class of ideas and sensations ordinarily associated with the words mother, sister, wife and sweetheart are to them tucknown, and what is equally singular, crime is also are to be seen evidences of temperance, plety and good order.

The home of this eccentric but happy peo ple is in the east-romost of the three penin su'as which project to m the north coast of miles across. It terminates at Mount Athes, a conteal mass of limestone rising abiturity to a height of eig thousand five tundred fest Between this bool headland and the coast is a beautiful plateru, clothed throughout with wordland, which is gay with flowers, riel with odors, mercy with songs of birds and camppied by the brightest of all blue skier. The cultivated fields are all divers fiel with groves of oak and chestuat, while clive and fig frees are the clindigenous. To this secret parachse the sons, but not daughters, of Eve are admitted, and such has been the cutstom at far back as history reaches; the pen insula being religi usly guarded at all points against the approach of woman, no matter how saintly she might be.

Goin' home that evenin' I told you I was blue, Thinkin' of all my troubles and what I was goin' to do: And if my hosses hadn't been the steadiest team alive. They'd 've tipped me over, certain, for I couldn't see where to drive

No-for I was travelin' an entirely different For I was a tracin' over the path of our lives The Largest, Best Made ag'in, And seein' where we missed the way, and quarret led, When I ought to 've held my temper, and driven straight ahead; And the more I thought it over the more these memories came, And the more I struck the opinion that I was the most to blame.

And things I had long forgotten kept risin' in my mind, Of little matters betwixt us, where Betsey was good and kind; And these things they flashed all through me, as you know things sometimes will When a feller's alone in the darkness, and everything is still.

But," says I, "we're too far along to take another track, And when I put my hand to the plow, I do not oft turn back; And 'tain't an uncommon thing now for couples to smash in two;" And so I set my treth together, and vowed

I d see it through. When I came in sight o' the house 'twas AND SEE HOW IT IS YOURSELVES! some at in the night. And just as I turned a hill-top I see the kitchen light,

Which often a han some pictur' to a hungry person makes, But it don't interest a fellow much that's goin' to pull up stakes.

And when I went into the house the table was set for me-As good a supper's I ever saw, or ever want to see; And I crammed the agreement down my pocket as well as I could, And fell to catle' my victuals, which somehow didn't taste good.

And Betsy she pretended to look about the house. But she watched my side coat pockets like a cat would watch a mouse ; And then she went to a foolig' a little with her cup, And intently readin' a newspaper, a holdin' it wrong side up.

And when I'd done my supper, I drawed the agreement out. And give it to her without a word, for she knowed what 'twas about : And then I hummed a little tune, but now and then a note Was bu'sted by some animal that hopped up

Then Betsy she got her spees from off the mantle-shelt And read the article over quite softly to her-Read it little by little, for her eyes is gettin'

in my throat

And lawyers' writin' ain't no print, especially when it's cold. And after she'd read a little she gave my arm a touch. And kindly said she was afraid I was 'lowin' [7-1.-3m.] her too much ; But when she was through she went for me, her face a streamin' with tears,

And kissed me for the first time in over twenty years! I don't know what you'll think, sir-I dide't come to inquire-But I picked up that agreement and stuffed it in the fire; And I told her we would bury the hatchet alongside of the cow;

And we struck an agreement never to have another row. And I told her in the future I wouldn't speak est notice, and at as moderate prices as like harsh and rash If half the crockery in the house was broken all to smash :

And she said, in regards to heaven, we'd try and learn its worth By startin a branch establishment and runnin' it here on earth.

And so we sat a talkin' three quarters of the And opened our hearts to each other until they both grew light;

And the days when I was winnin' ber away from so many men Was nothin' to that evenin' I courted her over Next mornin' an ancient virgin took pains to call on us, Her lamp trimmed and a burnin' to kindle another fuss : But when she went a pryin' and openin of old scores, My Bet-ey rose politely, and showed her out

Since then I don't deny but there's been a word But we've got our eyes wide open, and know just what to do : When one speaks cross the other just meets it with a laugh,

And the first one's ready to give up considerable more than half. Maybe you'il think me soft, sir, a-talkin' in But somehow it does me lots of good to tell it once in a while; And I do it for a compliment-'tis so that you can see,

That that there written agreement of yours was just the makin' of me. So make out your bill, Mr. Lawyer: don't stop short of an X: Make it more if you want to, for I have got the checks. I'm richer than a National Bank, with all its treasures told. For I've a wife at home now that's worth her
