DIBERT'S NEW BANK. We have not often seen a more cosy banking house than the one that John Dibert & Co. have moved into, on Main street, No. 240. It is perfectly new, as clean as a pin, heated by heaters, and has very large show windows and double doors. The doors, washboards and furniture are beautifully grained and all one color. The counter and lesks are handsome articles of furniture. Hydrant water and gas complete the elegant arrangements, and we are free to say it is the nicest banking house in Western Penna.

We feel grateful to W. L. A. for his sympathy and words of consolation, which were given in kindness, and feel somewhat abashed at having been overcome, but the calamity was so appalling that we couldn't help it. We have a heart that can feel; so much so indeed that we have ceased to read the sickening details of the late disasters, for they are too much for flesh to endure. The fruits of the earth are truly abundant, but to the poor they are but what the fruits and the water were to Tantalus.

They were exceedingly complicated, while his is exceedingly simple, and as strong as it is simple. We took some notes at the time, but we are not mechanic enough to describe the machine. The feed, the shuttle, the press bar, the knuckle joint, the treadle, the hinges to open and close and oil the machine, the tension, and indeed every thing, is so simplified, yet so strong, and so well lat week say that the horses were recovered protected from dust, that any person who sees one opened must admire the machine.

FINE BUILDINGS. The buildings that have lately been put up in Johnstown are of a better class than those formerly erected. CELEBRATION OF FIRST MASS .- Last Sunday was a pleasant, and to a great many in this city, a very interesting day. John W. > KILLED BY A LOG .- On Friday morning of last week Mr. John Kennedy, of Washington township, this county, came to a vient death under the following painful circumstances: With the aid of his son, a lad of fourteen years, he was endeavoring to build a log fence, and while assisting a voke of exen to roll a heavy log against a hill, the weight overpowered him, and a crowbar which he was using at the time struck him on the leg, prostrating him to the ground and inflicting a very severe wound, which doubtless prevented his escape from the log, which rolled over his body and rested on his neck, producing death almost immediately. His little boy ran to the house of a neighbor to give the alarm, and parties at once repaired to the scene of the accident, only, however, to find the lifeless remains of the unfortunate man in the position we have stated. Mr. Kennedy was a widower, about 60 years of age, and the father of two small children, a boy and girl, with whom alone he kept house. He was a quiet, inoffensive and strictly honest man, and his sudden and melancholy death is a source of deep regret to all who knew him. His remains were interred in the Catholic graveyard at Wilmore on Sunday.

THE lifeless body of a German "tramp," with the head terribly beaten and lacerated, was found on the pike between Bedford and Bloody Run, on Thursday morning of last week, and there is no doubt that he was murdered and then robbed, as his pockets were cut out and the contents of the bundle he carried scattered in all directions. The deed was committed with a piece of fence rail. Papers found on the body indicated the name of the murdered man to be W. A. Weis. Several parties have been arrested en suspicion, but only one, a negro, is now in custody awaiting examination. This is the second murder that has occurred in Bedford county within a few days. WITH the approbation of Father Christy, several young men of the congregation are now erecting a large hall near the Catholic church for the purpose of holding therein such social entertainments as may be deamed innocent and enjoyable, and also with a view to leasing it to traveling exhibitions of an unobjectionable character. The dimensions of the hall are 75 by 25 feet, and it will be fitted up in good style and will be ready for the purposes it is intended some time this

More "Varmints."-It appears that the inhabitants of the northern corner of Brady township have been greatly annoyed, during the summer and fall, by members of the Wolf family, who were in the daily habit of feasting on mutton. This was very evident from the number of sheep slaughtered in that neighborhood. Last week, however, an old woodsman, Samuel Troy, learning the walks of Mr. Wolf, laid for him, and having set some traps, was no little surprised on looking to them a few days after to find that he had secured two full grown peaks wolves.

Letter from Over the Sea.

QUEENSTOWN, IRELAND, Oct. 18, 1871. DEAR MAC—Here I am, alive and well, after my voyage across the "big pond." On the evening of the 25th September we steamed out of New York, and in a few hours after found ourselves on the broad bosom of the deep Atlantic. None, unless these who have experienced it, can have any idea of the sensation one feels as he stands on deck and catches the last glimpse of the receding land, while the good ship ploughs with giant strides through the thin pse of the receding and, while the good hip ploughs with giant strides through the occan furrows; perhaps to be tossed about on empestuous billows before land is sighted again. The evening we left as were in good again. The evening we left as were in good spirits—some prophesying about the weather—more discussing the probable number that would be sea-sick—others again arguing, almost betting, as to the length of the voyage. But, sir, the third day saw two-thirds of the passengers prostrated with sea-sickness. Never having experienced what it is like, I can't say much about this discase, but judging from the death-like paleness visible on every face, I should think it must be dreadful. While it lasts I am told it is the severest of sickness, but when it is over people feel better than they did before the attack. On the fifth day nearly all were as sprightly as ever. Judging from the celerity of knives, forks and mouths of those that were sick, I certainly must say they lost nothing in the way of appetite. We had on board the shrewd calculating fi-nancier, the professsional prating politician, the sanctimonious, methodical, white-choker-ed little parson—in fact we had the extremes of religious and political opinion pretty well rereligious and political opinion pretty well represented.

On the sixth day we saw some of "Mother Carey's chickens," the sure forerunners of a storm. The same night dark ominous clouds hung over us, the sea looked angry, the captain gave orders to his men to "trim" the ship and to take in all the sails. The order was not given too soon, for hurricane-like a sweeping, leveling gale swept over us, threatening to bury us in the awful deep. Fear was depicted on every countenance. Those whose lips perhaps for months, or years, did not utter a prayer, now in the hour of danger appealed to heaven for aid. It was a trying time, for there we were, hundreds of miles away from land, at the mercies of wind and waves, not knowing the moment we would keel over. The next one forgot the danger in the stupendous gran-leur of the scene. Some time during the afernoon the elements calmed considerably, and by night our good ship was under full sail again, cutting through the now settled sea. The eighth day found us all chatting about the late storm and congratulating ourselves on not being by this time swallowed up in the shark's mighty week.

mighty maw. On the ninth day every face were an anxious ook, every eye was strained looking for some listant object, every tongue was busy discuss-ng the probable time in which that long wished ing the probable time in which that long wished for object, LAND, would appear in view.

The weary, dying traveller on the great Sahara desert longs and sighs for a drop of water to cool his parched lips—the lover looks forward with reclings of rapturous delight to the happy moment when he shall meet the absent object of his affection—the weary, scarred soldier of a hundaged battles longs for the peace that will bring film rest—but, sir, the feelings of all put together are only as the likeker of a gas jet to the noon-day sun compared with the feelings of a person on ship-board when he entches, after a perilous voyage of ten days. on the safter a perious voyage of ten days, the first sight of land.

On the morning of the tenth day we could see samething in the dim distance which we were told were the Kerry Heads. As the morning's mist cleared away and the sun shone out, we could see distinctly the green hills of dear old Ireland. Nearer and nearer we came, till at last we found ourselves entering Queenstown After the usual examination of "person property," all those who had been booked for Ireland came ashore. Need I say that your correspondent was one of them. When I found myself once more on terra firma I felt as if could day, for here I was, after an absence o many years, coming to visit the dear had o my birth—to see again the mountains and hills the screamlets and rills with which all my ous hoybood recollections are so pleasingly till I am none the less an Irishman.

For the present I will not attempt a description of Queenstown. In my next I will essay the task. During my stay in the country I will | trated with send you an occasional letter descriptive of the different places of interest I propose to visit. My next, I expect, will be from historic Limerick. Kind regards to all the Johnstown folks. Yours, dear Mac, truly, ERIONACH. Head-quarters of the Clothing Trade-W. & B.'s Oak Hall, 6th & Market.
