

Cambria Freeman.

EBENSBURG, PA.

BASED ON MORNING, NOV. 25, 1871.

Last week we published an article from the St. Louis Republican in reference to the Democratic party and its policy in the next Presidential election.

The Grand Duke Alexis, third living son of the Emperor Alexander II, arrived at New York in a Russian vessel of war on last Sunday.

This force of public opinion has at length compelled Grant's counsellor and friend, Thomas Murphy, collector of the port of New York, to tender his resignation.

From one of the local results of the late New York election an instructive lesson can be learned of the supreme hypocrisy of radicalism for the negro.

It is stated on reliable authority that the men who have been arrested and thrown into prison by Grant's soldiers in that portion of South Carolina embraced within the territory covered by his proclamation declaring martial law, will be defended by Reverdy Johnson of Baltimore and Henry Stansbery of Cincinnati, formerly Attorney General of the United States.

It is stated on reliable authority that the men who have been arrested and thrown into prison by Grant's soldiers in that portion of South Carolina embraced within the territory covered by his proclamation declaring martial law, will be defended by Reverdy Johnson of Baltimore and Henry Stansbery of Cincinnati, formerly Attorney General of the United States.

It is stated on reliable authority that the men who have been arrested and thrown into prison by Grant's soldiers in that portion of South Carolina embraced within the territory covered by his proclamation declaring martial law, will be defended by Reverdy Johnson of Baltimore and Henry Stansbery of Cincinnati, formerly Attorney General of the United States.

Local Opinion.

It is now claimed by several leading radical papers in this State that "local option" as it is called, was a leading question before the people in the late political campaign, and that an affirmative verdict having been rendered, it will be the duty of the approaching Legislature to give form and effect to the decision by its enactment into a law.

This is an afterthought. "Local option" was no more an issue in the late State election than was the question of "compulsory education," or that other question, "compulsory vaccination."

The present license law of Pennsylvania is as comprehensive in its purposes of repression and as stringent in its provisions as it could well be made.

An appalling disaster.—Caving in of a Coal Mine and Great Damage to Property.—Scranton was thrown into a state of consternation at an early hour on the morning of the 16th inst.

The cause of the commotion was the caving in of the Diamond vein of the Oxford shaft, which has been mined over ten years. A similar accident occurred four years ago, but was not as disastrous as the recent one.

Old Fellows' Hall was damaged to such an extent that it must be torn down. The dwelling of David J. Richards was torn from cellar to attic, and the family were compelled to rush to another portion of the town for safety.

Letter from Ireland--No. 3.

(Correspondence of Cambria Freeman.)

LIMERICK CITY, IRELAND. } November 6, 1871. } FRIEND MAC—I believe my last letter left me musing on ST. MARY'S STREETS.

The great and illustrious Irish tribune stands, life size and with book in hand, on a high pedestal, forcibly reminding one of the mighty genius, the towering intellect, the massive mind of the immortal Dan, whose every thought was for his down-trodden country.

Just as I was on my way to visit some of the many magnificent churches for which this city is famed, the friend who was with me introduced me to Mr. Michael Hogan, the bard of the moment.

The public buildings of Limerick are in keeping with its enterprise. Going along George and Patrick streets I have seen as extensive and beautiful stores as Stewart's or Lord & Taylor's, of New York.

A walk up William street led me to old O'Connell's Garden. The place which is now pointed out as Garryowen is a large neglected space of green sward outside the city limits.

The weather here just now is a little cool, but pleasant enough. If I only accepted one-half of the invites I have received, I think, Mac, it would be some weeks before you would get a scroll again from me.

The first draft of Grant's Thanksgiving proclamation is said to have had a decidedly lukewarm reception. It commanded the people to peacefully assemble at church on the 28th, and threatened a general suspension of the writ of habeas corpus and a declaration of martial law if the order was not universally observed.

The Elements of Opposition to General Grant.

At least three-fifths of the voting citizens of the United States deprecate and would gladly prevent the re-election of President Grant. These opponents of his administration consist of the whole Democratic party and fully one fifth of the Republican party.

To accomplish this some things must be done, and other things must be forborne.—Among the things to be forborne and deprecated are these two: First, appeals to mere party spirit and party prejudice.

Without undertaking to give a complete catalogue, we will indicate a few of the elements of opposition to General Grant: I. The crusade against corruption in office.

II. The crusade against the Tammany Ring. This is one of the most hopeful issues for a combined movement of honest Democrats and honest Republicans.

III. The revenue reform or free trade movement. This is one of the most important bases of the new political combination.

Such a new movement as we propose affords the best promise of exciting the German vote in opposition to General Grant.

We will not, at present, enumerate farther. It must be obvious, from the points we have presented, that nothing is needed but a liberal, conciliatory spirit to bring all the opponents of General Grant together on a satisfactory platform.

News of the Week.

Queen Victoria is now accused of intemperance and much indignation is thereby created among her friends and supporters.

—A Catholic mission has been established in this country, with special reference to missionary labors among the colored people.

—The last of the calamities connected with Chicago is the announcement that there are now in press no less than seven different histories of the fire.

—A pig, with one eye in the centre of its forehead and a trunk similar in shape to an elephant's, growing out directly over its eye, is the boast of a California town.

—The manufacture of wood hats is an extensive branch of industry in Reading—There are some seventy manufacturing establishments, employing 600 hands, and producing over 1000 finished hats per day.

—The people of Wyoming are now satisfied with the experiment of female suffrage in that Territory, and a bill is now before the Legislature of the Territory to again restrict the ballot to males.

—The cholera has at last reached our shores. A vessel arrived at New York last week with thirty-four cases on board.

—At Blackstone, R. I., Wednesday afternoon of last week, Mrs. Frances Watfield, took her young child to a shed and chopped its head to pieces with an ax.

—The schooner Twilight, of Pennsylvania, was wrecked on the coast of Michigan, sprang a leak and broke her steering gear.

—The President has appointed James N. Kerns, of Philadelphia, United States Marshal for the eastern district of Pennsylvania.

—A report comes from Liverpool of a terrible disaster in the Mersey on Monday morning last. Two ships ran into each other with such violence that both sunk almost instantly.

—A Chicago girl wrote to her lover in Springfield, Mass., just after the fire, saying: "Our wedding-day was set for next week, and if you will stand up with a woman dressed in a cotton skirt and her father's overcoat, come on."

—A Chicago girl wrote to her lover in Springfield, Mass., just after the fire, saying: "Our wedding-day was set for next week, and if you will stand up with a woman dressed in a cotton skirt and her father's overcoat, come on."

—John Ewing, a miller, was found at Cleveland, Ohio, on Tuesday last, with his head horribly battered and a soldering iron thrust down his throat.

—On Friday morning, a fire broke out in the barber shop adjoining the Perry House at Kit Carson, Colorado, and the entire block, including the Perry House, several dry goods and grocery stores, the Postoffice, two billiard halls, and a number of saloons and dwellings, were destroyed.

—The natives on the west coast of Africa are dying at a fearful rate from small-pox, and $100,000 worth of insurance.

—Andrew Fink, a negro porter at a hotel in Cory, early on Wednesday morning, through the ventilator of a white nurse's room, entered the apartment and attempted to commit an outrage.

—A contemporary records that a nice young girl at Green Day, Wisconsin, was being courted by a nice young man. He was recently inclined, and made her presents of hair oil, which was purchased at the store of the father of the adored.

—The Grand Rapids (Mich.) Democrat says the fight of 1871 will be against corruption, jobbery, and business. Presidents, shabby electors and carpet bag robbers.

—The way with the hegem of destruction.—The sweep in which Ku-Klux outrages are manufactured, and recently illustrated in Jackson county, Georgia.

—A FEARFUL TRAGEDY.—A terrible tragedy is reported as having been enacted in Lynn, Mass., on Friday night last.

—The cholera has at last reached our shores. A vessel arrived at New York last week with thirty-four cases on board.

—The President has appointed James N. Kerns, of Philadelphia, United States Marshal for the eastern district of Pennsylvania.

—A CONVICT'S REVENGE.—Wilson was not the first convict in the Connecticut State Prison to take a bloody revenge for the cruelty of his keepers.

—The Tasarawas (O.) Chronicle tells of the following singular accident: David Muffel, of Rose township, Carroll county, had put a load in his rifle, and not being able to shoot it out, he concluded to draw the ball, but could not do it, so he took the gun apart and removed the powder from the breech.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—The Tasarawas (O.) Chronicle tells of the following singular accident: David Muffel, of Rose township, Carroll county, had put a load in his rifle, and not being able to shoot it out, he concluded to draw the ball, but could not do it, so he took the gun apart and removed the powder from the breech.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.

—A CHURCHMAN, while residing in a tenement as a Methodist, was called on by the sexton for the remedy for the cure of a certain disease.