ROLLICKING RAMBLES.

M r. Griswold, the "Fat Contributor" of the Cincinnati Times and Chromete, on n recent steamboat trip down the Ohio, amused himself by taking a vote for President. He tells the story as follows:

Tired of rambling by railroad, I have recently been indulging my roving dispesition in a steamboat ramble down the Ohio, and I propose to ramble about it on paper, for the readers of the Times and

I took the steamer General Lytle, of the Mail Line, for Louisville, the other evening, and had a delightful trip. After ten I thought I would take a vote of the

This is the period for taking votes on board railroad trains, steambouts, &c., en the Presidential question. The result is frequently published in the newspapers as "A Straw," though I have observed that no newspaper ever prints a straw that does not show the political wind to be setting in their direction. When I essayed to take a vote of the passengers of did I think of the embarrassments I would encounter in securing it. I am not much in politics, though I am probably as much in politics as politics is in me.

ONE VOTE FOR PIERCE. I began with the captain of the Lytle as a starter. "Captain Whitten," said I, "who is your choice for President!"

"Well," replied the bold commander, thoughtfully, "Captain Pierce has been as good a President as the old Mail Line ever had. Reckon he'll do for some years yet."

He thought I was talking about the President of the Louisville Mail Line, but I put down one vote for Pierce.

THE MATE "GOES" FOR ME. I next tackled the mate, who was below superintending some perplexing manœuvre in freight.

"Mate," said I, cheerily, trying to get out of the way of his men, and getting in their way worse than ever, as a matter of course, "who are you going for ?" mate angrily; "I'm going for you if you den't get out of this,"

I got out immediately. I had to do it. or become his mate.

FAVORING HORACE, I ascended to the cabin, A scholarly looking man was reading by a table. (He was reading by a lamp, more properly, yet he was by a table, too )

"My friend," I remarked, blandly, as I produced note book and pencil, "do you favor Horace ?" [He did favor him a little in his feet. ]

"That is a fair question," said the scholarly looking man, laying down his book, which I perceived was a Latin HARDWARE, work of some kind, "and I will answer it without andue circumlocution. While many of the odes of Horace are unexcelled either in his own or any other langauge, yet his verses lack the heroic ring which the poetic lyre gives forth when a GLASS WARE, YELLOW WARE Virgil sweeps the strings."

I told him Virgil might sweep the strings, but could be sweep the South ?that was the question.

"Your language, my friend," continued I, "satisfies me that you are in reali ty a Greeley man,'

"How so?" inquired the man of letters "You call Virgil a poetic lyre f" Down went the scholarly man for Ho-

ANYBODY TO BEAT GRANT. While I was gathering up my straws, two men, somewhat intoxicated, got very much excited in discussing the relative fitness of Grant and Greeley for the Presi-While one insisted that Grant knew nothing about farming, the other inquired contemptuously "what Greeley knew 'bout war? He never fired [hic] two horse lumber-wag'n !" He seemed to think that settled Horace.

"My friends," said I, "let us have peace. Why this strife, this contention, this bitterness of spirit? And all, as Shakspeare says, for Hecuba."

"Oh, [hic] you be d-d," said the man of gin. "An body to beat Grant."

HOW THE LADIES GO. My next experiment was among the ladies. I approached a dark-eyed daughter of Kentucky, and in a fatherly and motherly way, which the difference in our years warranted, inquired: "Daughter, if you could be Grant or be Greeley, which had you rather be?"

a proud toss of the head. There is something I admire in these Kentucky woman-they never go back on a native Kentuckian. "I am for Adams," cried an angular old maid in a shrill voice. "Adams is my man." The ladies ought certainly to favor the Adams movement, since Mother Eye tinuance and increase of the same. was the original Adam's woman.

HE WOULDN'T SUPPORT RELATIONS. "I support Grant," put in a brawny Hoosier farmer, "and the country will support him, too,"

"Well," returned a sinister chap, "the country may support Grant, but you can't expect the country to support all of Grant's fully offers his relations into the bargain, can you? This relation business is played out,"

I afterwards ascertained that the sinister chap had recently run away from a on the FOURTH MONDAY of each month, to rewife and six children in the East. He don't believe in taking care of one's relations, he don't.

"I am waiting for the Baltimore Convention," said a man whom I remember to have seen at fairs with a fascinating little game called "Three-card Monte." I told him he needn't wait for the Baltiing to modify him, for be scowled fearfully, I said: "Come, old high-ball, tell me who I shall put you down for?"

He moved angrily away, and I heard him mutter a remark about putting somebody down 'for a d-d fool," but I don't think he meant me.

When I got through taking the vote it summed up as follows:

Several Frequently. For Greelez, The Mail Line. For Capt. Pierce, For Women's Rights, The Female Line. The Gen. Lytle. For Louisville, The Fat Contributor. For-get-me not, The above, you perceive, shows a clear majority for the people's choice. When I announced the "straw," the scholarly man remarked, in a solemn tone : "B hold the child, by Nature's kindly law, Pleased with a rattle, tickled with a straw.

gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and inju- COOKING STOVES rious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable.
