The Trouble of the "Tribune."

The editor of the Johnstown Tribune, with a courage almost heroic, returns in his last paper to his stereotyped assault on the County Commissioners for their refusal to enforce Samuel Henry's attempt to pass an act of Assembly changing the mode of collecting taxes in Cambria county. We will pass by his insinuations against the Commissioners, all of which we have disposed of heretofore, and will refer once more to the facts connected with the passage of this act, which, so far as the member from Cambria is concerned, is a burlesque on legislation. The first section of the bill provides "That from and after the passage of this act, it should be the duty of the Con missioners of Cambria county, in each and every year immediately after the sasessment of taxes for State and County purposes shall be completed, not later than the first Monday in April, to cause their clerk to make out a fair duplicate of all seated real estate and personal property assessed, with the taxes thereon, in a convenient form, and deliver the same to the Treasurer of said county,' &c. This is the first and controlling section of samnel Henry's tax bill, which is as frail and rickety as a specimen of legislation as was the celebrated house that Jack built. This bill was introduced into the House in March, and it is to be presumed that of his own legislative bantling from its birth to maturity. That such a law was in contemplation, was kept a profound secret, and the first notice the Commissioners ever had of its passage was on the

ney General on this or any other question, ion of such an Attorney General is not concerned, than would be the decision of a Judge reversing his own former opinion, upon the same law and facts, in a given

In the case referred to by the Tribune, in 16 Smith, it is only necessary to say that the language of the Act of Assembly in that case is entirely different from and bears no analogy to that contained in the Cambria county tax law. We will now dismiss this subject finally, and merely add that if the editor of the Tribune supposes he can make any political capital for Samuel Henry by denouncing the Commissioners for their course in reference to the tax law, in favor of whose passage not a single petition was ever seen in any part of the county, he is at liberty to indulge his morbid taste in that reprehensible way to his heart's content-

The Difference.

The marked difference between Charles R. Buckalew and John F. Hartranft, in an intellectual point of view, was made conspicuously, and, to an intelligent Republican, painfully manifest, in the speeches which they delivered to the conventions by which they were nominated. We have already published Mr. Bucka lew's admirable address, and it need not be reproduced here. It was able, dignified, and patriotic, and showed him to be an honest man and an eulightened statesman The Philadelphia Press pronounced it "a patriotic effort, and one which carries us back to the early days of the Republic, when honesty and intelligence were the standards of fitness for office."

When Hartranft was nominated by the "ring and rowdy" radical convention at Harrisburg, the Philadelphia Inquirer, a Republican paper, reported his speech as

Major General John F. Hartranft was then introduced. This was a signal for prolonged applause and cheers As soon as order was estored he commenced his remarks by thank ing the audience for the flattering reception, and said he expected that he would often meet his Philadelphia friends during the summer. He felt, without regard to himself, great hopes of the ultimate result of the republican

In 1868 it was necessary for the good of the country that General Grant should be elected, and every man now who is not influenced by private disappointment or greed of office be heves that it is not only a necessity that he its author carefully watched the progress necessity! He here begged the audience to excuse him from any further remarks, and bowing, returned to his seat on the stage. This impromptu burst of elequence reminds one of the lofty flights John W. He disposed of the radical twaddle about Grant worth anything more, so far as honesty is belonging to the working class, in the following neat and summary manner:

I confess it would have been an unpardonable political dodge to have got up campaign pictures representing Asa Packer with a lamp stuck in the front of his cap picking for an-thracite in a damp mine; and, if your speaker had been successful in obtaining the nomina tion, it would have been rather a sharp prace tice to represent him covered with oil and third sand, in the centre of the derrick, handling a large cable with the motto over his head, Behold the son of toil." And yet my friends, is it any less a fraud to attempt to palm off upon the laboring men of the country a West Point graduate—one not merely, as it is mildly put, "educated at the public expense," but also one who is paid by the public for the labor of learning-a man started in life, covered with good clothes and buttons, the admiration of the girls and the envy of the boys, with a solary out of the public treasury larger than that of many middle aged book-keepers and accountants—is it any less absurd, I ask, to foist such a man upon the country as one of the bardy sons of labor, and call upon the laboring men of the country to rally in his support ?

THE New Jersey Lemocratic State Convention met at Trenton on last Wednesday, and elected delegates to the Bultimore Convention. They are uninstructed, but are known to be in favor of Greeley and Brown. On the same day, the Geor gia State Convention elected Greeley delegates to Baltimore. The same thing was done by the Mississippi Convention on the same day. On that day, also, the Democratic and Liberal Republican Con. ventions of Illinois met at Springfield. The same State ticket, consisting of Republicans and Democrats, was adopted by both conventions. The candidate for Governor is Gustavus A. Koerner, Republican, and for Lieutenant Governor, Gen. Charles Black, Democrat. Both conventions endorsed the Cincinnati ticket. The following dispatch was received by these two conventions from the Mississip pi Convention, and an appropriate answer

"Jackson, Miss., June 20 .- To the Presidents Democratic and Liberal Conventions: The democrats and conservatives of Mississippi in convention assembled send greetings to the democrate and liberal republicans of Illinois, and propose to clasp hands with the great west over the bloody chasm made by the war. We have important intelligence from the old War Governor of Michigan, Hon. Austin Blair. It is that he will not in any event support Grant, and that if Greeley is endorsed at Baltimore he will take the stump for Gree. ley. The Governor does not conceal his seatiments. He says that the stampede from Grant to Greeley will not be by one or two. but by platoons. He thinks Michigan will go for Greeley, if a cordial union is effected be-

He is now preparing a speech upon the finances of the country, and the financial administration of President Grant. It will astonish the American people when delivered. A Perlious Position.

Lengel, the lion tamer, has achieved notoriety by the number of times he has suffered laceration by the claws and teeth of caged animals. He was at Portage City, Mion., a few days ago, exhibiting his "liou-taming" abilities in a circus. One of his cages contained three partially tamed brutes, two lionesses and a lion. He had found, contrary to usual experience, that the male lion was the most crafty of the three and on two occasions before the one at Portage City he had detected this buge fellow in the act of sneaking up to seize his leg. During the afternoon exhibition at Portage City the tamer was going through his usual performance in this cage, with two men stationed outside with iron rods between the bars of the cage, to assist, if necessary, in warding off attack. The lion had somewhat puzzled him, manifesting a different nature from that of any with which he had dealt, and for that reason he kept his eye upon him but at one point he was obliged to turn him, leaving the lion, in the meantime, to be watched by the attendants. But the attendants failed to see the monster speak along the floor. The audience were watching more closely, the danger was seen, and a cry of alarm was raised; but it was too Lungel fell to the floor of the cage. His club flew from his band as he fell, and was beyond his reach; the moment was one of tertible suspense; the spectators were terrified, and the two attendants paralyzed at the result of their carelessuess. But Lengel's presence of mind did not desert him. The lion, even in his rage, could not forget the power of his fallen antagonist, and loosened his hold for a moment, and before the lioness could gather for an attack the tamer was on his feet, seized his whip, and attacked his foe, lashing him into the corner. Leaving the cage, Lengel walked to his dressing box across the ring, where he sank faint from the loss of blood. It was f und that no bones were broken, but the wounds who dressed them probed them with his finger and failed to touch the end.

Lengel has been five times before bitter. by his pets, and shows a scarred body; but in every case before his wounds have been from limesses. This, he thinks, is the second case in which he has been intentionally bitten, the other four being accidents, when in their sparls among themselves they have seized him by mistake.

FEMALE DISEASES, At the present day it is extremely rare to find a female who is entirely free from some one or other of the diseases peculiar to her sex. Go where you will, on the mountain top or in the valley, in the hamlet er in the city, among the rich or the lowly, there will be found very lew females who are not laboring under physical affliction peculiar to womanhood. The cause of this we will not undertake to explain here. The numerous applications made to us for relief during our twenty years' practice, have long since induced us to make especial study and investigation of these diseases, and their best method of cure. They are maladies of a peculiar character, and as a general thing they require a method of treatment entirely pulike that adopted for those common to both sexes. In fact, the very frequency and extent of female diseases in our midst, is good evi dence that the "common treatment" has not met with success, and shows that some more efficient course should be adopted.

We were long since convinced that local remedies and external appliances, bandages. &c., were mere palliatives for the time, and of no permanent value whatever, but oft times injurious; and that an efficient course of medication was the only hope of cure. For the benefit of those who may be afflicted with any disease peculiar to the sex. whether from a slight cold, followed by a derangement and irregularity of the general system, which many times produces cough, expectoration, tightness of chest, difficult breathing, palpitation, &c., with all the symptoms of "going into a decline," or from any of the very many other causes which produce such terrible suffering among women. as to make life a burden to them, we would say, that our remedies are selected and prepared with a special view towards these ends, and will give relief in all these kinds of cases, without needless exposure to indeli cate examinations, or wearing of disagreeable instruments or cumbrous appliances.

We have cured hundreds-yes, thousands of cases by medical treatment alone, hundreds of whom we have never seen, but who only obtained their medicines after having sent to us their cases for examination.

Our remedies in these diseases are mild but effectual, and are such as we have found out to act in conformity with the laws of nature in regulating health; and from the success which has almost invariably crowned our efforts in these cases, we can promise, and do promise, a speedy cure in every case where reasonable hope can be entertained. For the benefit of those living at a distance laboring under Chronic Affections, and unable to attend in person, we would say : by sending us a vial of urine for examination, the necessary medicines can be sent them by L. OLDSHUE, M. D. T. L OLDSHUE, M. D.
