

A Sad Story.

A recent letter from Boston contains the following: "A funeral procession passed by yesterday. A young man told me a story that I think has a peculiar sadness about it. At Saratoga, last season, at one of the largest balls, was a young lady with the most charming and fascinating manners and graces. Her toilet was equally pleasing. He was the belle of the ball—an honor accorded her without dissent. Her attendant during the evening was a young man dressed almost as gaudily as she herself. He was the daughter of a wealthy merchant. He was the son of a Boston leather dealer. He met the lady at Saratoga for the first time last season, and she, by direction of her parents, who were also wealthy, and who listened to the arrangement, became his affianced. Previous to this, she had met a young gentleman, also from Boston, of the utmost respectability, thorough honor and integrity, but without fortune. To him she had been something more than a friend; in fact, almost betrothed. He was young and had risen by his own efforts, and was, it is said, possessed of sterling and promising abilities, which in time must have won wealth and perhaps distinction. On the return of the lady from Saratoga, her father interposed with her first suitor, and he was dismissed. His grief was pitiful. He strove not to reverse it by word or action, but the very efforts he so laboriously made exposed the propriety of his suit. Her father engaged the brideless girl and lived with her husband in the suburbs of the city at a large and costly residence for one month after their marriage. By that time the abuse of the husband compelled an immediate separation. He was returned to a physician's office near by, where he died before the body of one he so tenderly and truly loved was laid in its last resting place."

A PARAGRAPH.—We never saw a page or paragraph with more blacking in it than this one of the two boot blacks. As an advertisement, it is not only good, but it is "Theophilus Thistle, the Thistle sifter." During a slight lull in business the other day two little boot-blacks, one white and one black, were standing on a corner doing nothing, when the white boot-black agreed to black the black boot-black's boots. The black boot-black was of course willing to have his boots blacked by his fellow boot-black, and the boot-black who had agreed to black the black boot-black's boots went to work. When the black boot-black had blacked one of the black boot-black's boots in a manner that would make any boot-black proud, this boot-black who had agreed to black the black boot-black's boots, refused to black the other boot of the black boot-black, until the black boot-black who had consented to have the white boot-black black his boots, should add five cents to the amount the white boot-black had made blacking other men's boots. This the black boot-black, whose one boot had been blacked, refused to do, saying that it was good enough for a boot-black to have one boot blacked, and he didn't care whether the boot that the black boot-black had blacked was blacked or not. This made the black boot-black who had blacked the black boot-black's boot as angry as a boot-black often gets, and he tried to have the white boot-black black the blacked boot of the black boot-black. This roused the latent passions of the black boot-black, and he proceeded to boot the white boot-black with the boot which the white boot-black had blacked. A fight then followed. The white boot-black's boots then convulsed, and denounced the action of the white and black boot-black as one of the blackest in the pages of boot-black history.

AN OLD TREE.—At Montevail, in France, a property has recently been sold in the courtyard of which stands the famous "Montevail oak," which naturally is supposed to be more than two thousand years old. This noble tree is thus capable of measuring existence with the forest giants of Calaveras county, California. This oak, which is entirely hollow, has had its interior provided with some benches, upon which twelve persons can comfortably sit around a table, and an entrance door and two windows have been cut out of its sides. In order to ascertain its age, M. d'Orbigny cut out a piece of its entire thickness and boiled it in oil, which is an infallible mode of bringing forth the white lines produced by each year. By this method, in coming from the centre to the circumference, he was easily able to prove that the number of layers amounted to two thousand and some hundreds. This tree is of course a great natural curiosity, and every year numbers of visitors flock to the neighborhood to view so venerable a relic of the past, which was living and yielding shelter, as now, to the birds of the air, while centuries before the birth of Christ.

THE WORLD CHALLENGED TO PRODUCE ITS EQUAL! TAYLOR & CO., of Altoona, are fast gaining an enviable reputation as philanthropists by introducing among the ladies the AMERICAN CHAMPION WASHER the only Washing Machine in the market that washes perfectly on all kinds of clothing without the aid of a rubbing board. It washes without rubbing, rolling or beating the clothes in any way, and does not require any wearing of the fabric. It cleans the clothes from the finest lace to the heaviest bed-spread. It will do the same work in a shorter time and with less labor than any other machine made. Any person desiring a Washing Machine can have it on trial, and if not satisfied, it will be returned without cost to them. Messrs. TAYLOR & CO., American Champion Washer is in use at my hotel long enough to convince me that it is the best in the world. It does the work of the labor and time and does the work as well as I can do it here. We would not be without it for double the cost. P. H. BERRY, Cambria House, Ebensburg, March 25, 1872. Messrs.
