This father, who has a daughter given to late hours when a certain youth sits up and helps her to keep them, though he would try this Utica plan, so he wro'e in large letters, on the back of a huge por. trait of George Washington, this inscrip-

"10 O'CLOCK IS BALLIE'S BEDTIME."

Then he arranged the picture so that when he attached a string to the frame, he could reverse it from his bedchamber. But when Sallie entered the room an hour later, her aesthetec eye was outraged by observing the portrait of George slightly out of plamb, so to speak, and in adjusting it her father's little game was revealed in all its subtle ingenuity.

Sallie was not a Utica girl, however, so she just went to work and neatly effaced the figure "0," leaving the 1 standing solitary and upright-which you will observe made a few hours difference in her bedtime. That night, as usual, Sallie received a visit from her young man-whose first name was Henry-and her paternal parent attached his string to G. W.'s portrait, and retired to his downy couch.

About ten o'clock, while Henry and Sallie were deeply absorbed in some knotty problem, with the'r heads so contiguous that you couldn't put a piece of tissue paper between them, the Father of his country suddenly turned his face to the wall as if he was ashamed to gaze upon such do-

Henry, with a sudden start, glanced at

Then Henry looked at Sallie with an interrogation in his eye, which was partly dispelled by the fair maid marmoring, "Its all right."

Henry said of course it was all rightthat he had long knew one o'clock was her bedtime and he thought it was plenty late enough too for a young girl to be out of bed; but what business, he said, had George Washington's picture to be flopping about that way?

Then Sallie explained-and the twain resumed work on the problem, Henry putting his arm around Sallie to prevent her from falling off the chair.

Meanwhile the old man was listening for the front door to open and his would be son-in law's footsteps pattering over the pavement with the toes of his boots pointing from the house. These sounds not falling upon his ears, and thinking maybe the old thing didn't work right, he gave the string another pull, and George W. again faced the audience. Then he listened, but he heard no footsteps-nothing but a peculiar sound, something resembling the popping of champagne corks.

Then he grew cross and gave the string another jerk, causing G. W. to turn about with violent suddenness, just as if he was dreadfully out of humor.

And still it is all quiet below-except that popping sound.

Then the string was pulled again-and agam-and again-indicating that the old fellow was just ready to explode with rage. And for fully fifteen minutes did he have the portrait of the man who could not tell a lie turning excited flip flaps on the wall, like a bewitched gymnast, until he fell asleep exhausted-Sallie's father fell asleep, not the portrait.

Henry kissed Sallie good night at 1 o'clock A. M., remarking as he did so, that it would seem like a long weary year ere be could see her again-because, you know, he didn't expect to see her again until the evening of that day.

The next morning her father examined that portrait, and when he fully understood the situation, he was pained. He shed a silent tear, detached the string, sponged out the inscription, and walked away with the weight of fifty years on his shoulders—that being his age. He says a girl who will go back on her father in that way, would just as lief disgrace her parents by marrying a Congressman.

Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow. Grateful thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually de-stroyed and removed. Savs a distinguished physiol-ogist: There is scarcely an individual upon the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the leasily elements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased homors and slinay deposits that breed these living monsters of diseases. No system of Medicine, no vermitages, no anthelminities, will free the system from worms like these Bit-

There are always more or less obstructions of the liver, a weakness and irritable state of the stomach, and great torpor of the bowels, being clogged up with vitiated accumulations. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR J WALKEN'S VINEGAR BITTHES, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secret the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions

Their Ann-Bilinous properties stimulate the liver, in the secretion of bile, and its discharges through the biliary ducts, and are superior to all remedial agents, for the cure of Bilinus Fever, Fever and Ague, etc.

THE KILLING OF INFANTS BY CATS .in the Tribune of the 7th fastant, under the heading of "Telegraph Notes," I find the following, without a word of qualification: "A three months' old child of Mr. Herrick. of Portland, Me., lost sti life yesterday morning by a cat sucking its breath while As many persons are apt to accept statements for fact which they find in your paper. it is perhaps worth while to point out the extreme improbability of the above. I do not doubt the death of the child, or that the animal was present at the time; but that a cat "sucked its breath," or would or could do so, must be regarded as a piece of gross superstitious ignorance; as such it is hurtful, and ought not to pass unchallenged. Death is a serious matter, and therefore this subject must be treated seriously, otherwise it were easy to ridicale the assumption made, which I do not now meet with for the first time. Let me say, then, that sucking a child's breath, even if it were possible to do so. The breath of any anidisagreeable and poisonous, and we know of no creature with a liking for such air. Are we to suppose that the cat applied its lips closely to those of the child and exhausted the lungs of the latter by filling its own? If so, what next? The cat must breathe or die. If it breathes, the child will breathe also and live. But it may be said that the cat places its mouth in such proximity to that of the child as to intercept the pure air, and so 'suck' in that which the child required. This would involve the death of the cat first, for it is the smaller animal; and the child's mouth must be also in the proper position to intercept the pure air required by the cat. That the latter, either from malignity or affection, would voluntarily suffer sem - uffocation for a moment is of course absurd. In fact, the statement is absurd altogether, and it would require the clearest circumstantial description of the way in which the act was performed, and that by a disinterested observer, to entitle the assertion to the consideration here given. The true explanation of such cases is doubtless very simple. The cat lay upon the child's mouth, and so smothered it, or upon its stomach and chest, and by its weight, tired the respiratory muscles so that they gradually ceased to act, and the poor little infant to breathe. Let me say, in conclusion, that such accidents are frequently facilitated by the senseless way in which mothers and nurses place their children, deeply imbedded in soft clothes and pillows, depriving them, by so doing, of a full supply of the fresh and pure air, which is their very life. -New York Tribune.
