

THE CAMBRIA FREEMAN

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1872

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

THE GALLOWES

EXECUTION OF MICH'L MOORE

MOST DIGNIFIED MURDER AVENGED

Scenes and Incidents of the Execution.

Michael Moore, the convicted murderer of his lawful wife, was hanged to-day (Wednesday) in the yard of the jail at Cambria county, in this place. The weather was extremely mild for the season, the sun shining brightly during the entire day. Snow covered the earth, however, to the depth of two or three inches, but the atmosphere was warm enough to be refreshing to the press, strangers from neighboring counties, and other persons, and at an early hour this morning and up to the time of the execution a large number of people were present in great numbers. Few persons other than our own citizens to be seen about our town.

We are glad to note this fact, for the morbid curiosity which prompts many persons to flock to the scene of an execution, even though it may have been the most terrible deed, or even the most unjust of the gallows or its successor, is by no means a commendable one.

HISTORY OF THE MURDER.
On the morning of the first day of March last, a young farmer named John Shriver, residing in Summer Township, Cambria county, was engaged in hauling wood. When employed, a couple of dogs which accompanied him started a fox. Shriver pursued the animal, unhitched his team and put them into the stable, and arming himself with a gun, started in after him. The fox, which was very tame, followed him until he had arrived at the summit of a steep mountain about a half mile from Mineral Point on the Penna. Railroad. This pursuit of the fox was here abruptly ended, for in the midst of an impenetrable thicket of pine and hemlock a noise of horns and a man's voice were heard. Shriver, who had been hunting a fox, saw a man standing in the thicket, and a pool of blood, and a dead woman lying on the ground.

The man, who was dressed in a dark coat and hat, and who had a rifle in his hand, stepped forward and addressed Shriver in a friendly manner. He introduced himself as Michael Moore, and said that he was on his way to the mine, and that he had seen a fox which he had been hunting. He asked Shriver to accompany him to the mine, and Shriver, who was a stranger in the neighborhood, consented to do so.

As they proceeded, Moore, who was a man of about 40 years of age, and who was dressed in a dark coat and hat, and who had a rifle in his hand, stepped forward and addressed Shriver in a friendly manner. He introduced himself as Michael Moore, and said that he was on his way to the mine, and that he had seen a fox which he had been hunting. He asked Shriver to accompany him to the mine, and Shriver, who was a stranger in the neighborhood, consented to do so.

At precisely 12:15, p. m. Moore, attended by his spiritual adviser, left his cell and was escorted to the scaffold. He walked up on the platform with a firm, steady step, and with an air which seemed to bid defiance to death itself. Father Christy, who had been a constant visitor to his cell, ever since the night of the murder, stepped forward to give Moore a final blessing, and to offer up a prayer for the welfare of the unfortunate man's soul, and Moore responded audibly and devoutly to every utterance of his spiritual father.

At precisely 12:15, p. m. Moore, attended by his spiritual adviser, left his cell and was escorted to the scaffold. He walked up on the platform with a firm, steady step, and with an air which seemed to bid defiance to death itself. Father Christy, who had been a constant visitor to his cell, ever since the night of the murder, stepped forward to give Moore a final blessing, and to offer up a prayer for the welfare of the unfortunate man's soul, and Moore responded audibly and devoutly to every utterance of his spiritual father.

The fatal drop fell at precisely 12:25, p. m. Moore's neck was evidently broken by the fall, for he gave no sign of life after the descent of the trap. Lemmon and Bell, of Altoona, were present for the purpose of testifying to the full accomplishment of the deed, and all these united in saying that his pulse ceased to beat ten minutes after the drop had been given, and that he died at once. He was pronounced dead when the body was cut down and placed in the coffin ready to receive it. At 2 o'clock, p. m., all that was earthly of Michael Moore was conveyed to the Catholic cemetery, where his remains were laid to rest in a coffin of pine. The grave containing them being in the immediate vicinity of those containing the ashes of Houser and Bousler.

Besides the Sheriff's jury, there were about fifty persons present and witnessed the execution. The gentlemen comprising the jury were Messrs. Angus Durbin, John Buek, James Myers, John Ferguson, Jas. Perry, A. H. Fisk, F. H. Barker, G. J. Rorabough, Isaac Wike, John D. Thomas, Patrick Doran, and Wm. Tiley. The most good order prevailed, and not a sound of profanity was heard during the execution of the terrible drama. Sheriff Bonacker performed the duty which the law imposed upon him as became a humane, kind-hearted man and faithful officer, and in the manner in which all the details of the execution were conceived and carried out he deserves the utmost credit.

And thus had ended the earthly career of Michael Moore, who lived in defiance of God's law, but died a deeply repentant sinner. That he has found mercy in heaven, we hope if not the prayer of every feeling heart. May his sinful career and sad fate prove a warning to those who are now pursuing the path, that leads to a dishonored grave and an eternity of woe.

CONSUMPTION, ATTEND!—The treatment and cure of this dreadful scourge of the human race, is gradually becoming better understood. In times past, the weakening and debilitating system which was altogether pursued; now, since the introduction of that medicine of rare and singular virtue, known under the name of Dr. Key's "Cure for Consumption," the system is renewed, the pecant matter which is fastening upon the lungs is dissolved and carried out of the body, and the strength is brought up to the standard of health.

THE HORSE DISEASE—The prevailing disease among horses is based on the animals as the several names given it are spell and unspell, and it is not uncommonly found in the stables of our farmers. It is a disease which is not only dangerous to the horse, but also to the human race, as it is often communicated to man by the animal. It is a disease which is not only dangerous to the horse, but also to the human race, as it is often communicated to man by the animal. It is a disease which is not only dangerous to the horse, but also to the human race, as it is often communicated to man by the animal.

HUNGERS—Thought most of our young readers, if not too young, would probably prefer the kind of hugging originally practiced in the Garden of Eden, to the kind which is now practiced in the streets of our cities. It is a kind of hugging which is not only dangerous to the health, but also to the life of the individual. It is a kind of hugging which is not only dangerous to the health, but also to the life of the individual. It is a kind of hugging which is not only dangerous to the health, but also to the life of the individual.

DEAR READER—This is the only time you ever enjoyed the benefits of the "Cure for Consumption" in your life. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective.

THE PUREST AND SWEETEST COUGH SYRUP is HAZARD & CASWELL'S, made from the most fresh selected herbs, by CASWELL, HAZARD & CO., New York. It is absolutely pure and does not contain any opium or other poisonous ingredients. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective.

CAUTION—Every genuine box of Dr. McLANE'S PINK PILLS bears the signature of the proprietor, and is accompanied by a full and complete set of instructions. Be careful to get the genuine article, and do not be deceived by cheap imitations. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective.

ly, who partook of the general impression in regard to Moore's character. The twin lived together one year, which must have been a year of unbroken sorrow and grief to both of them. On the 29th of the month, the bright Sunday morning, left the scene of her childhood and brief wedded experience and was not again heard of by the acquaintances of her early days until this terrible tragedy brought her once prominently and mournfully to their notice, can be accepted as an evidence of such a state of affairs.

It appears that after she left her husband's house all trace of her was lost, or at least the evidence disclosed nothing as to her whereabouts until she eventually found her way to the city of Philadelphia, where she found employment in the house of a man named McFetridge as a housekeeper. Here she was known by the name of Lizzie Stevenson. She remained in the McFetridge family eleven years, or up to the latter part of January last, when she unexpectedly disappeared, and was not to be seen alive by the members of that family.

THE TRIAL.
The facts elicited in the case before our Court are of so recent development that they must yet be fresh in the memories of all our readers. Nevertheless, we will give a summary of the testimony:

During the latter part of last year, the Philadelphia, where she found employment in the house of a man named McFetridge as a housekeeper. Here she was known by the name of Lizzie Stevenson. She remained in the McFetridge family eleven years, or up to the latter part of January last, when she unexpectedly disappeared, and was not to be seen alive by the members of that family.

MOORE'S LAST NIGHT ON EARTH.
John Linton and John Cox, Esq., remained with Moore throughout Tuesday night. They went to his cell about 10 o'clock that night and remained until 7 this morning. Moore prayed fervently and almost constantly throughout the night, and sleep did not visit his eyelids until 6 o'clock, a. m., when he fell into a gentle doze, which continued for an hour or two. He said nothing as to his guilt or innocence, but expressed the hope that no harsh feelings against him should be harbored by any one.

THE FINAL SCENE.
The fatal drop fell at precisely 12:25, p. m. Moore's neck was evidently broken by the fall, for he gave no sign of life after the descent of the trap. Lemmon and Bell, of Altoona, were present for the purpose of testifying to the full accomplishment of the deed, and all these united in saying that his pulse ceased to beat ten minutes after the drop had been given, and that he died at once.

CONSUMPTION, ATTEND!—The treatment and cure of this dreadful scourge of the human race, is gradually becoming better understood. In times past, the weakening and debilitating system which was altogether pursued; now, since the introduction of that medicine of rare and singular virtue, known under the name of Dr. Key's "Cure for Consumption," the system is renewed, the pecant matter which is fastening upon the lungs is dissolved and carried out of the body, and the strength is brought up to the standard of health.

THE HORSE DISEASE—The prevailing disease among horses is based on the animals as the several names given it are spell and unspell, and it is not uncommonly found in the stables of our farmers. It is a disease which is not only dangerous to the horse, but also to the human race, as it is often communicated to man by the animal. It is a disease which is not only dangerous to the horse, but also to the human race, as it is often communicated to man by the animal.

HUNGERS—Thought most of our young readers, if not too young, would probably prefer the kind of hugging originally practiced in the Garden of Eden, to the kind which is now practiced in the streets of our cities. It is a kind of hugging which is not only dangerous to the health, but also to the life of the individual. It is a kind of hugging which is not only dangerous to the health, but also to the life of the individual.

DEAR READER—This is the only time you ever enjoyed the benefits of the "Cure for Consumption" in your life. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective.

THE PUREST AND SWEETEST COUGH SYRUP is HAZARD & CASWELL'S, made from the most fresh selected herbs, by CASWELL, HAZARD & CO., New York. It is absolutely pure and does not contain any opium or other poisonous ingredients. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective.

CAUTION—Every genuine box of Dr. McLANE'S PINK PILLS bears the signature of the proprietor, and is accompanied by a full and complete set of instructions. Be careful to get the genuine article, and do not be deceived by cheap imitations. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective.

THE MURDERED WOMAN.
The identity of the dead woman was unobtainable for some time, but during his journey to Philadelphia he happened to see for Mr. John J. Murphy, and landed at a P. R. R. trunk-check, stating that he called for a trunk belonging to him (the woman) then lying at Altoona. Mr. Murphy immediately handed the check to the proper authorities, who sent for the trunk and took it in charge. It was opened and found to contain a photograph of a woman, a memorandum of the marriage of Michael Moore and Ann E. Boyle, the name and number of the residence of the woman in Philadelphia, a lot of female wearing apparel, and a variety of other articles. It was soon made manifest that the woman was none other than Ann Boyle, the lawful wife of Michael Moore.

AN AFFECTING SCENE.
A young son of the doomed man, Thomas Boyle, and Michael Conner, a son of Bridget Conner, Moore's second wife, were in this place on Tuesday. The former is a bright, intelligent, manly looking little boy of about 7 years, well formed and well clad, and bears no resemblance whatever to his wretched father; the latter is a promising, well-mannered young man of about 20 years, who, they both say, was never seen by him and Ann sprang up an interdicted against the wishes of the Boyle family, who partook of the general impression in regard to Moore's character. The twin lived together one year, which must have been a year of unbroken sorrow and grief to both of them. On the 29th of the month, the bright Sunday morning, left the scene of her childhood and brief wedded experience and was not again heard of by the acquaintances of her early days until this terrible tragedy brought her once prominently and mournfully to their notice, can be accepted as an evidence of such a state of affairs.

It appears that after she left her husband's house all trace of her was lost, or at least the evidence disclosed nothing as to her whereabouts until she eventually found her way to the city of Philadelphia, where she found employment in the house of a man named McFetridge as a housekeeper. Here she was known by the name of Lizzie Stevenson. She remained in the McFetridge family eleven years, or up to the latter part of January last, when she unexpectedly disappeared, and was not to be seen alive by the members of that family.

MOORE'S LAST NIGHT ON EARTH.
John Linton and John Cox, Esq., remained with Moore throughout Tuesday night. They went to his cell about 10 o'clock that night and remained until 7 this morning. Moore prayed fervently and almost constantly throughout the night, and sleep did not visit his eyelids until 6 o'clock, a. m., when he fell into a gentle doze, which continued for an hour or two. He said nothing as to his guilt or innocence, but expressed the hope that no harsh feelings against him should be harbored by any one.

THE FINAL SCENE.
The fatal drop fell at precisely 12:25, p. m. Moore's neck was evidently broken by the fall, for he gave no sign of life after the descent of the trap. Lemmon and Bell, of Altoona, were present for the purpose of testifying to the full accomplishment of the deed, and all these united in saying that his pulse ceased to beat ten minutes after the drop had been given, and that he died at once.

his feelings overcame him and he wept bitter tears of remorse and heartfelt anguish. Lizzie indeed was the wretched man to part with his innocent offspring when the moment of separation came, as he seemed to feel that the last link that bound him to earth had been severed when his child was removed from his sight. These two were the only ones connected with Moore by intimate relationship who called to see him since his trial, and they returned to their home in Johnstown on Tuesday evening's train.

THE GALLOWES
was erected in the angle of the jail-yard formed by the eastern and northern sides of the wall. It was composed of two upright beams, each 16 feet in height, with a cross-beam of 6 feet. The platform was 12 feet wide, and 24 feet long, and was set on a foundation of 6 feet square. The ground, which was 24 feet square, was secured to the platform by several heavy iron hinges. The trap was held in place by an iron bolt half inch in diameter and inches long. To this bolt was attached a rod controlled by a lever, a mere touch of which removed the trap, and the drop fell. The drop was 20 inches long. The entire structure was of original design, and was erected by ex-Sheriff Myers as superintendent and Mr. Josue D. Parrish as constructor.

MOORE'S LAST NIGHT ON EARTH.
John Linton and John Cox, Esq., remained with Moore throughout Tuesday night. They went to his cell about 10 o'clock that night and remained until 7 this morning. Moore prayed fervently and almost constantly throughout the night, and sleep did not visit his eyelids until 6 o'clock, a. m., when he fell into a gentle doze, which continued for an hour or two. He said nothing as to his guilt or innocence, but expressed the hope that no harsh feelings against him should be harbored by any one.

THE FINAL SCENE.
The fatal drop fell at precisely 12:25, p. m. Moore's neck was evidently broken by the fall, for he gave no sign of life after the descent of the trap. Lemmon and Bell, of Altoona, were present for the purpose of testifying to the full accomplishment of the deed, and all these united in saying that his pulse ceased to beat ten minutes after the drop had been given, and that he died at once.

CONSUMPTION, ATTEND!—The treatment and cure of this dreadful scourge of the human race, is gradually becoming better understood. In times past, the weakening and debilitating system which was altogether pursued; now, since the introduction of that medicine of rare and singular virtue, known under the name of Dr. Key's "Cure for Consumption," the system is renewed, the pecant matter which is fastening upon the lungs is dissolved and carried out of the body, and the strength is brought up to the standard of health.

THE HORSE DISEASE—The prevailing disease among horses is based on the animals as the several names given it are spell and unspell, and it is not uncommonly found in the stables of our farmers. It is a disease which is not only dangerous to the horse, but also to the human race, as it is often communicated to man by the animal. It is a disease which is not only dangerous to the horse, but also to the human race, as it is often communicated to man by the animal.

HUNGERS—Thought most of our young readers, if not too young, would probably prefer the kind of hugging originally practiced in the Garden of Eden, to the kind which is now practiced in the streets of our cities. It is a kind of hugging which is not only dangerous to the health, but also to the life of the individual. It is a kind of hugging which is not only dangerous to the health, but also to the life of the individual.

DEAR READER—This is the only time you ever enjoyed the benefits of the "Cure for Consumption" in your life. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective.

THE PUREST AND SWEETEST COUGH SYRUP is HAZARD & CASWELL'S, made from the most fresh selected herbs, by CASWELL, HAZARD & CO., New York. It is absolutely pure and does not contain any opium or other poisonous ingredients. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective.

CAUTION—Every genuine box of Dr. McLANE'S PINK PILLS bears the signature of the proprietor, and is accompanied by a full and complete set of instructions. Be careful to get the genuine article, and do not be deceived by cheap imitations. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective. It is a medicine which is not only safe, but also effective.

THE MURDERED WOMAN.
The identity of the dead woman was unobtainable for some time, but during his journey to Philadelphia he happened to see for Mr. John J. Murphy, and landed at a P. R. R. trunk-check, stating that he called for a trunk belonging to him (the woman) then lying at Altoona. Mr. Murphy immediately handed the check to the proper authorities, who sent for the trunk and took it in charge. It was opened and found to contain a photograph of a woman, a memorandum of the marriage of Michael Moore and Ann E. Boyle, the name and number of the residence of the woman in Philadelphia, a lot of female wearing apparel, and a variety of other articles. It was soon made manifest that the woman was none other than Ann Boyle, the lawful wife of Michael Moore.

AN AFFECTING SCENE.
A young son of the doomed man, Thomas Boyle, and Michael Conner, a son of Bridget Conner, Moore's second wife, were in this place on Tuesday. The former is a bright, intelligent, manly looking little boy of about 7 years, well formed and well clad, and bears no resemblance whatever to his wretched father; the latter is a promising, well-mannered young man of about 20 years, who, they both say, was never seen by him and Ann sprang up an interdicted against the wishes of the Boyle family, who partook of the general impression in regard to Moore's character. The twin lived together one year, which must have been a year of unbroken sorrow and grief to both of them. On the 29th of the month, the bright Sunday morning, left the scene of her childhood and brief wedded experience and was not again heard of by the acquaintances of her early days until this terrible tragedy brought her once prominently and mournfully to their notice, can be accepted as an evidence of such a state of affairs.

It appears that after she left her husband's house all trace of her was lost, or at least the evidence disclosed nothing as to her whereabouts until she eventually found her way to the city of Philadelphia, where she found employment in the house of a man named McFetridge as a housekeeper. Here she was known by the name of Lizzie Stevenson. She remained in the McFetridge family eleven years, or up to the latter part of January last, when she unexpectedly disappeared, and was not to be seen alive by the members of that family.

MOORE'S LAST NIGHT ON EARTH.
John Linton and John Cox, Esq., remained with Moore throughout Tuesday night. They went to his cell about 10 o'clock that night and remained until 7 this morning. Moore prayed fervently and almost constantly throughout the night, and sleep did not visit his eyelids until 6 o'clock, a. m., when he fell into a gentle doze, which continued for an hour or two. He said nothing as to his guilt or innocence, but expressed the hope that no harsh feelings against him should be harbored by any one.

THE FINAL SCENE.
The fatal drop fell at precisely 12:25, p. m. Moore's neck was evidently broken by the fall, for he gave no sign of life after the descent of the trap. Lemmon and Bell, of Altoona, were present for the purpose of testifying to the full accomplishment of the deed, and all these united in saying that his pulse ceased to beat ten minutes after the drop had been given, and that he died at once.

CONSUMPTION, ATTEND!—The treatment and cure of this dreadful scourge of the human race, is gradually becoming better understood. In times past, the weakening and debilitating system which was altogether pursued; now, since the introduction of that medicine of rare and singular virtue, known under the name of Dr. Key's "Cure for Consumption," the system is renewed, the pecant matter which is fastening upon the lungs is dissolved and carried out of the body, and the strength is brought up to the standard of health.

THE HORSE DISEASE—The prevailing disease among horses is based on the animals as the several names given it are spell and unspell, and it is not uncommonly found in the stables of our farmers. It is a disease which is not only dangerous to the horse, but also to the human race, as it is often communicated to man by the animal. It is a disease which is not only dangerous to the horse, but also to the human race, as it is often communicated to man by the animal.

Local Correspondence.
JOHNSTOWN, Nov. 25, 1872.
Dear Freeman—There are some items of news here worthy of mention. Rev. Gary has been relieved from the charge of St. John's (Catholic) church, and Rev. Welsh, a young man of distinguished ability, has taken his place.

The new clock has at last been put up on the Lutheran church. The dial plates—four in all—each 24 inches in diameter, and as each of the weights weigh one thousand pounds. The fall of the pendulum weighs one hundred pounds. The clock will run seven days without being wound. The works are brass and zinc. We will now have lots of time.

Epizootic has made its appearance all around the city. This is a fatal fact. The horses are not dangerous to man, but they are not able to work and coal will be scarce for a while. The disease appears like a red hot iron.

Workmen are engaged in raising the spire of St. Joseph's (Catholic) church. This is the highest spire in the place. A cross is planted on top, near two hundred feet from the ground. We hope it will be completed before the stormy weather comes to blow down the scaffolding.

Frank W. Ray informs us that metal and castings of all kinds are in great demand, and orders for some articles are so numerous that he cannot fill them. Nevertheless, Frank still sells stoves of all kinds. He was fortunate to have a large order for a "Sentry" stove, and all your readers will deal with the Hardware men—Frank, George and John.

Camborough Union School has opened with three hundred pupils. We have had three divided into two schools and partially graded. Camborough has four schools and 1000 pupils. The school directors of those boroughs are doing matters up brown.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

Local Correspondence.
JOHNSTOWN, Nov. 25, 1872.
Dear Freeman—There are some items of news here worthy of mention. Rev. Gary has been relieved from the charge of St. John's (Catholic) church, and Rev. Welsh, a young man of distinguished ability, has taken his place.

The new clock has at last been put up on the Lutheran church. The dial plates—four in all—each 24 inches in diameter, and as each of the weights weigh one thousand pounds. The fall of the pendulum weighs one hundred pounds. The clock will run seven days without being wound. The works are brass and zinc. We will now have lots of time.

Epizootic has made its appearance all around the city. This is a fatal fact. The horses are not dangerous to man, but they are not able to work and coal will be scarce for a while. The disease appears like a red hot iron.

Workmen are engaged in raising the spire of St. Joseph's (Catholic) church. This is the highest spire in the place. A cross is planted on top, near two hundred feet from the ground. We hope it will be completed before the stormy weather comes to blow down the scaffolding.

Frank W. Ray informs us that metal and castings of all kinds are in great demand, and orders for some articles are so numerous that he cannot fill them. Nevertheless, Frank still sells stoves of all kinds. He was fortunate to have a large order for a "Sentry" stove, and all your readers will deal with the Hardware men—Frank, George and John.

Camborough Union School has opened with three hundred pupils. We have had three divided into two schools and partially graded. Camborough has four schools and 1000 pupils. The school directors of those boroughs are doing matters up brown.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

The new tannery of Rosenstiel & Co., in Wilmore, is a grand structure. The building will contain 280 vats, and leather will be tanned by the steam process. The machinery is of the best quality, and the building will be used as a grist mill and store house.

Local Correspondence.
JOHNSTOWN, Nov. 25, 1872.
Dear Freeman—There are some items of news here worthy of mention. Rev. Gary has been relieved from the charge of St. John's (Catholic) church, and Rev. Welsh, a young man of distinguished ability, has taken his place.

The new clock has at last been put up on the Lutheran church. The dial plates—four in all—each 24 inches in diameter, and as each of the weights weigh one thousand pounds. The fall of the pendulum weighs one hundred pounds. The clock will run seven days without being wound. The works are brass and zinc. We will now have lots of time.

Epizootic has made its appearance all around the city. This is a fatal fact. The horses are not dangerous to man, but they are not able to work and coal will be scarce for a while. The disease appears like a red hot iron.

Workmen are engaged in raising the spire of St. Joseph's (Catholic) church. This is the highest spire in the place. A cross is planted on top, near two hundred feet from the ground. We hope it will be completed before the stormy weather comes to blow down the scaffolding.

Frank W. Ray informs us that metal and castings of all kinds are in great demand,