

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

and Bishop at and near Home. A more's finest meat for sale by M. L. L.

Prime fresh oysters in cans at M. L. L.

A. Storm, Esq., of Allegheny town-ship is empowered to receive any monies due to the same.

Two clear deer recently returned from hunting in the wilds of that country. Daniel Dixon, a freeman, was very severely and dangerously injured in a collision at Kittanning Point, on Monday last. A. M. L. Otman's, a strictly cash, and goods at much lower prices than elsewhere in Ebensburg, as is as a commissioner's names of Allegheny county, has been found to be forging county bonds. Sentence was pronounced by a new trial.

The Huntingdon Journal: Judge is winning golden opinions throughout the State. His logical exposition of the laws, his attention directed to the Executive on Saturday week, of the real estate property of Geo. Weakland, of Carrolltown, advertised elsewhere. Marriages of young ladies should emulate in the Huntingdon Monitor contains more than twenty-six wedding announcements. This drinkwater is one of the shining of the Good Templar organization at Spring, Chester county. Don't forget after this that there is nothing in the Johnson postoffice was broken

Local Correspondence.

The Teachers' Institute held in this place was one of the most successful of the kind ever held in this county.

Owing to the fact that the roads, railroad and all, were blocked by the snow and that the weather was not at all propitious,

the number of teachers in attendance was somewhat less than at some previous meetings. The Institute, however, was in every sense of the word a success.

The principal features of the meeting were lectures, readings, discussions, and

and a spelling contest. By far the greater proportion of the work done was by our own teachers—a very commendable fact.

The other strangers who took part in the exercises were: Prof. Marshall, of Johnstown;

Dr. J. H. H. of Allegheny; and Mr. J. H. H.

of Allegheny. The "Vegetable Physiology,"

by Prof. Marshall, of the School Department, and Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Local Correspondence.

The Teachers' Institute held in this

place was one of the most successful

of the kind ever held in this county.

Owing to the fact that the roads, railroad

and all, were blocked by the snow and

that the weather was not at all propitious,

the number of teachers in attendance was

somewhat less than at some previous meetings. The Institute, however, was in every

sense of the word a success.

The principal features of the meeting were

lectures, readings, discussions, and

and a spelling contest. By far the greater

proportion of the work done was by our own teachers—a very commendable fact.

The other strangers who took part in the exercises were: Prof. Marshall, of Johnstown;

Dr. J. H. H. of Allegheny; and Mr. J. H. H.

of Allegheny. The "Vegetable Physiology,"

by Prof. Marshall, of the School Department,

and Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Local Correspondence.

The Teachers' Institute held in this

place was one of the most successful

of the kind ever held in this county.

Owing to the fact that the roads, railroad

and all, were blocked by the snow and

that the weather was not at all propitious,

the number of teachers in attendance was

somewhat less than at some previous meetings. The Institute, however, was in every

sense of the word a success.

The principal features of the meeting were

lectures, readings, discussions, and

and a spelling contest. By far the greater

proportion of the work done was by our own teachers—a very commendable fact.

The other strangers who took part in the exercises were: Prof. Marshall, of Johnstown;

Dr. J. H. H. of Allegheny; and Mr. J. H. H.

of Allegheny. The "Vegetable Physiology,"

by Prof. Marshall, of the School Department,

and Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Local Correspondence.

The Teachers' Institute held in this

place was one of the most successful

of the kind ever held in this county.

Owing to the fact that the roads, railroad

and all, were blocked by the snow and

that the weather was not at all propitious,

the number of teachers in attendance was

somewhat less than at some previous meetings. The Institute, however, was in every

sense of the word a success.

The principal features of the meeting were

lectures, readings, discussions, and

and a spelling contest. By far the greater

proportion of the work done was by our own teachers—a very commendable fact.

The other strangers who took part in the exercises were: Prof. Marshall, of Johnstown;

Dr. J. H. H. of Allegheny; and Mr. J. H. H.

of Allegheny. The "Vegetable Physiology,"

by Prof. Marshall, of the School Department,

and Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Local Correspondence.

The Teachers' Institute held in this

place was one of the most successful

of the kind ever held in this county.

Owing to the fact that the roads, railroad

and all, were blocked by the snow and

that the weather was not at all propitious,

the number of teachers in attendance was

somewhat less than at some previous meetings. The Institute, however, was in every

sense of the word a success.

The principal features of the meeting were

lectures, readings, discussions, and

and a spelling contest. By far the greater

proportion of the work done was by our own teachers—a very commendable fact.

The other strangers who took part in the exercises were: Prof. Marshall, of Johnstown;

Dr. J. H. H. of Allegheny; and Mr. J. H. H.

of Allegheny. The "Vegetable Physiology,"

by Prof. Marshall, of the School Department,

and Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Local Correspondence.

The Teachers' Institute held in this

place was one of the most successful

of the kind ever held in this county.

Owing to the fact that the roads, railroad

and all, were blocked by the snow and

that the weather was not at all propitious,

the number of teachers in attendance was

somewhat less than at some previous meetings. The Institute, however, was in every

sense of the word a success.

The principal features of the meeting were

lectures, readings, discussions, and

and a spelling contest. By far the greater

proportion of the work done was by our own teachers—a very commendable fact.

The other strangers who took part in the exercises were: Prof. Marshall, of Johnstown;

Dr. J. H. H. of Allegheny; and Mr. J. H. H.

of Allegheny. The "Vegetable Physiology,"

by Prof. Marshall, of the School Department,

and Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.

Henry Honck of the School Department, and

Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, of Pittsburgh, who

lectured on "Vegetable Physiology," Hon.