DEATH FROM SMOKING .- The New York correspondent to the Buffalo Courier reports a sad case of death resulting from smoking. He says that for thirty years the victim had been a heavy smoker of the choicest eigars, buc in all his other habits temperate and regular, and of excellent constitution-one who, of all men, would have laughed at the suggestion that tobacco was killing him. On Sunday he was tricken with progressive paralysis characteristic of nicotine, and on the next Sunday night he died. His death was most pitiful. First, sight was lost, then speech, then motion of the neck, then motion of the arms, and so on throughout the body, and he lay for a fortnight unable to move or made a sign, save a pitiful tongueless, inarticulate sound, which sometimes alnost rose to frantic effort, all in vain, to make known what he wished to say to his family or friends-for his consciousness and mental faculties were left unimpaired till within two hours of the last, to aggravate to the utmost the horror of his situationliving soul in a dead body. The sense of hearing was left unimpaired, so that he was conscious of all around him, while as incapable of communicating with them as if dead, save by a slight sign of assent or dissent to the question. The doctors were fully agreed that tobacco was the cause of
