PUMPKINVILLE, May 5, 1873. MR. EDITOR-The following essay was found among the papers of a late lamented member of the New York Farmers' Club. It is a paper far above the average of such productions, being remarkable for originality. The profundity of thought displayed in it is also something wonderful for this era of superficial thinking: A FEW HINTS FOR FARMERS.

Ladies and Gentlemen of the Farmers' Club: At the request of several gentlemen connected with this Club, I have prepared the following paper, containing some hints which I hope may be of great benefit if my suggestions are only acted upon. Farming is not so remunerative an occupation as it should be. One evidence among many of this fact is in the raising of corn. In the Spring, just after it comes up, the corn is sometimes almost totally destroyed by crows and blackbirds. Now, if the farmer would use a little forethought, this could be prevented by the following simple means: Procure a sufficient number of hand-glasses to cover all the hills you intend to plant. Put them on after the corn is planted and leave them there until the corn has grown sufficiently to be free from danger. The cheapness of the plan is a feature that will commend it to all, as the cost is merely nominal-not more than fifty cents per hand-glass. It is plainly evident that more than enough could be saved by their use to pay for them the first year. If used with care, they will last a great many Another prolific source of trouble to farmers is the raising of beans in sufficient quanpole beans, as no Christian farmer would use any other kind if he could get these without too much trouble and expense. As is well known, when planted among corn, as is now the usual custom, they are an almost intolerable nuisance when it comes to cutting off corn, and also in the husking of it. If not raised among the corn, the farmer has to go to work, with great expenditure of muscular strength and precious time, and cut poles in the woods. This method makes beans too expensive a luxury to be indulged in by the poorer class of farmers. By the subjoined nethod, however, beans can be raised in large quantities at a very small expense The plan I suggest, although original with me, has not been patented, as I have the wel-fare of the "dear people" too much at heart to selfishly monopolize any invention to my own personal aggrandizement. Firstly, then, ascertain how many hills of beans you intend to plant; then go to an iron foundry and get poles cast of iron. If your ground is rich and there is a prospect of your beans growing to an unusual length, get the rods cast ten feet long at least. If the ground is poor eight feet would perhaps be about the right length. They should be about two inches in diameter, and should be cast a little rough celerity. To prevent rust, the poles should be painted. Should there be any difficulty in getting the poles to stand upright, go to a stone-cutter and get him to prepare for you blocks of stone about two feet square and one drilled for them and tighten by pouring molten lead around the base of cach pole, when they will be sure to stand. As I have no foundry nor any interest in glass works, my disinterestedness cannot be called in question.

oot thick, with holes drilled in the centre.

Have suitable holes prepared where you intend planting and then put in your blocks.

Hoping that you will be gracious enough to publish the above, I sign myself The farmer's friend,

JONATHAN SQUASH.

CLEARFIELD TWP., May 5, 1873. MR. EDITOR-1 have taken up my pen to write to you on three or four different occasions, but have always laid it down without accomplishing the task. That I might as well have done so this time may or may not be true. Be that as it may, I wish to say that I have stood by and witnessed democrats deserting our party in this section, not only singly and in couples, but by the half dozen or more-not exactly leaving the party altogether, but refusing to vote any part of the ounty ticket, from Assembly down to Auditor, though cheerfully easting their ballots for Mr. Speer for Congress. The reason assigned for this wholesale backsliding may be given in a few words and in their own language, as nearly as I cannot recollect it: In the county convention of '71 we had but bare one nomination north of Ebensburg, and that for the petty office of Auditor, and in '72 only one, and that the small office of County Commissioner. These things, along with others, added to the fact that we are oppressed with undue taxation, which is driving men to desperation, is what is doing the business. I think something must soon be done, or we A HORRIBLE CRIME. - FOUR NEGROES | will surely go under. In the coming con-ASSAULT AND OUTRAGE A LITTLE CCL vention I would like to see a resolution ORED GIRL .- Between 8 and 9 o'clock, Sun- adopted which would rule out every aspirant for office who is not fully competent to fulfil to the letter the duties pertaining thereto; also, the passage of resolutions looking to economy in the public expenditures of the county as much as possible, the curtailing of expenses to the greatest extent practicable thus securing the reduction of taxes, and to moment they saw an individual running from nominate no man for the position of Auditor who will not pledge himself to render a full and fair account of the receipts and expenditures of the county, and not content himself with giving initials merely, such as O. D. P. and the like. The people want to know to a dot what becomes of their money, and initials only don't furnish that information.

My letter may already be too long, but I not refrain from saying in addition that the cry about heavy taxation is so loud in the northern part of the county at least that it must soon make itself heard in the councils some farms, or one-third of the grain raised thereon, would scarcely pay the taxes. And this not alone true of poor farms, but will apply with equal force to many reasonably good farms in the possession of competent farmers, Yours, &c., TAX-PAYER.

If you don't house and a frame barn-row in the occupance know these facts, call at Huntley's big house-furnishing depot, Ebensburg, and you will soon see "how it is yourself;" but if you do know them and don't act on the knowledge, we can only say that you are saw mill-now in the occupancy of Peter Mcstanding very much in your light, and the sooner you get out of it the better for your
