This news published to-day in relation to 2.755,426 4,732,111 the death of Captain Hall, of the Polaris expedition, the disappearence of that vessel 8,641,SE in a gale, and the drift of a portion of the 5165. SE crew on an ice field, is of the most startling 2,477,783 and romantic character. It appears that 0.047.674 Con the 15th of October, 1872, in latitude 11.494.543 seventy-seven degrees, thirty-five minutes, a pariy numbering some nineteen souls left the Polaris to put some provisions on an 3,444, 124 ice floe. A gale cama on; the Polaris parted 10,157,009 from her moorings, and the unfortunates, 3,249,982 to their dismay, saw the ship steaming 13,514,150 away, unable to give them the slightest as-11.041.654 sistance. The ice at the time had fortu-1.323.312 nately a southerly set, and the tide and wind drove the great iceberg, with its liv-3,527,404 ing cargo, down through Balfin's Bay and 393,191 3.621.319 Davis' Straits until, on the 30th of April of 512,333 the present year, after one hundred and

This is one of the most remarkable occurences recorded, even in the wonder-stored pages of Arctic history The parting from the ship, its loss to sight, 15,480,848 the subsequent long drift of ninetcen men 17,493,463 on a field of ice for one hundred and ninety-8,082,406 | six days, and the almost miraculous finding 358,984 of that icy life-raft by the Tigress, are events which have no parallel in this or any other age. The persons rescued by the Tigress are now safe. But all is dark as to the Polaris. She had lost her captain. By the chance recorded she was stripped of ninetcen of her men, and thus the working force reduced. Thus crippled she was last seen running before a furious gale into the wintry expanse which surrounds and hedges in the North Pole. Is she still afloat? Are her crew alive and well? Where is she now? These are questions to which no answer can be given. The men upon the ice floe were rescued in a strange manner. Will the same good fortune or providential 1.288.692 interposition follow the men of the Polaris? 4,515,666 | Tens of thousands of people in this country hope so, pray for such a consummation. But that matter must be determined in the future. In the meantime the public will ask, why persist in Arctic expeditions? What is to be gained by such attempts to 7,028,934 yearly loss of valuable lives, yearly tales of suffering, the latest of which is almost in-
