OH, WHY SHOULD THE SPIRIT OF MORTAL BE PROUD? Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud? Like a swift-flying meteor or fast-flying cloud; A flash of the lightning, a break of the wave— He passes from life to his rest in the grave!

could only drag themselves slowly along. Hand in hand they tottered on. At last Lizzie fancied she saw a house, and pointed towards the spot. But it took them more than a quarter of an hour before they reached the farm house, for such it proved to be.

LAME HETTY. A WORKINGMAN'S ROMANCE. BY AMY RANDOLPH. I am the foreman in a shirt and drawer factory. I am forty years old, and never was particularly handsome to look at.

"Well," retorted the old man, cautiously, "it's necessary to curtail the list a little, and it may as well be Lame Hetty as any one."

"SICK HIM, TIGE!" The Bowling Green (Ky.) Democrat, says: A few nights ago, a gentleman of this city, as he was going home at a somewhat late hour, heard, in the distance, sweet strains of music, or at least what he supposed to be music, but which proved to be principally "straining."

THE CHAINED HOST. The potato famine in Ireland was nowhere felt more severely than in that part of the country where the following story is told as a true tale. In a small village in one of the most barren districts of the west of Ireland, there lived a very poor widow whose sole inheritance from her husband were two healthy children, girls, of the respective ages of three and five.
