The New Game and Fish Law.

That our readers may be thoroughly posted on these points, and thus avoid making themselves liable to a prosecution through ignorance of the law, we publish the following summary of the late act defining the time and manner in which fish and game of various kinds may be taken within the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GAME.

No person shall pursue or kill any deer, save only from the first day of September to the first day of January, in any year.—The pursuit of deer with dogs is forbidden at all times. Trapping of deer, except for family use, is also forbidden. The penalty for the violation of the above law is a fine of $50. Any constable or town official may kill any dog that habitually pursues deer, and the owner thereof is liable to a penalty of $10 for each deer or fawn killed by such dog.

Gray, Black and Fox Squirrels may be killed only from the first day of July until the first day of January, in each year. The penalty for violation of this act is a fine of $5 for each squirrel killed out of season.

Rabbits may be killed from the first day of October until the first day of February, in any year. The penalty for killing out of season is $5, for each rabbit so killed. Hunting rabbits with a ferret is forbidden under a penalty of $10 for each rabbit so caught or killed.

Wild Turkeys may be killed from the first day of October until the first day of January of each year. The penalty for killing out of season is $25 for each Turkey so killed.

Woodcock may be killed from the first day of August until the first day of January of any year. Penalty of $10 for each Woodcock killed out of season.

Field Plover may be killed from the first day of August until the first day of January. Penalty of $10 for each Plover killed out of season.

No person shall kill, or expose for sale, or have in his or her possession after the same has been killed, any Quail or Virginia Partridge, except only from the first day of November until the first day of January of any year. The penalty for killing out of season is $10 for each Partridge so killed.

No person shall kill or trap or have in their possession after the same is killed, any Robin, Nighthawk, Sparrow, Lark, Swallow, Cat-bird, Blue-bird, or any other insectiverous bird, at any time, under a penalty of $5 for each bird so killed.

No person shall rob or destroy the nest or eggs of any wild bird, excepting such birds as are destructive of game and insectiverous birds, under a penalty of $10 for each offence.

No person shall, at any time or place, take any Wild Turkey, Partridge or Quail, or Woodcock by means of any blind, trap, net or any device whatever, under a penalty of $10 for every bird so taken. Provided, that nothing in this section shall prevent the trapping of game, for propagation or preservation over winter, from the 20th December to the first day of February next following.

Shooting on Sunday is forbidden under a penalty of $10.

FISH.

No corposation shall throw any culm or coal dirt into any of the waters of this State, under a penalty of $50 for each offence, in addition to liability for all damages inflicted.

No person shall at any time catch any speckled trout with any device, save only hook and line, or place any set-lines in waters inhabited by them, under a penalty for $25 for each offence.

It shall not be lawful for any person to place any set-net across any of the canals, creeks or rivulets of this State, under a penalty of $25 for each offence.

In any waters of this State inhabited by trout or bass, it shall not be lawful to catch fish with any net the meshes of which shall not be over three inches, under a penalty of $25.

Salmon or speckled trout may be caught from the first day of April until the fifteenth day of August of each year. Penalty for taking out of season, $10 for each fish.

Any person trespassing on any preserve or fish pond is liable to a penalty of $100 to the owner, in addition to damages.

Bass and Pike may be caught from the first day of June until the first day of March, with a hook and line. The penalty for taking out of season, or in any other manner than by hook and line, is $25 for each offence.

No person shall catch any trout, bass or other fish in any of the waters of this State, by shutting or drawing off any portion of said waters, or by drawing small nets or seines therein, when the water shall be partly or wholly drawn off, under a penalty of $25 for each offence.

In all cases where the shooting of game or catching of fish is prohibited in any county or counties for a fixed term of years, by special act, nothing in the above act shall be construed to alter or invalidate such special acts.

It shall be the duty of the Mayors and Burgesses of the cities and towns of this Commonwealth, to require their police and constabulary force, and it is hereby made their duty, and also the duty of the clerks of markets of said town and cities, to search out and arrest all persons violating any of the provisions of this act. Any person having a knowledge of the violation of any of these provisions may make information of the same, and one-half of the penalty shall go to the informer.

—It is an erroneous impression, which prevails to a great extent, that farmers have a right to shoot or injure dogs or other stock which may trespass on their property. The law will not uphold the man in shooting the dog or fowls of his neighbor simply because they are trespassing on his land; or, in other words, no one is allowed to take the execution of the law into his own hands. His legal remedy is in a claim for damages against the owner of the offending stock.

TO PURELY A VEGETABLE PREPARATION, I compound simply of well-known ROOTS, HERBS, and FRUITS, combined with other properties, which in their nature are Cathartic, Aperient, Nutritious, Diuretic, Alterative and Anti-bilious. The whole to possessed in a sufficient quantity of spirit from the SUGAR CANE to keep them in any climate, which imbues the one of the most desirable Tonics and Cathartics in the world. They are intended strictly as a

only to be used as a medicine, and always according to directions.

They are the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. They act upon a diseased liver, and stimulate to such a degree, that a healthy action is at once brought about. As a remedy to which Women are especially subject, it is surpassing every other stimulant. As a Spring and Summer Tonic, they have no equal. They are a mild and gentle Purgative as well as Tonic. They Purify the Blood. They are a splendid Appetizer. They make the weak strong. They purify and invigorate. They cure Dyspepsia, Constipation, and Headache. They act as a specific in all species of disorders which undermine the bodily strength and break down the animal spirits.

LYON'S KATHAIRON

Only 50 Cents per Bottle.

It promotes the GROWTH, PRESERVES the COLOR, and increases the Vigor and BEAUTY of the HAIR.

OVER THIRTY YEARS AGO LYON'S KATHAIRON FOR THE HAIR was first placed in the market by Professor E. Thomas Lyon, a graduate of Princeton College. The name is derived from the Greek "KATHRO," signifying to cleanse, purify, replenish, or restore. The favor it has received, and the popularity it has obtained, is unprecedented and incredible. It increases the GROWTH and BEAUTY of the HAIR. It is a delightful dressing. It eradicates dandruff. It prevents the Hair from turning gray. It keeps the head cool, and gives the hair a rich, soft, glossy appearance. It is the best HAIR DRESSING and BEAUTY as it was over a QUARTER of a CENTURY AGO, and is sold by all Druggists and Country Stores at only 50 Cents per Bottle.

TRIAL BY ORDEAL.—While at Mittun-Kote, seeing a crowd one day congregated round a well, I walked to the spot and was witness to the following trial by an ordeal, which we may term that of "water and the bow and arrow." The water in the well was eighteen feet deep, and in its center stood an upright pole. Two criminals were to be tried for theft, one of whom was already in the cell, clinging to the pole, with only his head above water. A little on one side, with his back to the criminal, stood an archer with bent bow and arrow on the string. On a given signal the arrow was shot away, and the culprit descended below the surface of the water. No sooner had the arrow reached the ground than a young man swift of foot left the bowman's side, and made towards it; on reaching the spot where it fell, another runner, equally fleet, snatched up the arrow and set off for the well. As he neared us at a winning pace, all eyes looked over the parapet into the well for the criminal's reappearance. His friends breathed short, while hope and fear depicted on every countenance. At last the runner reached the goal, and the next moment the head of the suspected person emerged from the water. A loud shout proclaimed his innocence and the crowd's satisfaction. The other criminal, an old man, now prepared to descend into the well, but before doing so a lock was shorn from his thin gray hairs, and fastened to the arrow as a charm to impede its flight. He was the reverse of confident, and his looks were certainly not in his favor. Prayers were offered and many fingers pointed to the heavens, while voices exclaimed. "Allah will clear the innocent." The trial was gone thro', and with the same happy result as before. These injured men were now placed upon the backs of two bystanders, and so mounted, were led through the crowd to receive its noisy congratulations. This over, their female relations came forward and contented themselves with imprinting a silent kiss upon the cheeks of the once suspected men, who had thus established their innocence in the opinion of their countrymen, and the sound state of their lungs in ours.—A Journey to the Oxus.

HOW MR. JOHN JACKSON CAUGHT A MESS OF BASS.—Mr. John Jackson was walking along the river bank one day, when he saw a piece of string attached to a peg stuck in the ground. He picked up the string, of which one end was in the water, and hauled in three fine bass, which by some means or other had strung themselves through the gills on the line. Jackson was so astonished by this circumstance that he did not know what to say, but he determined to take the fish home and show them. Before doing so, however, he looked about to see if anybody could give him an explanation of the affair, but he only saw a gentleman fishing some quarter of a mile off, and not wishing to interrupt him in his sport, picked up his prize and walked home with it. John Jackson had his fish for supper and pronounced them very fine, but to this day he cannot explain how three bass could possibly string themselves thro' the gills, tie themselves around a peg, and go back to the water again. The gentleman who had been fishing must have made just such another curious capture and have lost it, for he was heard later in the evening talking very loud, and asking somebody, profanely, what the something had become of it."

"Esq."—The present use of the distinction "Esquire" conveys not the remotest idea of its origin or appropriation in past ages. The esquire originated in chivalric times, when the sons of gentlemen, from the ages of seven years, were brought up in the castle of superior lords—which was an estimable advantage to the poorer nobility, who could hardly otherwise have given their children the accomplishments of their station. From seven to fourteen these boys were called pages or valets. They were instructed in the management of arms, in the art of horsemanship, in exercises of strength and activity, so as to fit them for the tournament and battle, and the milder glories of chivalrous gallantry. Long after the decline of chivalry the word esquire was used only in a limited sense, for the sons and peers of knights, or such as obtained the title by relation or some other means. Blackstone defines esquire to be all who bear offices of trust under the crown, and who are styled esquires by the king in their commissions and appointments; and being once honored by the king with the title of esquire they have a right to that distinction for life.

HOW THEY EVADE THE FIFTEENTH.—Exhibitors of every description, professors, showmen, &c., who hold forth at Vicksburg, Mississippi, have adopted a shrewd plan to circumvent constitutional amendments which call for no distinction in regard to "race, color or previous condition." In order to exclude colored citizens from admission to their exhibitions, these caterers to public edification and amusement have substituted "cards of invitation" for tickets. These "cards of invitation" solicit the company of the holder thereof to the entertainment, whatever it may be, lecture, theatre or circus, specifying the numbered seat, and also stating "that to defray expenses you are expected to pay one dollar," or whatever the price may be, and the invitation is not transferable. That looks as if the white man had beaten the colored brother, for surely a man cannot be compelled by law to invite to his entertainment any save those agreeable to him.

A YOUNG LADY on a railway train the other day was considerably vexed because a fruit vender coming through the cars came up to her and smiling blandly said: "Sweet, have any oranges?" She told her young man, who was sitting near her, that she thought that boy was rather familiar in calling her pet names. She became less indignant when the conductor explained that the innocent fruit-seller merely exclaimed. "Sweet Havana oranges."

WINK at her tenderly—
The girl over there!
Her walk "grecian beuderly,"
And purchased, her hair.

The Antarctic Regions.

A hundred times would not be the thousandth part of the folly that Maury ascribes to Antarctic heat. Assuredly we may say with much more significantly, that "violence to meteorological necessities" "is to say that they are," he proceeds, "the force and regularities of the winds" as that their presence there would be inconsistent with known laws. He believes, in fact, that the steady winds be partly formed as an indirect result volcanic fires. It is as well to remember when ideas so wild are uttered as Maury himself remarked, "we are particularly, but little more of the features of Antarctic regions than those of the planets." "If they be mental," as he proceeds, "we may, without any unwarrantable stretch of imagination, relieve the face of there with snow-clad mountains, versify the landscape with flowing noes;" but we must not forget that a work of imagination—not a theory can be insisted upon as though it sented a geographical fact.

While on this subject, however, not refrain from quoting a very passage from a letter by Capt. Ross, the Southern Cross, because, as relates in reality to the phenomena aurora australis, it presents a picture we might conceive to accord with ception of an Antarctic region with volcanoes, whose combined made the whole continent at times vast furnace. Apart from fanciful these, the description is full of

"About half-past one," he second of last September, the phenomena of the Aurora Australis ed itself in a most magnificent Our ship was off Cape Horn, in a gale, plunging furiously into a flooding her decks, and sometimes her whole bows beneath the waves were as black as death star was to be seen when the brilliant tacle first appeared. I cannot awful grandeur of the scene; the gradually changed from a murkiness till they became like livid ing a lurid, glowing brilliancy thing. The ocean appeared like vermilion, lashed into fury by the the waves, dashed furiously over and anon rushed to leeward torrents. Our whole ship— and all—seemed to partake of ruddy hues. They were as if by some terrible conflagration, together, the howling, shrieking noble ship plunging fearlessly crimson crested waves, the fall of hail, snow and sleet driving vessel and falling to leeward showers, the mysterious lights fire resting on our mast heads, etc., and above all the auroral the heavens, through which streaks with meteoric brilliancy, presented a scene of grandeur and ity surpassing the wildest dreams

The enormous icebergs which the Antarctic seas suggest inferclusions respecting regions explored. This will be understood remembered that all the largest icebergs have in reality had their vast glaciers. Vast masses of ice ed, indeed, in the open sea. In the seas which have been open during summer months (December, January, February,) are covered over with enormous thickness, and when storm turns the ice fields thus formed up, and the fragments, borne against other during storms, become the gigantic masses. But the aggregate thus formed, vast though they be, exceeded in magnitude by the ice

"Among the drifting masses of ice," says Tyndall, "water sometimes which spring from a totally different These are the icebergs of the They rise sometimes to an elevation dreds of feet above the water, height of ice submerged is many times that seen above. What is the gin?" He proceeds speaking of with in northern seas: "The bergiers. From the mountains in the the indurated snows slide into the and fill them with ice. The glacier formed, move, like the Swiss more santly downward. But the Antarctic reach the sea, and enter it, when its bottom into submarine cliffs, determined by the lapping of the waves unable to resist the strain imposed own weight, they break across, charge vast masses in the ocean, these run aground on the adjoining and often maintain themselves for Others escape, to be finally dissolved the warm waters of the ocean.—

A DISCOVERY ABOUT COINS.—A thinking and observant age necessarily discoveries are constantly being known, many of which, if true, are heard after, while others pass into treasury of established fact, when merit has been proven. We have met with the following paragraph in a change:

"An intelligent and reliable farmer has for many years been making experiments with corn, has discovered in distance and value in replanted corn. It quite novel and worthy of publication, have always thought replanted corn of no consequence; he replants when and needed or not—or rather he plants three weeks after crops are planted, every fifteenth row each way. If the weather becomes dry during the time, the silk and tassel does not appear. Thus, for want of pollen, the ear is unable to fill the office for which it was signed. The pollen from the replanted corn is then ready to supply the silk, and the filling is completed. He says that all the abortive ears, so common in the crop, are caused by the want of pollen, and that he has known ears to double in size in the second filling."
