THE SMALL BOY OF MERCED RIVER .-Where the road between Merced and Snelling crosses the Merced river, that stream is about two hundred yards in width, and even at this season of the year, when the water is quite low, it looks like a dangerous and deep stream to cross. Last Thursday a patent medicine agent, traveling on horse-back through that section, came to the river, and hesitated about attempting to ford it, as he saw the wide expanse of rushing waters. There is no bridge anywhere along there, so, after some indecision, he concluded to swim his horse across. Spying a small boy fishing in a small punt tied to the bank, he said :

"Hello, Bub !"

"Hello, yourself !"

"Can I get you to take my clothes across the river in your boat ?"

"I rekin you kin, if you've got any soap." "All right; I'll give you a quarter to take over my clothes and this carpet-sack to the opposite shore."

To this the boy nodded assent, the stranger disrobed, turned over the carpet-sack and habiliments to the juvenile, who paddled out into the stream, and mounted his horse preparatory to swimming the river and enjoying the luxury of a bath. With a plash at every movement the horse stepped into the stream, and walked acrossthe water was nowhere more than eighteen inches deep. To say that the medicine man, perched on the back of his horse, was a man of iniquity for the space of half an hour would hardly do justice to the occa-sion. There were enough "dams" along the water was nowhere more than eighteen sion. There were enough "dams" along the Merced that afternoon to supply a hundred mill-sites .- California Exchange.

A TRUE BILL, - "Some days since," says the Anoka (Minn.) Republican, "a well dressed couple, in the prime of life, stopped at a hotel in a neighboring town, and, sending for a justice of the peace, informed that functionary that they wished to be married. The justice said, "All right," + and inquired their names. After being told, it struck him he had performed the same service for the lady some years before. The other ilustrations are "The Robber of the Air," a spirited conflict between birds, by Deiker; "English Mastiffs," a group of three noble dogs, by Specht ; "A Masterpiece," a scene full of humor and life : a large view of the grand entrance to the Ratisbon Cathedral ; a very faithful and satisfactory portrait of the late Charles Temple Dix, the artist son of Governor John A. Dix, of New York, by H. Balling, and a sweet little scene of autumn, when "the ripened grain they took from the wain. We can say with truth that no art magazine ever gave its readers a dozen such superbillustrations in one number. The literary contents of the ADLINE for November are of superior quality and interest. Rev. E. E. Hale, the popular author, and editor of Old and New, contributes a historical sketch, entitled "Thanksgiving Days." Kate Putnam Osgood, sister of J. R. Osgood, the publisher, sends from France a sprightly story call-ed "My Neighbor." Elise Polko, a famous writer, has a sweet story entitled "On Drachenfels." The editor of THE ALDINE writes about "English Mastiffs," "Gems of Art," "A White Mountain Brook," and gives a sketch of the life of Charles Temple Dix. Chandos Fnlton, author of a recent book, has a charming article called "Sunset Scenes; and Max A. Muller writes of "Translations of American Books in Europe." The departments of music, art, and literature, and filled with carefully written articles on Philharmonic Societies, Progress of Photography, Longfellow, the Cary Sisters, Madame Schwartz and Thoreau. The other prose, articles are "Lake Mohonk," "The Robber of the Air," "A Master-piece," and "Ratisbon Cathedral." The poetry in this number is of unusual excellence, comprising a long poem by Mary E. Bradley, entitled "The Little Hero of Haarlem;" "The Painted Cup," by W. W. Bailey, and "Coming and Going," by Dr. S. T. Clark, the whole forming a collection of rare art gems, essays by our best writers, and sweet poems, not to be found in any other magazine in the world. Mrs. A. H. IN WOOD'S HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE for November, the table of contents seems spread for a Thanksgiving feast, and gives evidence that no efforts have been spared that could add to its excellence. "A Sermon on a Skimmer," is not only pleasing in its quaint-ness and originality, but contains sound logic. "Mrs. Pomeroy's Pin Money," is capital. "Upon the Stand" is another meritorious sketch, by the popular writer'sKate W. Hamilton. "Codfish and Potatoes," by Eleanor Kirk, is a short serial which opens well. "Growing Aged Together," by the Rev. Robert Collyer, is well worth the price of the year's subscription; it is full of this great
