THE FORTUNATE KISS.

In the great university of Upsula, in Sweden, lived a young student, a noble youth, with a great love for studies, but without means of pursuing them. Still he studied, living in great poverty, but keeping a cheerful heart, and trying to look at the future, which seemed so grim to him. His good humor and excellent qualities made him beloved by his comrades. One day he was standing in the source with some of them, prattling away a hour of leisure, when the attention of e young men became arrested by a young elegant lady, who, by the side of an older one, was slowly walking over the place. It was the daughter of the governor of Upsala, litting in the city, and the h dy was her governess. She was generally known for her goodness and gentleness of character, and looked or with admiation by all the students." As the young men stood gazing at her as she passed, like a graceful vision, one of them suddenly exclaimed:

"Well, it would be worth something to have a kiss from such lips."

The poor student, the hero of our story, y he looked on that pure, angelic face, exclaimed, as if by inspiration :

"Well, I think I could have it." "Why," cried his friends in chorus, are you crazy? Do you know her?" Not at all," he answered, "but I think she would kiss me if I asked her." -"What! in this place before all our

"Yes."

"Freely." "Yes, freely."

"Well, if she would give you a kiss in that manner, I will promise to give you a thousand dollars !" exclaimed one of the

"And I! and I!" exclaimed three or four others, for it imprened that several rich young men were in the group and the bets ran high on so improbable an event. The challenge was given and received in T.N. COPPER & SHEET-IRON less time than we take to tell it.

Our hero (my authority tells not whether he was plain or handsome; I have my peculiar reasons for believing that he was rather plain, but singularly good-looking at the same time) immediately walked up to the young lady and said:

"Mein freuiein, my fortune is in your

She looked at him with astonishment, but arrested her steps. He proceeded to state his name and condition, his aspirations, and related what had passed between him and his companions.

The young lady listened attentively, and at his ceasing to speak, she said blushing-

"If by so little a thing so much good be effected, it would be wicked in me to refuse your request," and publiely, in the open square, she kissed him.

Next day the young student was sent for by the Governor. He wanted to see the man who dared to seek a kiss from his claughter in that way, and whom she con- [00KING, PARLOR AND HEATING STOVES sented to kiss.

He received him with a scrutinizing low, but after an hour's conversation was so well pleased with him that he asked him to dine at his table during his studies at the university. Our young friend pursued his studies in such a manner that he was soon regarded as the most promising student at the uni-

Three years are passed since the first kiss, when the young man was allowed to give a second kiss to the daughter of the govern as his wife. He became later one of the most noted scholars in Sweden, and was much respected for his character. His works will endure while time lasts among the works of science; and from this happy union sprang a family well known in Sweden at WOOD and WILLOW WARE the present time, whose wealth and position in society are regarded as trifles in comparison with their goodness and love. An Apology .- The editor of a Western paper once gave notice of a ball, and happened incidentally to mention that the cancing of Major Heeler's better half was Tobacco and Cigars. like "the cavorting of a fly-bitten cow in a Paint, Varnish, Whitewash, Scrub, Horse, Shoe,

On learning that the lady was the one he had described, the editor besought her to raise her well. She did so, saying : "Now, sir, I expect you to apologize."

"Apologize! I should rather think I would," was the answer, as he seized his last and left the room.

Vigor and BEAUTVofthe HAIR.

OVER TRIETY YEARS AGO LYON'S KATHAIRON FOR THE HARM WAS FIRST PIRCE IN THE MARKET BY PROFESSOR E. Thomas Lyon, a graduate of Princeton College. The name is derived from the Greek "EATHRO" ignifying to cleanse, purify, requested, or retiers. The favor it has received, and the popularity it has obtained in market. The favor it has received, and the popularity it has obtained, is unprecedented and incredible. It increases the Growth and Brauty of the Mais. It is a delightful dressing. It eradicates dandruff. It prevents the Hair from turning gray. It keeps the head cool, and gives the hair a rich, soft, glossy appearance. It is the same in Quantity and Quality as it was over a Quantity of a Century Ado, and is sold by all Druggists and Country Stores at only 50

A STEAM JACKASS.

AN INGENIOUS INVENTION, AND ITS SUC-CESSFUL TRIAL.

A man living near Nashville, Washing-ton county, Iil., has recently invented an apparatus to take the place of whistles for railroad signals, steamboats, fire-alarms, factory calls and the like. He calls it the "Telephon," but the popular name is the "steam-jackass." The inventor is a stock farmer, and has devoted much of his time to raising mules, whose habits and anatomy he appears to have studied carefully. On his farm there was a mule of more than ordinary vocal power, whose voice could be heard a distance of four miles in every direction, when he once got warmed up to his work. The owner computed that if he could set in motion all the air in a circle of eight miles in diameter, or twenty-five miles in circumference, or an area of fifty square miles, or thirty-two thousand acres, a hundred horse-power jackass could, all other things being equal, rival any other noise yet discovered. He established the fact that the power of an ordinary ass is about one-twelfth of an indicated steampower. A steam engine of one thousand horse-power would be equal to the power of 12,000 ordinary asses. Wherefore, if one ass can fill a circle eight miles in diameter, 12,000 jackasses or a 1,000 horsepower jackass would fill a circle of 95,000 miles in diameter. The inventor thought all this over carefully, arrived at the deduction that if he could take nature's vocal apparatus and apply it to a greater power, he could produce a larger and more satisfactory volume of sound. Filled with this idea, he put the mule to death, and carefully sevcred the head from the body. He then injected solutions of chloride of zinc and arsenic into the veins and arteries of the head and neck, to prevent decay of the flesh. India-rubber was dissolved in sulphuric ether and the solution forced thro' the trachea or wind-pipe and through the larvnx or throat. The ether evaporated, leaving a film of rubber on the membranes, and the injection and evaporation were continued until the rubber film was found of sufficient thickness. These organs were then subjected to a vapor of sulphur, heated to 300 degrees, by which process the rubber was vulcanized, its elacticity in-creased, and the membranes rendered impervious to steam. These preparations completed, a short piece of rubber hose was attached to the windpipe and connected with a steam boiler. It was a moment of agony to the inventor, as he placed the ass-head in the hands of an assistant, and slowly pulled the valve open; a moment of thrilling interest. As the steam was turned on, it passed into the wind-pipe, expelling the air and producing a sigh, followed by a groan, a snort, a chuckling, then a violent coughing and sneezing. As a full head of steam was turned on, the most fearful noise, the turned on, the most fearful noise, the one box at 10 cents will cover as much surface most frightful guffaw, the most vociferous as 25 cents' worth of the old possess. bray that ever assailed mortal ears were produced. The lips contracted, disclosing a terrible array of teeth; the features developed a satanic grin; the jaws raised and fell, as the steam crowded the passages, and the ears participated in the general movement, giving to the head of the ass an animated and excited appearance. The man who was holding the head gazed upon cheeks, knocking knees and protruding tongue; then, suddenly losing all interest in the performance, he emigrated. As for the inventor, his success exceeded his stant he contemplated the head, his countenance working with every manifestation of intense delight; then he too started, probably to learn the greatest distance to which that voice would penetrate, leaving it still in operation, with all steam on. The head had now got fully warmed up to his work, and that bray went hunting through the universe. It was an acoustic earthquake; a sky-shake; it was a storm, a hurricane of sound, a tornado, a cyclone of noise; it was a donkey carnival, a jackass Fourth of July. It was the greatest success the world has ever known .- St.

Louis Globe.

LUGEND OF GAMERINUS .- The popular egend of Gambrinus is as follows: Gambrinns was a fiddler, who, being jilted by remembrance by Teutons. No sooner had to laugh at the discomfiture of his old men, says the legend, and so lived in peace. For thirty years he sat beneath the belfry chimes meditatively dranking beer, with his nobles and burghers around him. Then Beelzebub sent Jocko, one of his imps, with orders to bring Gambrinus before midnight. But Jocko was, like Swieveler's marchioness, ignorant of the taste of beer, never having drank of it, even in sleep, and did not awake until next day, at which he was so mortified that he had not the face to go back to hell at all. So ry or two, and drank so much beer that he turned into a beer barrel.

A CUP DANCE. - Charles G. Leland gives a description of the dancing of the Egyptian girls, in which he chronicles the performance of one young person, declaring it to be "quite a poem." He says: Placing a cup, symbolic of temptation, on the ground, she danced around it in a style which was perfectly Spanish, turning the body and sinking low with great grace and exquisite art. The cup appeared to exercise a terrible fascination and she seemed afraid to drain it. The fear was perfectly acted. Five times, without aid from her arms, she almost lay on the ground with her thirsty lips just dallying with the edge, and then rising swept in the dance, and thrilled and shivered, and turned, and sank again. The sixth time she had completed a circle, and, no longer able to resist, she approached the cup with throbs and pauses, and then without using her hand lifted it from the ground with LIGHT CASTINGS her lips alone, draining it as she rose, and the tragedy of temptation being over, mer-rily danced about the room in quick step, with her head thrown back holding the cup
