The Borowy's Election.

The Fight of the Radical Factions for Burgess Hon. A. A. Barker "Gone Where the Woodbine Twineth."

The election for borough officers in this place on last Tuesday was the most fierce We feel well convinced that the people of and bitter contest of the kind within the recellection of the "oldest inhabitant." On the Saturday evening previous, the radicals held a meeting in the Court House and nominated a full ticket which was said by cortain dissatisfied members of that party to represent the personal and political interests of Hon. A. A. Barker, who for years has exercised a controlling influence over the affairs of the borough. This ticket was headed with the name of Alvin Evans, Esq., a young lawyer and a gentleman of unimpeachable integrity, for the effice of Burgess.

It became apparent on Monday morning that the radical cauldron was about to boil. On that evening the democrats, who are in a minority of about sizty votes in the two wards, held a meeting and nominated a ticket comprising the names of those only whom they knew could be elected. The anti-Barker republicans subsequently procured the consent of one of their number, Mr. D. H. Kinkead, to stand as an independent candidate for Burgess against Mr. Evans, and also obtained the consent of other dissatisfied republicans to have their names submitted, for the offices left vacant and principally between two radicals, Kinreally a contest between the Darker and political expediency.
