Training of Unilaren.

A pity that so many children should be spoiled by lack of discipline! Naturally, children enjoy being good. They are never so happy as when they are obedient and amiable. We think, too, that nothing is easier than to have them so, and the harsh measures to which some people are quick to resort to that end, if they could see themselves with our eyes, would seem to them hamiliating exhibitions of their own weakness. Without self-control, the person who attempts to control a child is very likely to fail lamentably. Oddiy enough, the people who never in their lives possessed a particle of fitness for so delicate a task, are the very people who are possessed of a desire to show their mismanagement in places where it is sure to be seen. Materfamilias, weak and indulgent, cannot understand why her children should be voted a muisance at a hotel table, though Kittie, reaching for the butter, upsets Nellie's coffee cup. Children must be taught table etiquette-not by servants, but by yourself, madam. The nameless grace which belongs to a cultivated person cannot be learned from a servant or from a manual of etiquette. It comes by degrees. So, madam, if you are shocked when your little girl puts her knife into her mouth, and helps herself to herries with her own spoon, you need not be, if you have allowed her during several years to eat with Bridget at the nursery table. What else could you expect? Children are reproductions of the world around them; and if, to save yourself trouble, you let that world . be made of the ignorant and the repulsive, you reap what you have sown when you have a harvest of bad habits to uproot and destroy.

vicuus of rasmon.

We have too much faith in the common sense of the fair sex to believe that the majority of them lay health as a willing sacrifice at the shrine of fashion ; but a story is told of a lovely girl of eighteen, whose figure was inclined to plumpness, that she one day fainted in the street. "In trying to restore her," says a friend, "I loosened her dress, and what do you think I found? Corsets so tightly drawn that a full respiration was impossible. I removed them, and found that the girl's ribs actually lapped !! On being remonstrated with, the foolish child admitted that she tried to render her waist small enough to meet the requirements of fashion. Oh, what utter folly this all is ! As if there is anything really beautiful in a figure pinched to represent the letter V ! We are glad to know that the woman of the day is cultivating higher artistic taste, and isn't ashamed to have a waist proportionate to her shoulders. It is not considered graceful or fashionable now to wear tight dresses. We keep constantly on hand in great variety a fall line of elegant A few women cling to the false idea of a female model figure, and still prefer to go PARLOR AND CHAMBER SUITS, about ready to "break in two," with blue NSYLES AND AT PRICES TO SUIT ALL CUSTOMERS. noses, black rims around their eyes, crows' feet growing deeper and thicker every day and extremely red hands, unless they drink vinegar and eat chalk, starch and slate pencils to dry up their vulgar red blood. But the really stylish, graceful, glowing, beautiingly comfortable dresses with plenty of breathing room. So far, so good. We hope to welcome the day when the stiff corset will be wholly abandoned, and woman shall appear in all her alloring, untrameled grace of form.

Calumny.

The rules of politeness are never at variance with the principles of morality. Whatever is really impolite is really immoral. We have no right to offend people with our manners or conversation. influenced by gossip about the people we meet. Their private affairs are none of our company for us, then we must not invite him ; but if we should happen to meet him where he has been invited by others, we must treat him with civility. If we know a man or woman to be a grave offender, we must not think of using that knowledge to injure bim or her, unless we know GROCERIEES, FLOUR, FEED, GRAIN, GC., it is absolutely needful for the protection of others. The greatest and best men in the world have more or less been assailed with calamay. The purest and noblest do not always occane it. We cannot see do not always escape it. We cannot see High street, near Centre street, any way to investigate-as a rule we must disregard-all slanders. Where very great offences become notorious, the offenders must always be excommunicated. In all of the other cases we must give every one ble constructions, live and hope for the best, and consider every one innocent until he is proven guilty, as we would otherwise often find that we had spoken too hastily.

Clean Teeth.

If you will only keep your teeth clean they won't decay. The wonderful dentifrices which are sold at fabulous prices are greatly inferior to a simple mixture of soap and prepared chalk, with a little something like erris roof; but the essential articles are soap and chalk. The druggist will prepare you enough for a quarter of a dollar to last a loonets. Hats, etc., a specialty. Dressmaking promptly and neatly done. The patronage of the ladies is respectfully solicited. But the principal article for keeping the teeth clean is a toothpick-a soft goose quili-which you must use after eating, no matter though it is a piece of apple, and, if convenient, after the pick use a monthful of water to rinse from between the teeth what the toorlipick may have left.

Keep rendy money on kand if you ern. No matter if it is only a little sum. If it is only sufficient for the current expenses, it is a great convenience, & say the least. Any one who has tried and compared the credit with the cash system, will readily admit the correctness of the above remark. A CAT STORY .- The following cat story is told by a correspondent of Land and Wo ter: "I was calling at the house of a friend at Bredwardine, in Herefordshire, where I witnessed the most singular behavior of a favorite cat. I must first mention that my friend told me that they had wondered very much after their five o'clock tea, that the cream left in a small jug disappeared, without their being able to find out how. They suspected the eat, but did not know how she could do it, as the mouth of the jug was too small for her to lap it, and there were no marks of spilt milk on the tray. They determined to watch, and one day they disovered the clever manner in which the rob bery was accomplished. My friend said she would allow me to witness the performance.

though it was not a good plan to encourage the cat's theft. She placed a handkerchief AND ALL OTHER ARTICLES GENER. on the rug and put the cream jug on it, and called the cat to the spot, who sat down and commenced her operations in the most graceful manner imaginable, dipping her paw into the narrow mouth of the cream ju. She went on dipping her paw in this manner until the jug was empty, when she set to work to clean her paw and face tho roughly, and was evidently conversant with her genteel method of drinking cream."

- Everybody is kindly invited to read this written by some fellow who and a level head aut whose name, alas-but what's in a name? "No, not at all; pride must be fostered, if times are ever so hard; but I believe I can see a way to effect quite a saving in another direction-please stop my"-tea, coffee, and needless and unheal-thy luxuries? "No, no, no, not these, I can-not think of such a sacrifice; I must think of something else. Ah! I have it now. My paper costs me t-w-o dollars a year. I must save that. Please stop my paper! That will carry me through the panic easily. I believe in retrenchment and economy-especially in the matter of brains."

To DESTROY INSECTS. -Hot alum water s a recent suggestion as an insictitude. It will destroy red and bluck ants, cookroaches, spiders, chintz bugs and all the crawling pests that infest our houses. Take two pounds of alum and dissolve it in three or four quarts of boiling water ; let it stand on the fire until the alum disappears ; then apply it with a brush while nearly boiling hot to every joint and crevice in your closets, bedsteads, pantry shelves and the like. Brush the crevices in the floor of the skirting or mop boards if you suspect that they harbor vermin. If in whitewashing a ceilharbor vermin. If in whitewashing a ceil-ing plenty of alum is added to the lime it will also serve to keep insects at a distance. Cockroaches will flee the paint which has been washed in cool alum water. Sugar boxes and barrels can be freed from ants by drawing a white chalk mark just around the edge of the top of them. The mark must be unbroken or they will creep over it, but a continuous chalk line half an inch in width will set their depredations at naught.

-By a blunder, the game law of 1873 alowed the killing of squirrels after the 4th of July. This has been corrected by a sup-plement to the law approved 17th of April, 1874, and the squirrel law is now as follows : "No person shall kill, or expose for sale, or have unlawfully in his or her possession, after the same has been killed, any gray, black, or fox squirrel, between the 1st day of Junuary and 1st day of September, in each year, under a penalty of five dollars for each and every squirrel so killed or had in possession."
