NOTICE!

TO ALL HOM IT MAY CONCERN!

Owing to the great scarcity of money and the long contauted neglect of many of my customers to y up their indebtedness for the past year more, I am compelled to adopt doing business. Very many of my cusmers have allowed their accounts to run or such an unreasonable length of time hat a great loss to me, without any benefit o themselves, has been the result. Hence is that I find it #### impossible to Continue the Credit System and at the same time keep up my stock and meet my obligations promptly.

ANOTHER SYSTEM

I am sincerely thankful for the liberal atronage that has been extended to me, and now earnestly ask one and all who are indebted to me, no matter how large or how small the amount, to call and settle, either by eash or note, REFORE THE 1ST DAY OF JANUARY, 1875. as I need and must have money. Believing as I do from past experience (which I have paid well for) that it will be better for me as well as for my customers to adopt the ready-pay system, or in exchange for country produce, I will, after the above date.

KNOCK OFF ONE-HALF the PROFIT heretofore realized in this place on goods of the same class.

Hoping that my old customers will take to offense at the new mode of doing business I am about to adopt, but will continse to favor me with their patronage on a strictly cash basis, which they will be sure to find the very best for all concerned. I pledge myself to mark my goods down to the lowest cash rates.

serious sickness and suffering is prevented by their timely toe; and every family should have them on hand tong experience has proved them to be the saft, surest, and best of all the Pills with which he market abounds. By their occasional use, the blood is purified, the corruptions of the system expelled, obstructions removed, and the whole machinery of life restored to its healthy activity. Internal organs which become clogged and sluggish are cleansed by Ayer's Pills, and stimulated into action. Thus incipient disease is changed into health, the value of which change, when reckoned on the vast multitudes who enjoy when reckoned on the vast multitudes who enjoy it, can hardly be computed. Their sugar coating makes them pleasant to take, and preserves their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, so that they are ever fresh, and perfectly reliable. Although searching, they are mild, and operate without disturbance to the constitution, or diet, or occurred.

without disturbance to the constitution, or diet, or occupation.

Full directions are given on the wrapper to each box, how to use them as a Family Physic, and for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly care:

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listleanness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Billous Headuche, Sick Headache, Jaandice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Billious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstractions which diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhora, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gont, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints discussed. complaints disappear.

For Bropsy and Bropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression, a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympaths.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive annaratus.

The Sweetest Memory. There's an old picture on the wall, A sea-view from a master's hand, Which ever to me doth recall

Sweet memories of a far-off land I brought it with me o'er the sea Many, ave many a year ago, When I sought the land where liberty

Made e'en the poor man's heart aglow. With fortune's smiles I have been blest, I own my houses and my lands, I know that the wealth which is the best Is earned by labor's withing hands.

But among the dearest things I prize Is this old picture on the wall; It looks at me with loving eyes And tender grace o'erspreads it all.

It 'minds me of a time when we One summer evening rambled, where We saw the moonbeams kiss the sea, While the breath of clover filled the air. Toward the land of the lofty pine

We saw the great ships sailing away, And a hope grew in her breast and mine, A hope to reach that land some day. Fulfillment crowned our hope, and we Playe in that land lived many a year.

Our lives have passed most happily,

Our eyes have seldom felt a tear And now when we review the past And many memories recall, The sweetest memory 'round us cast Comes through that picture on the wall.

A WOMAN'S HEROISM

Bound home to New York from the Sandwich Islands, the ship Hampton, was bowling along through the Pacific Ocean, under a cloud of canvas.

The crimson rays of the rising sun had tinted the blue, rolling waves, when Bertha Winthrop, one of the passengers, came on

She was a lovely girl of eighteen, with hazel eyes, light-brown hair, a clear, white skin, and perfect features. Nothing could have been more charming than the contour of her well-formed head, balanced on a ne k as round and smooth as if sculpture 1 from marble, yet full of life and expression.

The supple grace of her whole form, from the sloping shoulders, the lithe, tlex ble waist, down to the small, well-shaped feet, was remarkable, perhaps partially due to her habits of exercise in the open air, not only in walking and riding, but also in swimming.

She had been to Honolpla, on a visit to some relatives, and was now returning home under the escort of her lover, Herbert Weldon, a handsome naval officer of twentythree, who had obtained leave of absence from the commander of his vessel, lying off Maui, Sandwich Islands.

Bertha was not at all demonstrative in manner. Some people said she was cold. Her calm self-possession never deserted her. She would look with still, clear eyes upon her lover, when he spoke to her she seldom blushed, or stood with drooping lashes be-

This at times wounded Herbert's vanity. He wondered if it was possible she did not care for him, after all. True, her voice had faltered, he had heard the beating of her heart and felt the trembling of her hand, when he won from her many months before, the confession that she loved him. But these signs of affection soon passed sway, and she seemed as calm at ever. There are some men who can not like such women; there are others who adore

Bertha was not long on deck when the young officer sought her side. The two conversed. Finally He bort said, "If we have good weather, we will reach New York in three months. Then, dear girl, I will make you my wife." "Yes, Herbert," she answered in a low, quiet voice.

"I think we are 'well matched,' as it is called," he went on-"don't you?" "Certainly," she replied, in the same quiet way, a slight smile on the pretty lips. "Mine for ever! My own to love, cherish. and protect! Oh, Bertha, you cannot imagine how eagerly I look forward to the happy time!"

"Oh, yes, I can understand all that!" she replied, calmly, raising her soft clear eyes, and looking him steadily, yet not boldly, in

A shadow crossed Herbert's brow. Could she love him, and yet be so calm?

"Bertha," he suddenly said, "I wish you would say something-act in some way to let me know that you think as much of me as I do of you!"

For an instant the girl flushed from brow to neck. Then she became pale. "Herbert," she said, quietly, "you must never doubt me." The young man was not satisfied. When Bertha left him, and went into the cabin. without having spoken again, he felt cha-

The sun had risen, but it was vailed by a nazy vapor. Masses of heavy black clouds were rushing along from the windward. The ship's captain was ordering sail to be taken in. Hither and thither about the decks went the active sailors, pulling and hauling on braces, sheets, and clewlines. Then up the rigging they darted to furl the topgallant sails, the fore and mizzen topsails, and to close-reef the main. While all hands were aloft the gale came shricking, howling and roaring on the

With her lee-rail scooping up the white waters, her shrouds whistling and bending to the gale, her masts swaying and creaking, her timbers groaning and humming, away she went, driving through the mad waters, vailed in a shroud of spray from bow to stern. Amidships, holding on to a pin on the main fife-rail, stood Herbert, watching the men who were furling the jib. Suddenly the ship made a mad plunge; a great torrent of water came sweeping, like a huge, moving wall, over the weatner-Ere the young officer could avoid it by running aft, it struck his form, washing him overboard like a shot. There was a slender, half-rotten rope hanging from the waist, attached to a rail. Herbert seized this as he went, with ready self-possession, twisting it around his waist. The wild mass of water swept over and past him; there he was, hanging by the end of the rope, about ten yards from the ship's side. Bertha, who had come on deck just as her lover was swept over the rail, now ran amidships, with pale cheeks and wild eyes, calling on the ship's officers to save the young man.

No boat could be lowered in such a gale. The officers ran to the rail, however, and commenced hauling on the rope, to which the imperiled one, half-hidden by the raging, foaming waters and the flying spray, was still clinging.

As they continued to haul, an ominous snapping sound was heard. The strands of the rotten rope were giving away!

"He must go!" cried the captain, despairingly. "No earthly power can save him now! The rope will part ere we get him alongside?"

officer drawn. When he was within five yards of it, the rope held him by only one of its strands! This, going round and round, must part in a few seconds. With clasped hands, and eyes gleaming large and bright, Bertha watched Herbert, her lips tightly compressed, as if by the power of her will alone she would prevent the rope from giving way.

The first mate stood reaching far out over the rail to be ready to seize Herbert the moment he should be drawn within his reach. The captain had taken a bowlinehitch on the end of the main topsail halliards, thus forming a noose, which he stood ready to throw if the strand should part ere Herbert was pulled to the ship.

To throw it now would probably be attended with fatal results. The noose would strike the other rope, and not slip down over the young man further than his neck, thus strangling him.

Nearer-still nearer! Bertha could now see her lover looking up from the white, foaming vortex, his eyes bright with the hope of being saved.

But not he alone; for Bertha, who, the moment she saw that the strand must part had quickly fastened the end of the maintopgallant halliards about he waist, had sprang bravely into the wild sea, and, striking bravely into the mad waves, as the turns of the rope which she had thrown off the pin slackened, she fast approached her

Reaching him, when he was about twenty yards astern, she threw her white arms about him, and held him firmly, while the

"You are a noble girl!" he answered: "and I now understand you. months later, he made her his wife.

A Chicago newspaper describes a dress which it took six mouths to make.

EARLY PRINTING IN AMERICA.

The Puritans evidently believed that a free press was necessary to the existence of a free people. Eighteen years after the landing on the bleak coasts of New England the Pilgrim Fathers established the first printing press on this side of the Atlantic in 1638, and at Cambridge in 1639 the first publication was made by Daye, and was entitled "The Freeman's Oath. Dave had been brought over by Joseph Glover, a rich nonconformist preacher, who also brought with him a stock of printing material. An old sea captain, one William Pierce, edited an almanac in the same year, and in the following the Revs. Weld and Eliot produced "The Psalms Newly Tuned Into Meter," which passed through seventy editions in one hundred and fourteen years, and was also reprinted in England and Scotland. Some other books of a religious nature were issued, and in 1641 a book called The Body of Liberty, containing one hundred colonial laws, appeared. Daye's work was full of typographical errors, but he was superseded by Samuel Green, mistakenly called the first printer in America, for we find that Daye obtained a grant for three hundred acres of land in Massachusett: for "being the first who set up printing."

Then comes the poems of Ann Bradstreet, wife of the Governor, and several other such purpose. smaller pious works.

WHEN THE PENNSYLVANIA OIL

SPRINGS WERE FIRST DISCOVERED. A full century ago the existence of oilsprings in Western Pennsylvania was a tremendous. It cracked and snapped, but published and well established fact. In the Massachusetts Magazine, published in 1789, we find the following in relation to blushes. them: "In the northern part of Pennsylvania there is a creek called Oil Creek. which empties into the Alleghany River. It issues from a spring on the top of which floats an oil, similar to that called Barba- for the church at - works bully. Give does tar, and from which one may gather several gallons a day. Furrowing out, ninety miles. Planting, forty-five miles, if with a planter; and if dropped and then sovered ninety miles. And for each plowing of two furrows in a row, ninety miles, of five plowings, 450 miles. Thus you will see, it takes about 800 or 900 miles of travel to raise twenty acres of corn, not counting going to and returning from the field. Besides there is replanting, thinning, rolling,

ALL ABOUT EGGS.

A writer in the Medical Journal, discours ing on dyspepsia says: We have seen dyspeptics who suffered untold torments with almost every kind of food. No liquid could be taken without suffering. Bread became a burning acid. Meat and milk were solid and liquid fires. We have seen these same sufferers trying to avoid food and drink, and even going to the enema spring for sustenance. And we have seen the torments pass away and their hunger relieved by living upon the white of eggs, which have been boiled in bubbling water for thirty minutes. At the end of a week, we have given the half volk n the egg with the white, and up on this det alone, without fluid of any kind, we have seen them begin to gain flesh and strength, and refreshing
