

THE CAMBRIA FREEMAN

EBENSBURG, PA., Friday Morning, - June 25, 1875.

Among the various gentlemen named for the position of State Treasurer, we know of none better calculated to fill the bill to perfection than J. H. Ross, Esq., of York county.

The West Chester Republican, edited by Major Moore, who holds an office in the Philadelphia Custom House, in speaking of the defeat of Butler B. Strang for State Treasurer by the late Lancaster Convention, says: "There were special reasons why the Governor did not wish him (Strang) to be upon the ticket, and that was one of the causes that led to his rejection by the convention."

Mr. JOHN A. LEWIS will be the Republican nominee in this Senatorial district for State Senator, and there is no use in disguise the fact; he is the strongest man in the party, if not in the district.

Do you call it "backing your friends" thus in advance of the election to acknowledge a defeat? The editor as usual is in favor of the ticket hereafter to be nominated, but with a proviso as broad and significant as the remarkable one recently adopted in another quarter.

The Democratic State Convention of Ohio, which met at Columbus on Wednesday last week, unanimously renominated William Allen for Governor, and placed on the ticket with him Samuel F. Cary for Lieutenant Governor.

When Grant was elected President, and for a long time afterwards, he had no more devoted and enthusiastic friend than Robert Bonner, of the New York Ledger.

A few years ago there was a man who had been educated in our West Point academy at the public expense. He had dropped out of the army and became a hawker of cord wood in the St. Louis market.

Later he was a clerk in a leather store in Chicago, very poor.

He was appointed a colonel in the army, and promoted and promoted and promoted, until he had the command of all our armies.

Finally, a rank and title never before conferred in this country were created especially for him. He was made the general of the United States army.

Who knows best, the Committee or the editor of the Voice and Echo?

The prohibitionists of Pennsylvania have met, nominated a ticket adopted a platform and adjourned with the announced determination to fight a vigorous campaign.

At a swimming match in the Delaware river on Monday, at Gloucester, James McCullison swam 800 yards in eight minutes, and won the prize—a gold watch.

The selection of Messrs. Bonaker, Linton and Haddon by the Democratic County Committee to act as Conferees to choose, in conjunction with Conferees from Blair county, a Senatorial Delegate to the State Convention, as well as to unite with like Conferees from Blair to nominate a candidate for State Senator in this district, was the triumph of the anti-Democratic faction.

While, as a general rule, we do not attach the slightest importance to any reflections which the Tribune may see fit to make upon the political integrity of a member of the Democratic party, there is one statement at least contained in the above article which requires a brief notice.

After the sermon the papal briefs were read, Archbishop Bayley, of Baltimore, and Bishop Wood having been in the meantime vested in full pontifical. Archbishop Wood then rose and took the place of Archbishop Bayley, in front of the altar, and pronounced the Episcopal benediction, with uncovered head.

James Frederick Wood, the new Archbishop of Philadelphia, was born in that city April 27, 1813. His father and mother were English and came to this country in 1802.

When Grant was elected President, and for a long time afterwards, he had no more devoted and enthusiastic friend than Robert Bonner, of the New York Ledger.

When Grant was elected President, and for a long time afterwards, he had no more devoted and enthusiastic friend than Robert Bonner, of the New York Ledger.

When Grant was elected President, and for a long time afterwards, he had no more devoted and enthusiastic friend than Robert Bonner, of the New York Ledger.

When Grant was elected President, and for a long time afterwards, he had no more devoted and enthusiastic friend than Robert Bonner, of the New York Ledger.

When Grant was elected President, and for a long time afterwards, he had no more devoted and enthusiastic friend than Robert Bonner, of the New York Ledger.

When Grant was elected President, and for a long time afterwards, he had no more devoted and enthusiastic friend than Robert Bonner, of the New York Ledger.

A New Archbishop.

INVESTIGATEUR OF ARCHBISHOP WOOD WITH THE PALLIUM.

PHILADELPHIA, June 17.—The ceremony of the investiture of Archbishop Wood and the conferring of the pallium took place in the cathedral in this city to-day. The building and the adjacent streets were thronged with people.

The procession passed up the main aisle and into the sanctuary. The choir then sang Haydn's Third Mass, during which the new Archbishop occupied the episcopal throne, Vice-General Carter and Walsh occupying seats on either side of him.

After the sermon the papal briefs were read, Archbishop Bayley, of Baltimore, and Bishop Wood having been in the meantime vested in full pontifical. Archbishop Wood then rose and took the place of Archbishop Bayley, in front of the altar, and pronounced the Episcopal benediction, with uncovered head.

James Frederick Wood, the new Archbishop of Philadelphia, was born in that city April 27, 1813. His father and mother were English and came to this country in 1802.

When Grant was elected President, and for a long time afterwards, he had no more devoted and enthusiastic friend than Robert Bonner, of the New York Ledger.

When Grant was elected President, and for a long time afterwards, he had no more devoted and enthusiastic friend than Robert Bonner, of the New York Ledger.

When Grant was elected President, and for a long time afterwards, he had no more devoted and enthusiastic friend than Robert Bonner, of the New York Ledger.

When Grant was elected President, and for a long time afterwards, he had no more devoted and enthusiastic friend than Robert Bonner, of the New York Ledger.

When Grant was elected President, and for a long time afterwards, he had no more devoted and enthusiastic friend than Robert Bonner, of the New York Ledger.

The Democratic Standard-Bearer in Ohio.

This distinguished gentleman, the present Governor of Ohio, was yesterday renominated by the Democratic convention of that State.

Mr. Allen was born in Edenton, North Carolina, in 1807. Having the misfortune to lose both his parents at an early age, he was reared by his maternal grandfather, and removed to Lynchburg, where he learned the business of a saddler and harness maker.

Mr. Allen advanced on the political road by one step. The newly elected Senator was elected in 1837, and on the 4th, which was the inauguration day of Martin Van Buren, he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Allen advanced on the political road by one step. The newly elected Senator was elected in 1837, and on the 4th, which was the inauguration day of Martin Van Buren, he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Allen advanced on the political road by one step. The newly elected Senator was elected in 1837, and on the 4th, which was the inauguration day of Martin Van Buren, he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Allen advanced on the political road by one step. The newly elected Senator was elected in 1837, and on the 4th, which was the inauguration day of Martin Van Buren, he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Allen advanced on the political road by one step. The newly elected Senator was elected in 1837, and on the 4th, which was the inauguration day of Martin Van Buren, he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Allen advanced on the political road by one step. The newly elected Senator was elected in 1837, and on the 4th, which was the inauguration day of Martin Van Buren, he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Allen advanced on the political road by one step. The newly elected Senator was elected in 1837, and on the 4th, which was the inauguration day of Martin Van Buren, he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Allen advanced on the political road by one step. The newly elected Senator was elected in 1837, and on the 4th, which was the inauguration day of Martin Van Buren, he took his seat in the Senate.

The BUNKER HILL CENTENNIAL.—The celebration of the centennial of Bunker Hill Boston on Thursday last was much grander event than any of its projectors ever dreamed of.

Soon afterwards the Richmond Knight Templars had a grand fraternal public reception from the Boston brotherhood.

A REMARKABLE INVENTION.—The Indianapolis Sentinel has the following: Much has been said and written about the great motor recently brought to light in the East, but Indianapolis can claim for one of her citizens the honor of inventing a revolutionary system of heating furnaces.

Another pilgrimage to France by Monday on a large scale has commenced. Seven pilgrims, including the Archbishops of Paris and Orleans, have arrived.

A POSITION IN THE BRITISH NAVY FOR CAPT. PAUL BOYTON.—A London letter to the Cincinnati Commercial says: I have been informed that the Duke of Devonshire has intimated a desire that the gallant Captain Boyton should be offered a position in the British Navy.

BRAVE, HONEST WORDS FOR THE DEMOCRACY.—Attempt to disguise it as we may, there is no concealment of the fact that there are in the Democratic ranks a set of men whose loyalty is more than suspected.

THE CENTENNIAL.—A reliable Philadelphia firm, with extensive European connections, is already in receipt of advices which lead to the belief that all Europe will be represented by at least 500,000 people.

There should be cheap bread for the poor this winter. The crop reports from England and the European continent are some more and more favorable as the season advances.

There should be cheap bread for the poor this winter. The crop reports from England and the European continent are some more and more favorable as the season advances.

News and Political Items.

A pigeon roost nine miles long and three miles wide has just been discovered at Preston, Minn.

The Catholic population of Pennsylvania has doubled since 1850. It is now 600,000. They have 622 churches, chapels, etc., and 541 priests.

A REMARKABLE INVENTION.—The Indianapolis Sentinel has the following: Much has been said and written about the great motor recently brought to light in the East, but Indianapolis can claim for one of her citizens the honor of inventing a revolutionary system of heating furnaces.

Another pilgrimage to France by Monday on a large scale has commenced. Seven pilgrims, including the Archbishops of Paris and Orleans, have arrived.

A POSITION IN THE BRITISH NAVY FOR CAPT. PAUL BOYTON.—A London letter to the Cincinnati Commercial says: I have been informed that the Duke of Devonshire has intimated a desire that the gallant Captain Boyton should be offered a position in the British Navy.

BRAVE, HONEST WORDS FOR THE DEMOCRACY.—Attempt to disguise it as we may, there is no concealment of the fact that there are in the Democratic ranks a set of men whose loyalty is more than suspected.

THE CENTENNIAL.—A reliable Philadelphia firm, with extensive European connections, is already in receipt of advices which lead to the belief that all Europe will be represented by at least 500,000 people.

There should be cheap bread for the poor this winter. The crop reports from England and the European continent are some more and more favorable as the season advances.

There should be cheap bread for the poor this winter. The crop reports from England and the European continent are some more and more favorable as the season advances.

The heavy storm of Friday caused some loss of life along the coast. A large number of boats were in salmon fishing near Port Larnach, which contained six young men.

Auditor General Temple, in answer to a course in the Pennsylvania State that he is now giving all his power to the sub-committee of the House committee of investigation.

The blood of Warren and Putnam is in the veins of many a boy fifteen years of age, who is in the high school. Two sons of Warren married; one daughter of Putnam survived the second daughter.

The big elephant Empress, at the Fairmount zoological garden, is down on her knees, and is supposed to be 125 years old and her present condition may be attributed to the infirmity of age.

Another pilgrimage to France by Monday on a large scale has commenced. Seven pilgrims, including the Archbishops of Paris and Orleans, have arrived.

A POSITION IN THE BRITISH NAVY FOR CAPT. PAUL BOYTON.—A London letter to the Cincinnati Commercial says: I have been informed that the Duke of Devonshire has intimated a desire that the gallant Captain Boyton should be offered a position in the British Navy.

BRAVE, HONEST WORDS FOR THE DEMOCRACY.—Attempt to disguise it as we may, there is no concealment of the fact that there are in the Democratic ranks a set of men whose loyalty is more than suspected.

THE CENTENNIAL.—A reliable Philadelphia firm, with extensive European connections, is already in receipt of advices which lead to the belief that all Europe will be represented by at least 500,000 people.

There should be cheap bread for the poor this winter. The crop reports from England and the European continent are some more and more favorable as the season advances.

There should be cheap bread for the poor this winter. The crop reports from England and the European continent are some more and more favorable as the season advances.