True bills of indictment have been found by the Grand Jury of Washington against both of the offence above stated. Negley may be entirely innocent of any complicity in the fraud, but even if he is, the matter wears a very ugly look in any aspect. Philadelphia Did It.

It is not credible, says the Philadelphia Sunday Mercury, that the omission of Judge Pershing to take the "stump" in the late canvass and plead his own cause before the people, really contributed to his defeat. Even the suggestion is discreditable to the voters of Pennsylvania. Indeed, the rethese members of the radical party for turns show that the people of the state, outside of this county, gave him a very considerable majority. But Philadelphia defeated him, if by bonest ballots he is really detreasury on a claim of one Julius here in favor of pure government would not have averted the result had be made them. A number of Trade and Industrial Associations, which require large amounts of space, will be provided for in special buildngs. Among these are the photographers, the carriage builders, the glass makers, the cracker bakers, the boot and shoe manufacturers, beside quite a number of individual exhibitors. The great demands for space will probably render this course cessary to a considerable extent, especially for exhibitors who have been tardy in making their applications. In the Main Exhibition Building, for example, 333,300 square feet of space had been applied for by the beginning of October by American exhibitors only; whereas, the aggregate space which it has been possible to reserve for the United States Department, is only 160,000 square feet, about one-third of which will be consumed by passage ways.

The Machinery Building, like the others, is already fully covered by applications. There are about 1000 American exhibitors in this department, 150 English, and 150 from other European countries-which is about 250 more than entered the Vienna Machinery Exhibition. Extra provision is being made for annexes to accommodate mers, forges, hoisting engines, boilers, plumbers, carpenters, etc.

Power in the Machinery Hall will be chiefly supplied by a pair of mouster Corliss Engines. Each cylinder is 40 inches in diameter, with a stroke of ten feet; the fly-wheel is 31 feet in diameter, and weighs 55 tons; the horse-power is 1400; and the number of boilers is 20. This engine drives

For the Art Exhibition, the most eminent American artists are understood to be at work, and it may be confidently stated that, especially in the department of laudscape painting, the United States will present a finer display than the public bas been led to expect. Quite aside from the contributions of American artists, applications from abroad call for more than four proof buildings, though all exhibiting nations will be represented in the central Art Gallery.

The Secretary of the Navy has arranged that a United States war vessel call pext Spring, at convenient European ports, to collect and transport hither to the Exhibition the works of American artists resident in Europe. Among the ports thus far designated, are Southampton for England, Havre for France, Bremen for Germany, and Leghorn for Italy, to which, if desirable, others may be added. The School Question.

Now that the election is over and the returns counted, the Screnton Republican thinks the "school question" can be honestly and fairly discussed without subjection to the "charge of being actuaced by par-"tisan feeling." In order to illustrate the extreme moderation and fairnesss with which it can approach such a question the Republican exclaims: "No one but a fool would attempt to deny, in the face of "the priesthood are the open and avowed enemies of the freeschool system." "What "they want are schools under the control of "the appointed clergy of their church, and "they want such schools supported out of "the taxes levied for school purposes." The Republican then proceeds to reiterate the stupid charge that the democratic party is in alliance with the Catholic church for the overthrow of the common school system.

At the peril of being set down among the "fools" by this republican newspaper, we emphatically deny that any considerable proportion of the Catholic clergy of this country demand a division of the school fund in this or any other state. Now and then an irresponsible writer, an indiscreet priest, or over-zealous acolyte, gives expression to sentiments on the subject of the schools which are carefully treasured and repeated by Know Nothing organs with the view of giving a sectarian turn to political controversy. But the great body of the Catholic church can be made responsible for these utterances with no more instice than the republican party can be held to account for the sectarian bigotry and rancor of the Scranton Republican or the Harrisburg Telegraph. Even if the prelacy of the Catholic church cherish the hostility to the school system with which they are charged, they are far too astate to provoke in any state of the Union a conflict over a division of the school fund.

The history of the common schools of Pennsylvania affords the most effective answer to the noisy clamor that has been having been asked how bets should be deanswer to the noisy clamor that has been raised on this subject. Since the establishment of the system it has, for the most of the time, been under the fostering care of the democratic party, which is now stupidly charged with being in alliance with the Catholic church for its overthrow. During all this time has any attempt been made in Pennsylvania to separate the school fund? Is there the slightest evidence of the ex. istence of that conspiracy which disturbs the dreams of ignorant bigots? The new constitution, ratified by the people in 1873, made by the United States Government, contains the provision that "no money "raised for the support of the public schools "of the commonwealth shall be appropria-Navy, Interior, Post Office, and Agricultu- neither open nor covert opposition to a power of the legislature to make any diver-The Women's Centennial Executive sion of the public taxes for sectarian fund why did they not make a stand on before the people for ratification it received The list of special buildings is constantly the hearty support of the great body of the Catholic citizens, who helped to swell the triumphant majority of one hundred and fifty thousand in its favor. How comes it that they did not rally under the lead of which placed the school fund beyond the reach of a temporary majority in the legislature and put an effectual bar against any future attempt to raise a controversy over this subject?

Here was an opportunity that should not have been neglected, were the Catholics possessed of that deep hostility to the school system with which they are charged. it is a matter of history that the new constitution encountered the bitter, persistent and unscrupulous opposition of the republican leaders on account of its thorough and unsparing reforms. Nothing would have been easier than for the Catholies to have formed an alliance with these republican managers for the defeat of the new constitution. The alliance would have been most heartily welcomed in the utter desperation of these enemies of constitutual reform. The Catholies could have brought to the common stock the enmity to the common schools with which they are charged, and the republican ring their hostility to the legislative and other reforms of the constitution which they did not affect to conceal. But instead of entering into an alliance with the republican ring leaders nine-tenths of the Catholics of the state voted for a constitution which placed the school fund forever beyond sectarian interference. Had the Catholic citizens of Pennsylvania directed half the energy against the new constitution which was shown by its organized republican enemies its ratification would have been seriously endangered. If it be true that this provision of the constitution was obnoxious to them, as is charged by their enemies, they proved by supporting it that they preferred the political welfare of the commonwealth to their supposed sectarian interests. They could not be tempted into this alliance with the republican ring for its rejection.

Yet in the face of this, the miserable partisan cry is raised that the common school system is in dauger from the Catholies, in order to awaken sectarian jealousies and hates. Any pretext, however, will serve in this religious crusade. In Maryland the nomination by the democrats of a Catholic descendant of Charles Carroll of Carrollion, brought out of their political graves the Know Nothings and Plug Uglies of twenty years ago, who rushed to the ballot-box waving the banner of "No Popery." In Ohio the Ghegan act, which conferred on convicts in penitentiaries and jails the poor privilege of choosing their own ghostly comforters, formed the ground for another sectarian warfare. In New York and Pennsylvania, whose common school funds are placed under the protection of the state constitutions, the cry is raised that the schools are in danger of overthrow. This foolish and wicked clamor no doubt cost the democratic party several thousand votes in each of these states. But it finds a welcome only in the breasts of the ignorant and bigoted, who are always the easy prey of unscrupulous demagognes. It has always been the fate of pure democracy, in all ages, to encounter the assaults of fanaticism, bigotry and superstition-Harrisburg Patriot.

political affairs. "No one need be surprised," the correspondent says, "at the President's displaying an unusual amount of emotion on the subject of the Catholic Church," since Morton is cramming on the subject and will duly prime him, so that the possibility of war, will urge the recognition of the belligerent rights of the only shrewd guesses of a man on the ground, except as to the Indiana Senator and his pious researches in quest of a new and available issue upon which to conduct
