THE Radical organs are in great tribulation because the Democratic party is going to destroy itself by repealing the resumption clause of the act of 1875. That they are entirely sincere in their expressions of grief cannot of course be doubted, though it does seem entirely unaccountable that they should manifest such a deep interest in the welfare of the Democratic party.

THE Johnstown Democrat is right about the willingness manifested by the Republicans of this county to sell out all the other candidates on their ticket in order to secure the election of Tom Davis for Sheriff, and it therefore behooves the Democrats to keep a sharp eve on them and see that this little game is nipped in the bud whereever attempted. Every man on the Democratic ticket can and must be elected, and there is certainly less excuse for trading at this time than there probably ever was before. Beware, therefore, of the traders and their little

A SPECIAL DISPATCH from Pottsville to the Phila. Times, under date of July 24th, says that one of the Mollies imprisoned there made a confession to the authorities on Saturday. It is supposed that Michael Lawler is the "squeeler," and that he has given a full and detailed account of the bargain made last fall by which the entire Mollie vote of Schuylkill and Carbon counties were secured for Governor Hartranft. Lawler and Kehoe were the ambassadors of the Mollies to Harrisburg, and if Lawler has told all he knows about it there will be a story revealed which will make every decent citizen of this Commonwealth blush

How much reliance can be placed on the average statements made in the Radical press about prominent Liberal Republicans declaring themselves in favor of the election of Hayes and Wheeler, may be inferred from the fact that the N. Y. Tribune classes ex-Gov. Curtin among the friends of the Republican candidates, while the truth is, as the Beliefonte Watchman declares and has a right to know, being printed at the home of Mr. Curtin, that the voice of that eloquent and able gentleman will ere long be heard at various points in the State of Indiana ou behalf of the Democratic standardbearers, Tilden and Hendricks, and in favor of an honest administration and a thorough reform in all departments of the government.

IT is noted as a significant fact, and one worthy of special attention at this time, that in the political history of the country it has never been known to fail that the party which has had the good fortune to secure a majority in the national House of Representatives two years preceding a Presidential election, has invariably elected its candidate for President. That there will be no exception to this rule in the present contest we feel perfectly safe in concluding, as the Democratic majurity in the House has fully merited the confidence of the country by investigating the corruptions and iniquities of administration, by exposing and impeaching dishonest officials, and by reducing the public expenditures to the enormous amount of nearly $40,-000,000 in one year.

A SPECIAL telegram to the New York World declares that the question of the impeachment of Secretary Robeson will certainly be brought before the House of Representatives this week. > ceedingly cruel to say the least: In August, 1866, a political convention, formally entitled the National Union, but familiarly known as the "arm-in-arm" vention, was held in Philadelphia. Those were the early days of the reconstruction troubles, when the constitutional amendments were still a subject of agitation and when the breach between President Johnson and his party had not yet become an impassable guif. It was stated in the call for this convention that "the war having coased, war measures should also cease, and should be followed by measures of peaceful admin-istration," In fact, its ostensible purpose was reunion and harmony, which were typi-fied by the delegates from Massachusetts and South Carolina entering the hall arm in arm, and by the choice of officers, when the nomination of General John A. Dix, of New York, was seconded, with a greeting of loud cheers, by the Confederate General Dick Taylor. General Dix made a speech on the occasion, the tenor of which is expressed in this declaration of the convention:

The people of the late rebellious States having surrendered to the national authority, and having shown a readiness to return spirit and in truth to the principles of government put forth by our common fathers, it is our duty as brothers of one national family to forget the past, and strive by true emulation to perpetuate the principles of American civilization.

Upon the heads of these charged with the execution of the laws rests the responsibility for this collision. If it is true that morning of the 18th inst., and then went to Governor Scott placed these arms and this ammunition in the hauds of these ignorant people, it was a crime against them and lain in the light of his experience upon that girl to get into the bucket, and before long subject. It was a cruel and inexcusable wrong, an unpardonable sin against the peace of the country and the lives of the people that he should have allowed these guns and ammunition to remain in their hands. The jurisdiction and powers of a Trial Justice are large and the responsibility proportionally increased, at an importent point on our border, like Hamburg ; and a man of the greatest discretion, fidelity and firmness, could and should have been procured to fill the office; but instead of that, this man, Prince Rivers, wholly unfit and thinking to save the life of her offfor so important a station, is the only acting Trial Justice in Hamburg, and I believe the next nearest in Aiken county is about twelve miles distant. Now, if there the bucket and get back into it himself as Times has been prompted to give him would have given Mr. Robert Butler justice following reminder, which is exhe appealed to him to protect members of his family against this so-called militia, "this horror" would never have been chronicled. Why did this Attorney General and these "swift denouncing" newspapers not put themselves to some trouble to ascertain the provocations on both sides? Dr. Crane at once tore her clothing loose and revealed the fact that the flesh had commenced to turn black. She was entire ly unconscious and was at once pronounced beyond all human aid. The snake had sunk his fangs deep into the calf of her leg in two places, and one of them was found hanging to her stocking. The doctor admistred such remedies as are used in such cases, but the unfortunate young woman died in a few minutes after the arrival of her father and party. Her limbs swelled so that the one bitten by the snake burst the skin. She died in the most intense agony. One of the little girls, Laura Webb, says that when the snake struck Miss Goodloe they were near the top of the ridge, and were about to start home, having their pails filled with berries. Miss Goodloe threw herself on the ground shricking, and the little girl saw the snake still hanging to her leg. She ran up and seized it by the tail, jerked it loose, and killed it with a club. It was then the fang was torn out.

The deceased young lady was the only surviving child of her father, whose wife and son met with violent deaths, the former dying from lock-jaw, caused by running a needle in her foot, and the latter having

GEN. M. C. BUTLER'S REPLY TO GOV. CHAM- A MOTHER AND HER TWO CHILDREN SUFFO-CATED TO DEATH. John E. Cameron, residing near Pittswork in a hay field some distance away. Soon after one of his children, a boy about nine years of age, conceived the idea of lowering his little sister, aged five years, into the kiln by means of a bucket and windlass used for that purpose. Acting upon this impulse, he induced the little she found herself at the bottom of the pit. The fire had by this time heated the stone. which emitted poisonous gas, and the little girl, tecoming alarmed, screamed to be drawn up. The boy tried to accomplish that feat, but not being able to do so, ran home and acquainted his mother and grandmother with the condition of affairs, both of whom hastened to the scene. Looking down into the pit the distracted mother saw her little daughter lying on the bottom, she having fallen out of the bucket, spring, she drew up the bucket and putting her son into it, left him down into the noxious pit, telling him to put his sister in soon as possible. The little Tellow succeed-ed in getting the body of his little sister into the bucket, and clinging to the side of it himself he was drawn up a few feet, when the gas overcame him and he fell back unconscious to the bottom. The bucket was drawn to the top and the body of the little girl quickly removed and laid the ground. Mrs. Cameron then told her mother-in-law, a lady nearly seventy years of age, that she must lower her into the kiln, as she must go down to res-cue her son. The old lady seized the crank weight was more than old Mrs. Cameron could control, and the crank slipped from her hands, and whirling around struck her senseless, on the ground. REMARKABLE EXPERIENCE WITH A RAT-TLESNAKE. - A Terrible Battle with the Reptiles .- A dispatch from Milford, Pa., dated July 54th, says that a four year-old son of a man named Riley, residing on the old Milford and Oswego turnpike, in Blooming Grove township, that county, came into the house on Saturday last, carrying a rattlesnake. He had one hand clasped tightly about its neck, and the other above its rattles. The mother of the child was ter rifled, and screamed to the boy to throw the snake on the floor, which he did. It coiled up in a second, and filled the room with the din of its rattles. Mrs. Riley seized a broom and soon dispatched the serpent. go after another one. Mrs. Riley summoned her husband from an adjoining field. He asked the child to show him where he got the snake. He led the way into the scrub oaks about a quarter of a mile from the road, to a small ledge of rock, in which there were many fissures. There, basking in the sun, the farmer saw dozens of rattlesnakes. He took his child in his arm and hurried away from the spot, Procuring the assistance of a hired man, the two, armed with flails, returned to the den. They attacked the serpents, threshing right and left. For five minutes the contest waged, the noise made by rattles of the snakes being almost deafening. Riley and his man killed twenty-one of the reptiles, and many escaped into the fissures in the rock. Riley's little boy had wandered alone to this dangerous place, and had captured the snake and taken it home. It was two feet and a haif long and had seven

THE MOLLIE MAGUIRES .-- Some Very Plain Talk from a Catholic Priest .- At first mass Sunday morning, in the Church of the Holy Infancy, South Bethlehem, the pastor, Rev. M. C. McEuroe, paid his comliments to the members of the South reward. Bethlehem division, Ancient Order of Hi-bernians, or "Molly Maguires." He said that recently one Sunday some of the members of the order went to the furnace at Freemansburg, took whiskey whith them, made drunk the workmen there, and then endeavored to induce them to join the accursed order. He named these men. The reverend gentleman reviewed the history of the order, and the same was not excessively flattering. He said the very constitution of the order was a fraud. It demanded that members must be Irishmen and Catholics, must commune once a year, and be honest, respectable citizens. Then naming half a dozen of the men prominent in the order bere, he asked, "Who that has been here for the past ten years has seen -, and so and so commune?" He scarcely saw how they claimed to be Catho-"Are they honest and reputable? Go to the shops and stores throughout the borough and see." Father McEnroe dwelt on the subject at length; gave the "Mollies" to understand that there could be no half way measures, no compromise; that he meant to follow them, that all true Irishmen would support him, and that, for one, he was not afraid of the dreaded "Mollie Magnires." The denunciation was as vehement as it was unexpected, and it has mollified the "Mollies" considerably .- Shenandoah (Pa.) Herald.

-By the swamping of a small steam yacht in the Hudson river, near Troy, N. Y., on Friday evening, Gregson Fox. Thomas Edgely, jr., Geo. Bloomfield, James Faulkner and Henry Maniche were drowned. Four others, who composed the party, were saved by swimming ashore. Edgely was drowned while attempting to

-In 1848 Ningara almost ran dry. Scribner's recalls the event. A mass of thick ice filled the point of Lake Erie from tastes of the frequenters of the which the Niagara river starts, damming the water effectually for nearly a whole day. The falls soon drained the river above leaving only a deep creek to run over the American side, and the British channel reduced

-The present is the fourth invasion of troops. Gen. Conner went there in 1865, and destroyed a village of hostile Cheyennes and Arapahoes. In 1866 Gen. Carrington entered the field, and left it with the Indians in charge; and in March last Gen. Crook led an expedition thither, which did not yield practical fruit.

-The Harrisburg Patriot states that the school department is now distributing the annual appropriation of $1,000,000 for the maintenance of the public schools of the State at the rate of from $20,000 to $25,000 a day. The amounts are sent to the various treasurers of the 2,100 school districts of the sailing master, who date in the State. -Two lads named John O'Brien and Robert Milner undertook to drive an express wagon at Englewood, N. J., on Tuesday, but the whiffletree broke, the horses ran away, the wagon was upset and a corbay of of vitriol was broken, scattering the fluid over the boys, burning both of them terri bly. O'Brien, it is thought, will die, if not already dead, and Milner will lose his eyes.

-The Globe Democrat's special from St. Joseph, Mo., says while James C. Cross was boating with five young girls on Centnoon, the boat was upset and all the girls drowned. Mr. Cross, while attempting to save his daughter, was seized with cramps, and was rescued only with great difficulty. The girls were from 7 to 16 years old, and were named Zetter, Kratt, Scitz, Cross, and Sumper.

-"The talk about making Mr. Evarts the Republican nominee for Governor of New York," says the Brooklyn Eagle, "is quite lively among the female seminary wing of the Republican party." "But, according to the Eagle, "the evidence that Mr. Evarts will support Hayes at all is wholly wanting. The evidence that he will be likely to support Tilden is not wanting, and it will probably be shown in a short time beyond mistake.'

-Steel freight cars are the latest and most important railroad novelty, the object being to make the cars lighter than the present wooden ones, and thus save the wear and tear of the rails. It is claimed that these steel freight cars can be made into the river and swimming away, under weighing not more than fifteen thousand pounds that will carry from twelve to fifteen tons of freight, and that by using steel trucks a car weighing twenty thousand pounds can be made to carry twenty-five exclusive of poultry. The live-stock judges tons of freight, and that steel passenger will make a general report of the origin, and freight, cars can be made stronger and
