Mr. Jencks has proved himself one of the ablest and most efficient men of the Pennsylvania delegation, and The Blaine men, if permitted to vote, could and would, at any time before the seventh ballot, have nominated him. They were the chances are greatly in favor of his reheld in complete restraint and duress, taking in fact no part in the contest, until Morton's, Conkling's, Hayes' and Bristow's HON. BLUFORD WILSON, late Solicifriends had fully tested their ability to unite tor of the Treasury, appeared on on any one of themselves, and finally came to an agreement to vote as they pleased, Thursday last before the House committee on the St Louis whisky trials when the slaves were let loose from their slave baracoon, and where their votes were and told in very plain terms all that rendered worthless during their confinehe knew about the "true inwardness" ment. nomination-with 121 delegates to be held in hand, as Don Cameron held the votes of Pennsylvania, to be transferred on the final ballot to Hayes, the candidate held by the gold gamblers, free-traders, and the dependants of the Grant dynasty now and then in possession of the power and offices of

Cameron and Bristow, was set up to keep Blaine from carrying New York, and held its delegates in hand for transfer to Hayes, So was Hartranft used to hold in hand the delegates from Pennsylvania, a vast majority of whose people were really for Blaine.

But by a trick, unpracticed by any other State in the Union, the whole State representation were deprived of the right to vote and Don Cameron, the autocrat of the hour, held their ballots in his hand, and, as if they were so many plantation negroes, voted for them as their master and owner, and sold them as the auctioneer of a slave baracoon.

Was Gov. Hartrauft a participant in this national swindle, or was he the dupe of Cameron ? Has he played the fool or the knave? Has he permitted his name to be used, h mself a soft money and tariff man -the embodiment of Penusylvania's interests and policy-to foist Hayes, a freetrader and hard money man, into the Presidency? Why should he do so? Hayes has less national standing and no more intellect or experience than Hart: and yet, instead of a soft money protectionist, has been used to destroy Blaine, a Pennsylvanian by birth, and in principle and policy a Pennsylvanian, to foist into the Presidency a free trader and an immediate specie resumptionist-a New Yorker in principle-in place of a Pennsylvanian. New York hates Pennsylvania. She hates her "pig iron" policy, as she derisively styles it. It was only a few weeks ago that Hayes emphatically declared he was opposed to the repeal of the resumption actthat his only objection to it was that it was not sufficiently stringent, and did not compel the Secretary of the Treasury to enforce specie payments immediately. He wishes no delay of the crushing power of the screw press, even if, as it comes upon our people with its crushing power, it forces the blood through every pore of our bodies.

HIS POSITION AS THE CHOICE OF CAMERON, CONKLING, AND MORTON-DEMAND OF INDEPENDENTS THAT HE SHOULD REPU-DIATE THEM.

To the Editor of the N. Y. Tribune : Sin-In behalf of Republican voters around me who desire reform in the administration of public affairs, I venture to ask Gov. Hayes, through you, for some stronger assurance than his letter of acceptance gives, that he will have an administration free from those abuses which need reform. As the party now stands, no liv-ing man, no matter what his private character may be, can come before this country as the choice of such men as Cameron, Conkling, Blaine, and Grant, and be regarded as in any sense a reformer. With such men around him what can he do? Honest as he may be, no platform, no pledges that he can give, are worth the paper they are written upon. The Camerons, the Mortons, the Blaines, and the Conklings will reign over us again, and merely use his good name for their bad The honest voters in the Republican party want honest men in all high and low places too. We want the party leaders openly repudiated. Does Gov. Hayes dare to do this? Does he dare to denonnce these men? Does he dare to cut loose from them, and give us and them positive assurance that his Cabinet will be filled with such men as Bristow, Charles Francis Adams, and others whom the people can trust, chosen from the parrow limits of no party, but from the honest and capable of all parties. Now is the time for him to do this, and to prove himself the man for the times. After he has been elected as the tool of these men-which Heaven forbidthe honor common among thieves would forbid him from repudiating them, and he must become one of them ; and they would share the spoils with him, Governor, do you see it in that light? I do. And I am only one of thousands and thousands of poor, houest tax-burdened, heart-sick farmers. The Democratic pariy has set Republicans a good example. They mean re-form. Theirs is not idle talk. But loth as I am to confess it, the country has from them better assurance of good honest gov ernment than Hayes can possibly give, unless he is bold enough to cut loose from Grant and the whole ship's crew of them, and trust himself to the tide of nonest indignation which can only bear the next President into the "White House," and remove the robber tyrant's hand from the honest freeman's purse. Very respectfully yours. HONEST VOTER.

Four men were working in the pit, William Eisenhart, John Eisenhart (a son of the former), Robert Campbell and Joseph Neale. As soon as the smoke had been dissipated a number of men entered the mine and found the dead bodies of three of the four. John Eisenhart, a lad of four. teen years, was alive but frightfully burned, and is perhaps dead by this time. It was thought he could not possibly recover. The bodies were all badly burned except that of W. M. Eisenhart. It is supposed he inhaled flames, as the body was not disfigured in the least.

The bodies were taken to their respective places of residence, and yesterday morning Coroner M'Callin held an inquest, at which a verdict of accidental death was rendered. It is supposed that the accident was caused by the lamp carried by Neale, who was a "trapper" in the pit, his duty being to attend to the ventilation.
