The Wonderful Sait Mountains of Necada.

One mile from the ferry the Virgin river comes in from the north, and on and near it is, perhaps, the most wonderful and extensive salt formation on the continent. The formation is, in fact, one of the mountains of salt-hard rock sait, which is blasted and quarried out like quarries of granite and marble, Commencing six miles up the Virgin river, these mountains of salt extend for thirty or more miles up the Virgin or Muddy rivers. There are openings now made from six to twenty miles up the Virgin river at different places. From six to twelve miles up, these openings uncover a species of dark gray salt, ninety-two per cent. pure, presenting to the casual observer the appearance of common coarse grav granite. The openings are all on the castern side of the Virgin river, from one-fourth to one-half mile from its banks. At a point twenty miles up the river and on the western side, is a mountain of pure white crystalized salt, white as the driven snow, and transparent almost as glass. It is at once a pleasing and interesting spectacle to see the great masses of crystal-like sait, as thrown out by a three or four foot blast. These pure and beautiful blocks resemble somewhat blocks of the purest ice when prepared for the ice house. Upon placing a mass of six inches thick over a column of a newspaper, the fine print could be easily read.

The formation of the salt deposit is, no doubt very ancient, dating back in years beyond computation. Long since the deposits were made, the great upheavel and earthquake eras have occurred, which have changed the whole appearance of the country for great distances around. These salt bluffs or distance by the peculiar colo: of the surface, which is of a reddish orange color. Underneath this formation, as sedimentary granite. I found sufficient evidence to warrant assumption that veins of valuable mica will yet be discovered in or near the salt formation. The whole country is deserving of thorough investigation by the miner, prospector and the student.

Another very interesting natural curiosity visited and examined here is a natural salt well, a mile northwest of the ferry. It is on a mesa which extends up and down the river on its formation of small pebbles and boul-

A farmer in Maine, who had a large cornfield in which the grain was just LONDON HAIR COLOR RESTORER. sprouting above the soil, was greatly annoyed by the depredations of crows, LONDON HAIR COLOR RESTORER. which used to congregate in great numbers in a clump of trees near the boundary wall, and after vociferonsly talking the matter over for a while, swoop down among the spreading rows. This was some years ago, before farmers and others had learned that the crow more than pays his board by destroving the insects which are more expensive pensioners upon the agriculturist than crows; and the farmer vowed vengeance upon the compullers, and laid in wait for them often and long without success. In the center of the cornfield was a small board shanty, and the farmer noticed that whenever he was in this building, although he was quite concealed from the crows, they would never come down to be shot. As soon as he left the field, however, they would come down by hundreds.

They could evidently count one .-The idea occurred to him to test their further skill in mathematics. The next day he took his son to the shanty, and after a time sent him home, thinking that after the crows had seen one person leave the field, they would suppose the danger past, and come down. But they wisely kept aloof, and not until after he had himself started for home did they venture to alight in the

The next day he took two persons with him with the same result; first one person left the field, then another, the crows cawing their approval, but remaining in their safe position, and not until the third person had been seen to depart from the field would the cunning creatures trust themselves within gunshot of the little building. The next day half a dozen persons went back across the field. The crows mentioned the fact among themselves, but kept their distance among the trees. Another person went away with the same result. Directly a third emerged and disappeared. The unhappy crows having reached the end of their mathematical rope, came down in platoons

Since the introduction of this truty valuable preparation into this country, it has been the wonder and admiration of all classes, as it has proved to be the only article that will absolutely, without deception, restore gray hair to its original color, health, softness, lustre and heau-ty, and produce hair on bald heads of its original growth and color.

DR. SWAYNE & SON.-Respected Friends; I have the bonor to inform you that a lady of my acquaintance, Mrs. Miller, is delighted with the success of your "London Hair Color Restorer." Her hair was failing rapidly, and quite gray. The color has been restored, the failing off en-tirely stopped, and a new grawth of hair is the result. E. E. The well is a large circular opening in the mesa some three hundred feet in circumference, with abrupt descent to the surface of the well, which is tifty feet below the surface. The water is exceedingly salty, far more so than any salt spring, and has been sounded to a depth of one hundred and thirty-nine feet. It is a splendid natural salt bath, in which the bather floats almost as buoyantly as a cork upon a pool of water. From a careful examination of all the surroundings, I feel confident that this interesting salt well is all that is left of a once great salt lake, which, in the lapse of time, has been filled in by the drift formation only leaving in the market at 25 per cent, less than the present opening as an evidence of its former existence.-Exchange.

CANINE SAGACITY --- Talk of sagacity in the canine breed? A friend of ours owns a dog which he has possessed since the animal knew enough to wag its tail. It is an English bulldog, with an extraordinory fine sense. He no longer is the same dog; jealous and irritable to a great degree, he repels all advances from all save a few chosen friends, and in numerous ways evinces the fact that he keenly feels the usurpation of his place in the affections of the family, and understands that his nose is really "out of joint" in that particular house.
